Florida State

THE BEST IN COLLEGE BASEBALL

Florida State's Metro Conference title in only its first year in the league really came as no surprise to those who know college baseball. Long a dominant force not only in the southeast but from coast to coast, the baseball Seminoles year in and year out live up to the tradition of "The Best In College Baseball."

Florida's State's most recent trip to the College World Series in 1975 marked the sixth time within the last 20 seasons the Seminoles have reached that pinnacle of collegiate baseball. They are one of just a half dozen teams to make that many trips to the Series, and since they have done it by coming out of what most followers of college ball around the country call "the toughest region in the nation" it only underscores FSU's longstanding tradition.

Florida State's baseball excellence is widely recognized around the nation. Many Seminole players are recommended to FSU coaches from pro scouts who have said, "If there is a boy who is determined to get an education before turning pro, we do not hesitate to recommend Florida State. He is going to get as much or more training and experience there as he will anywhere in the country." High school and junior college coaches are also well aware of the Florida State program and the Seminole roster generally reflects this fact with young players from every part of the nation.

For the Florida State athlete, baseball has a year round season. The mild Florida winters make it possible for the Seminoles to begin work upon arrival in the fall and continue through June. In the summer there are almost always openings for Florida State players in the many collegiate leagues and teams from Alaska to Cape Cod. Florida State's "fall season" commences with the opening of classes and concludes with the annual "Oldtimers Game" against the alumni at Homecoming. Although the emphasis is on instruction during this period, a schedule of 30 informal games is played. An extensive conditioning program continues into December.

Following the holiday break, practice resumes early in January as preparations are made for the upcoming spring season. The preseason practice sessions are highlighted by the appearance of the many pro ballplayers who stop by on their way to spring training at major league campsites downstate. Many of these players are former Seminoles and offer invaluable tips and coaching to current players. Of course, even without this "bonus coaching" the Florida State player receives the finest tutoring anywhere. Throughout the years, Florida State has had the nation's finest coaching staffs.

A 60 to 70 game schedule begins in late February or the first of March. Many of their District III rivals are ranked annually with the Seminoles among the nation's top 20 teams and established series with these clubs creates a schedule second to none.

Once the spring collegiate season is over and final exams are through, many Florida State players head for the summer leagues and independent semi-pro teams around the country. In past years many Seminole players have had the opportunity to travel internationally with United States All-Star teams in South and Central America, Europe and Japan. In all, it is not unusual for a Florida State player to have the opportunity to perform in more than 150 games a year.

All this opportunity to play does not mean there is not an emphasis on academics. Florida State's athletic program includes an outstanding academic advisement office that is prepared to meet just about any need the student-athlete may have, from schedule advisement to tutoring. Academic counselors and coaches are not only interested in seeing the athlete remains eligible to play, but also that he is making genuine progress toward a degree.

Facilities are another big factor in the Seminoles' program. Few colleges can boast of the on-campus facilities at Florida State. Seminole Field is the site of all Florida State home games. Night games have become a part of the "campus life" since lights were erected in the mid-1960's. A new all-electric 'pro-style' scoreboard is now in operation. The field itself is equivalent to many of the finest minor league parks. It is kept in top condition year round by the FSU Department of Grounds under the supervision of Bruce Nelson and Hugh and Robert Barrett. In addition to the main field, the Seminoles also have at their disposal, two additional full diamonds, along with several batting cages, pitching mounds and pitching machines.

Seminole coaches in all sports call Florida State fans, "the finest anywhere" and that is certainly true in baseball as the Seminoles are supported by large enthusiastic groups of campus and community fans at nearly every game. The average home attendance in 1977 was nearly 2,000 people per game and often the 3,300 seat bleachers were filled to capacity. But fan support does not stop with home game attendance, many follow the Tribe to away games as well. A Seminole Dugout Club has been formed by one group of long time followers and enthusiastic student fans have formed their own "bleacher bums" sections.

WOODY WOODWARD HEAD COACH

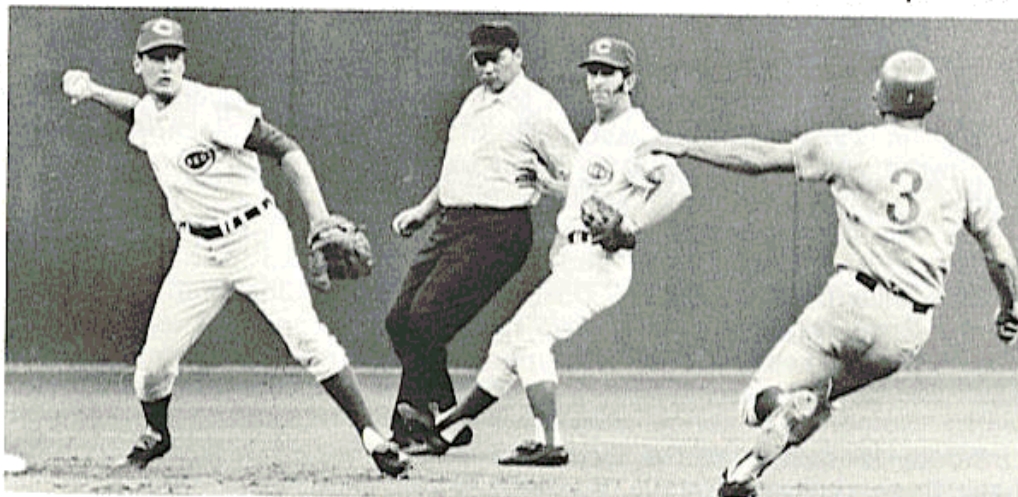

In only three seasons at the head of Florida State's fast-moving baseball program, Woody Woodward has caught more than a casual eye from baseball people everywhere. His 126-39 record over those three seasons speaks for itself. He also has to his credit a trip to the College World Series in 1975, a spin in the South Region Tournament in '76 and a Metro Conference Championship in 1977 (Florida State's first year in the league).

The fast start by the former big-league shortstop in the college ranks has had the 34-year-old Miami native's phone ringing constantly. Just this past summer he declined an offer by the St. Louis Cardinals to manage their AAA club in the American Association. One reason for his appeal is his ability to turn out pros. An amazing 18 Seminoles have signed professional contracts since Woodward took the helm.

Getting off to fast starts is nothing new to the former Seminole All-American. Following the 1963 College World Series, where he was named to the all-tournament team, Woody virtually stepped from the ranks of college ball to the major leagues. A nine-year big league career saw him play for the Braves (in both Milwaukee and Atlanta) and the Reds.

When he took over the Florida State coaching job in the late summer of 1974, Woodward was well aware of the challenge that lay before him in maintaining the calibre program that Florida State baseball represented. As a player he helped lead the Seminoles to a record two straight College World Series appearances and in 1963 was named All-America at Shortstop.

Later as an alumnus he kept close ties with the University and its baseball program. He was a frequent visitor to Seminole practices during the off-season as he returned to his Tallahassee home and to work on his master's degree. But his contribution went beyond his "coaching appearances" with a donation of part of his rookie bonus to establish a fund to install lights at Seminole field. Later he played a principal role in organizing the Varsity-Alumni Game which has become a tradition at Florida State's Homecoming celebration each fall.

Woodward came to Florida State in the fall of 1959 after graduating from Coral Gables High School. Following the 1963 College World Series, he signed a bonus contract with the then Milwaukee Braves. The 1963 Florida Amateur Baseball Player of the Year was initially assigned to the Braves AAA farm team, but before the conclusion of the 1963 season, he was brought up to Milwaukee. He was with Milwaukee in 1964 and '65 and moved with the club to Atlanta in 1966.

In 1968 Woodward was traded to Cincinnati and played there until retiring in 1971. "The biggest thrill of my professional career," says Woodward who still appears to be in top playing shape, "was being a starter in the 1970 World Series against Baltimore."

His two best seasons in the pros were 1966 in Atlanta when he batted .269 in 142 games and 1967 when he led National League second basemen in fielding. During his stay at Cincinnati he served as the Reds Player Representative. Since leaving pro ball as an active player, he has kept in touch with many of his former teammates and in 1974-75 he served as a broadcaster for the Cincinnati television network.

Woody is married to the former Pamela Terrell of Jacksonville. They have three children, Natalie, 9, Emily, 7 and Matt, 2.

MIKE MARTIN

ASSISTANT COACH

After three seasons as a part-time assistant to Woody Woodward, Mike Martin joins the staff this season as a full-time Seminole. While his job description read part-time since 1975, his efforts have been round-the-clock since he came back to his alma mater when Woodward took over the helm.

In his role as chief recruiter and third base coach for the Seminoles, Martin teamed with Woodward for a winning combination that has put Florida State baseball right at the top among college baseball's elite. The blend between the two is an important ingredient in the Seminole's success.

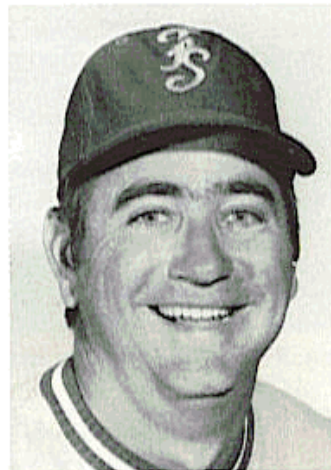

Like Woodward, Martin was well aware of the Florida State tradition in baseball when he assumed coaching duties, having played for the Seminoles during the 1960's.

Mike enjoyed a two-year career at Florida State in 1965-66 after coming to the Seminoles from Wingate Junior College where he earned JC All-America honors for two straight years. At Florida State, Mike established himself as an outstanding outfielder and was named to the All-District team in 1966. Following his graduation from Florida State, the Charlotte, N.C. native had a three-year professional career in the Mets and Tiger organizations before returning to teach and coach in Tallahassee area schools.

His coaching experience included several seasons as basketball and baseball coach at the junior high level, then a year as Head Basketball Coach at Tallahassee Community College and finally a four-year stint as Basketball Coach at Godby High School in Tallahassee.

During this period Mike continued to work with baseball at all levels and developed a close association with Woodward as director of the Woody Woodward Baseball Camp since 1970. In addition to his coaching duties with the Seminoles, Mike also coaches the Tallahassee Federals, the local semi-pro summer team, has served as the Commissioner of the NBC for the State of Florida and was the director of the State NBC Championship Tournament played at Florida State's Seminole Field in 1976.

A 1966 graduate of Florida State, Mike earned his master's degree in 1971 at Florida A&M University. He and his wife Carol have three children, Mary Beth, 8, Mike, Jr., 5 and Melanie, 2.

FSU CAPTAINS

Seniors Greg Jones and Brooks Carey have been selected as the captains for the 1978 Seminole baseball team. Jones, an infielder from Tallahassee Godby High School and Carey is a lefthanded pitcher from Key West. Both are in their fourth year with the Florida State program.

Seminole Machine Turns Out Pros

BY ROBERT MASHBURN

Ft. Lauderdale Sun-Sentinel

Seven pitchers, four outfielders, five infielders and three catchers. That's the scorecard of professional players Woody Woodward has turned out in three years as the head of Florida State's baseball program.

Nine players from Woodward's first two seasons are working steadily up the ladder in the minor leagues. And of the 10 players in last year's bumper crop, most are off to fast starts after their rookie season.

The 1977 Seminole team got off to a slow-start, and, for the first time in Woodward's short coaching career, FSU failed to earn a post-season playoff invitation. But even so, the coach says his players' early success in the pro ranks comes as no surprise.

"I knew the ability and talent was there all along," he says, "and I guess this proves it. Injuries hurt us early in the year, but later in the season we were playing excellent baseball. I still say it was a complete injustice that we failed to receive a bid."

The Seminoles did play well late in the year, winning the Metro 7 title in their first year of league competition. But, to Woodward's surprise, that and a 37-13 record weren't enough to impress the NCAA selection committee.

The nine players off the '77 squad join four from the '76 team and five from the '75 team now playing pro ball. Fifteen of those 19 were teammates on the 1975 squad that earned a trip to the College World Series.

In addition, there are our players from the pre-Woodward years still active in the pro ranks.

Eight players off the '77 team started their pro careers with a bang last June. Two others, infielders Guillermo Bonilla and Joe Hicks, will make their bids this spring.

Though last year's stars all had fast starts, Woodward says he's wary of becoming "overly excited."

"You've got to realize that their careers are just beginning," he said. "I'm certainly happy they're off to a good start — that's much easier than having to struggle from the very beginning — but you can't get too excited after just one short season."

Among the three pitchers off the '77 team, Mike McLeod and Jackie Smith had the fastest starts. Pitching for the New York Yankees Class A Team in Oneonta, N. Y., McLeod ran up a 9-2 record and 2.91 earned run average. That earned him a spot on the New York — Penn League all-star squad.

Smith, playing for the Chicago White Sox, started at their rookie league team in Sarasota and was 5-1 with a 1.54 ERA. Transferred to Appleton, Wis., Smith handled the Class A league with a 5-1 mark and 1.98 ERA.

At the end of the season, he was shipped to the White Sox Class AAA club in Des Moines, Iowa. In two relief appearances, he pitched 5 $\frac{2}{3}$ innings and was saddled with two losses.

Larry Jones, the winningest pitcher in FSU history, also started at the Class A level. In 11 starts for the Baltimore Orioles' Florida State League team in Miami, he compiled a 7-4 mark and a 2.96 ERA. He had four complete games, and threw a total of 76 innings.

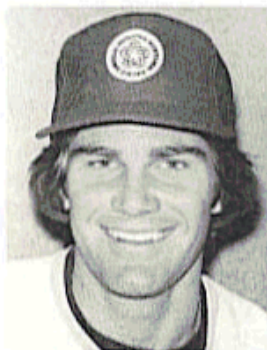

Catcher Terry Kennedy, who drew a large bonus when the St. Louis Cardinals made him their first-round pick, had a fantastic start at Johnson City, Tenn., in the Appalachian rookie league.

In 12 games there, he pounded out 23 hits in 39 at-bats (a .590 average), hit three homers and drove in 15 runs. He scored 14 times while drawing 12 walks and striking out only three times.

The Cards quickly advanced him to their Class A team in St. Petersburg where he leveled off after a fast start. His final average was .247 in 45 games. He had four home runs and 22 runs batted in.

Rick McGlone, another catcher off the '77 squad, played his first season at the Kansas City Royals' rookie league team in Sarasota. In 42 games, he hit for a .257 average.

Outfielder Jim McArdle, who wasn't drafted but latched on with the Cincinnati Reds at a tryout camp, hit an even .300 at a rookie league team in Billings, Montana. In 64 games, he had 17 extra base hits and 37 runs batted in.

PROS...

First baseman Ben Curry faced McLeod several times during the season, playing for the Cleveland Indians' Class A team in Batavia, N. Y. Playing behind all-star first baseman Sal Rende, he still managed to hit .282 in 24 games. Three of his 20 hits were home runs, and he had 10 runs batted in.

Outfielder Carlos Lezcano was the most advanced off the '77 team, starting at the Chicago Cubs' Class AA team in Midland, Texas. In 71 games, he had a .231 average.

Bonilla, who owns almost every Florida State hitting record, was signed by the Indians in January. The hard-hitting infielder played almost four full seasons before being declared ineligible late last season because of a mix-up involving his grade transcripts from Puerto Rico.

Hicks was chosen in the first round of the January draft by the Cubs. After two strong seasons at FSU, he dropped out due to grades, but the Cubs were quick to grab the hard-hitting first baseman.

As a freshman, Hicks led the Seminoles with a .391 average, and followed with a .367 mark his sophomore season.

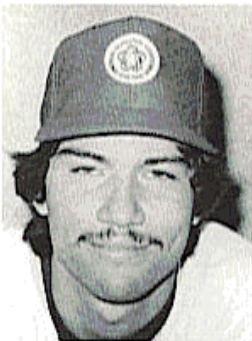

Players off the '76 Florida State team now in the pros include pitcher Craig Eaton (Kansas City), catcher Joe Griffin (Cincinnati), pitcher Bob Mayer (Cincinnati) and infielder Jeff Hardy (Chicago Cubs).

The 1975 World Series team boasts the most advanced players. Pitcher Larry Rothschild tops the list (Cincinnati, Class AAA). Outfielder Jim Busby (Pittsburgh), second baseman Randy Davidson (Cincinnati), and pitcher Danny O'Brien (St. Louis) are all in Class AA.

Outfielder Steve Tebbetts finished the season with the California Angel's Class A team.

Among the players who passed through Florida State before Woodward became head coach, Johnny Grubb is the most notable. The outfielder off the 1970 team is a regular for the Cleveland Indians.

Others include pitcher Mac Scarce (Cincinnati, Class AAA); outfielder Dave Moates (New York Yankees, Class AAA) and Jim Lyttle (now playing in Japan).

HAVE BAT, WILL TRAVEL

A spot on the baseball team at Florida State University has become a ticket to world travel as the Seminoles wing their way from coast to coast to display their college baseball skills. It was Hawaii in 1977 and this year Las Vegas.

Last season the baseball Seminoles were a part of the longest and most glamorous road trip in Florida State athletic history. That trip took Woody Woodward's club to the sands of Oahu in America's 50th state to compete in the annual Hawaii Easter Tournament.

The trans-world journey in 1977 looked like a small step, however, when compared to the giant leap the FSU baseball program took with a second-place finish in the prestigious event. In doing so, the Tribe won their last five games in a row, including victories over powerhouse Southern Cal and the host Hawaii Rainbows. At the time, those two clubs were ranked seventh and ninth, respectively.

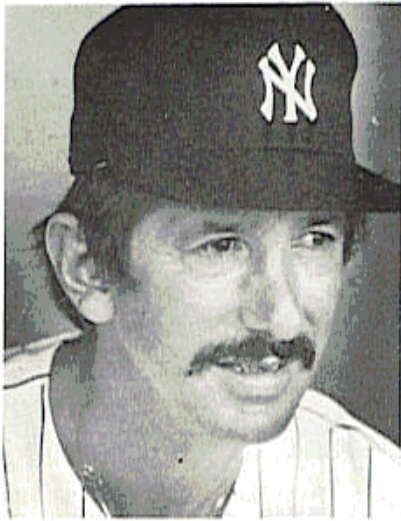

The University of Hawaii won the championship with a 7-1 record in the week-long event at the Honolulu campus with Florida State second at 6-2. Highly-regarded Southern California finished third with a 4-4 mark, Nevada-Las Vegas was fourth at 3-5 and Kearney State of Nebraska failed to win in eight tries. The Seminoles actually had a chance to finish in a tie for the title had they not dropped a heart-stopping 5-4 decision in a record 15 innings to the host Rainbows before nearly 3,000 fans on the tourney's opening night.

But squeezed around the magnificent college baseball, Florida State players and over 100 alumni and friends spent eight glorious days enjoying the sights in beautiful Hawaii. It was a trip that will live long in the memories of those who were a part of it and already plans are in the works for a return to the Hawaii tournament at the soonest possible opportunity.

But, this year it's Las Vegas for the Seminoles.

In mid-April of this year, the Nevada-Las Vegas Rebels will welcome Florida State for a five-day swing to the entertainment capital of the world. Once again, it will be a busy trip for the players as they'll play five games over the period but already plans have been formulated for some entertainment packages that the Seminoles will never forget. What better way to spend a weekend in the Spring but in Las Vegas?

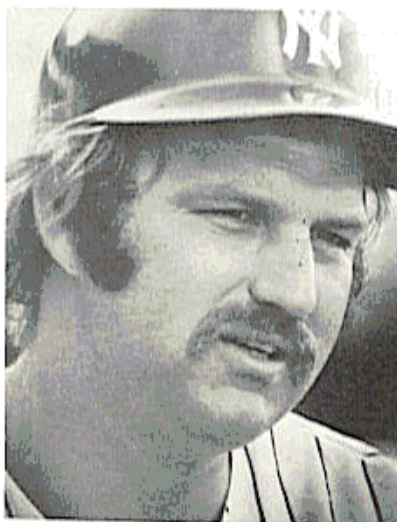

It's just another stop for the Seminoles' "nationally reknown" baseball program.

FLORIDA STATE ENTERTAINS WORLD CHAMPION YANKEES

What does Florida State have in common with the Baltimore Orioles, the Boston Red Sox, the Detroit Tigers, the Cleveland Indians, the Milwaukee Brewers, the Toronto Blue Jays, the Kansas City Royals, the Texas Rangers, the Chicago White Sox, the Minnesota Twins, the California Angels, the Seattle Mariners and the Oakland A's?

They'll all be hosting the World Champion New York Yankees in 1978!

That's right, Billy Martin will bring the World Champion Yankees to Seminole Field for a game on April 5. It looks to be one of the most exciting baseball afternoons in Tallahassee history as the Yanks make a quick visit on their way to Arlington, Tex., for the season opener with the Texas Rangers.

That nifty piece of scheduling means Seminole fans will be able to see all of the Yankee stars in action as they'll be down to their final 25-man roster. And what better team to bring to Tallahassee. The list of Yankee superstars goes on and on.

Who can forget that dramatic World Series performance by Reggie Jackson, the sensational season of Thurman Munson and Mickey Rivers and the power hitting of Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss. How about that pitching staff with the likes of Don Gullett, Catfish Hunter, Ron Guidry, Sparky Lyle and the newly acquired Rich Gossage.

Well, they'll all be here on April 5 when the Seminoles meet the New York Yankees. The game will also present a chance for all Seminole fans to salute Yankee third base coach Dick Howser, a former Florida State All-America who has done so much for major league baseball. Howser has become one of the most respected baseball men in the game today.

And speaking of respected baseball men, what about that Yankee coaching staff. Aside from the fiery Billy Martin and Howser, the Seminoles will also welcome Yogi Berra, who played in a record 14 World Series' and managed in two others, and everyone's favorite Elston Howard. He played in 10 Series himself and was the 1963 American League's Most Valuable Player.

It will certainly be a day that no one will want to miss and one which will long be remembered in the annals of Florida State's rich baseball history.

Metro Conference Carnival Coming To Florida State

After sweeping three of four championships in the 1977 Metro Conference spring sports tournament, Florida State has been chosen to host the 1978 event which includes track, tennis, golf and baseball.

Coach Woody Woodward and the baseball Seminoles are particularly happy to be able to boast the fine facilities for the Metro baseballers which include Cincinnati, Memphis State, Louisville, Tulane, Georgia Tech and St. Louis. The double-elimination event gets underway May 11 and runs through the 14th on the FSU campus.

This year, for the first time, a Metro championship carries with it an automatic bid to the NCAA regional baseball tournament. This means there will be plenty at stake for all seven teams that will battle in Tallahassee.

Last year's tournament, held in Memphis, provided many thrills for all baseball fans as the Seminoles rolled to the title in only their first year in the league. The Tribe defeated Tulane in the tournament final to bring their overall record to 37-13. Four Seminoles were named to the All-Metro team after the tournament and FSU catcher Terry Kennedy was named the Most Valuable Player as well as sharing the honor for Best Athlete out of the four-sport weekend. FSU golfer Kenny Knox took a portion of that honor.

Those Seminoles on the All-Metro team with Kennedy were designated hitter Joe Hicks, right fielder Chip Bifano and pitcher Larry Jones. Also on the same weekend, Florida State teams won championships in golf and track and finished a respectable third in the tennis competition.

This year's tournament should be even more exciting with the six other Metro schools gunning for the Seminoles on their home ground. The Metro tournament makes for an exciting weekend for all sports fans with plenty of action taking place simultaneously all within a few minutes of each other.

Florida State's connection with the Metro began back in the summer of 1976 when the Seminoles became the seventh member of the prestigious conference. Started primarily for basketball, the Metro Conference can now boast some of the nation's finest teams in virtually all sports. Championships are held each year in basketball, baseball cross country, golf, swimming, tennis and track.

5-10 165

Columbus, Georgia

This freshman has lots of potential to play right away . . . has blazing speed which makes him valuable both in the outfield and on the basepaths . . . was the outstanding athlete at Hardaway High School in Columbus . . . learning to hit lefthanded to take advantage of great speed . . . is a better than average hitter from his natural right side . . . will provide excellent depth this year if he doesn't get in the starting lineup.

OUTFIELDER

Junior 21

5-10 180

LaGrange Park, Illinois

Had an excellent season at Pensacola Junior College in 1977 . . . made some big strides in the Fall toward winning a starting job in the outfield . . . runs well and has a strong arm making him a good defensive player . . . needs to come through at the plate to help this year's team . . . has best tools as an outfielder of anyone on club.

10

THIRD BASEMAN
Senior 21
5-9 175
Tallahassee, Florida

After two years as a utility man he has a strong shot at the starting third base slot . . . will battle Doug Casey for that job . . . great athlete who can play every position on the field . . . filled in capably in the outfield and at second and third last season . . . came to Florida State from Godby High School primarily for football but has now turned complete attention to baseball . . . a true hustler with great desire to play the game . . . capable of making things happen on the field.

22

CATCHER
Junior 21
6-0 200
Kirkwood, Missouri

Charged with shoring up the depleted catching slot for the Seminoles . . . a highly-touted junior college transfer from South Florida . . . was among the leading hitters in the state last year with a .417 average . . . had an amazing 58 runs batted in just 38 games . . . best defensive asset is a very strong throwing arm . . . has been selected in the pro draft three times including being tabbed No. 1 by both the Cubs and the Reds.

JIM MILLER
PITCHER
Junior 20
5-10 175
Jacksonville, Florida

Despite limited action in 1977 he produced the lowest ERA on the staff at 2.07 . . . has been steady since joining the Seminoles but has never really cracked the starting rotation . . . should see most of his action out of the bullpen this season . . . will be called on for an occasional spot start . . . has the tools to be an effective college pitcher . . . anxious to learn and a good team player.

DON MILNER
INFIELDER
Junior 20
5-11 205
Quincy, Florida

Transferred to Florida State from George Wallace Junior College in Dothan, Alabama . . . big and strong at the plate . . . should provide plenty of power especially since he is a lefthanded hitter . . . will probably see some action at first base and designated hitter . . . was a real find this summer when he led the semi-pro Tallahassee Federals in home runs . . . has good speed for a big man and a great attitude.

15

FIRST BASEMAN
Junior 20
6-3 190
Columbus, Georgia

Will be converted from third to first base this season . . . was a pleasant surprise at the plate last season providing some good power . . . may become even more of a threat at his new position . . . has handled the change well defensively . . . transferred to Florida State from Chipola Junior College in Marianna, Florida after a good season there . . . hit .289 with eight homers last year as a third baseman.

Junior 20
6-1 200
Cincinnati, Ohio

Had a 2-0 record last season in limited action as a sophomore . . . has shown some promise in spots . . . has the potential to become a big winner as a starter or as a reliever . . . his biggest asset is his knowledge of the game and a great attitude . . . is a smart pitcher who uses his pitches well . . . very coachable individual who works hard to improve . . . could figure prominently on this year's staff.

SECOND BASEMAN
Junior 21
5-9 170
Western Spring, Illinois

A second baseman with great potential . . . highly-touted player who is a transfer from Pensacola Junior College . . . knows what he's doing at the plate as evidenced by state junior college batting title with phenomenal .474 average in '77 . . . is a seasoned player who will do well in major college baseball . . . strongest suit at the plate is his ability to hit to all fields . . . combines with Bob Benda for excellent double play combination.

32

Junior 21
6-1 175
Decatur, Georgia

Led the Dekalb South Junior College team to the national finals last year with a perfect 10-0 record . . . and had three more wins in the playoffs . . . ranked fifth in the nation in ERA with a mere 1.39 mark . . . has excellent stuff and pinpoint control . . . he walked only 15 batters last season while striking 73 in 77 innings . . . played one season at Georgia Southern before time at Dekalb . . . extremely hard worker who is anxious to improve . . . could battle to become the ace of this staff.

Sophomore 19
5-9 156
Burlington, New Jersey

Saw a fair amount of reserve action in the outfield last season as a freshman . . . played in 12 games last year and batted a cool .313 . . . gained some experience over the summer with the semi-pro Tallahassee Federals and should be in contention for a starting job this season . . . has a good arm and needs only to improve fundamentally in the outfield to become a super defensive player . . . pretty good speed on the basepaths . . . will get better with time.

23

Junior 20
6-0 170
Atlanta, Georgia

Another player from the Dekalb South team . . . was one of that club's leading hitters all the way to the finals . . . got a long look in the Fall and should be one of many in contention for the starting outfield positions . . . was an all-state and all-region selection . . . was a winter pick of the Seattle Mariners and was the first player ever selected by that organization in the draft . . . another hard worker with good tools.

Junior 21
5-11 190
Dothan, Alabama

Was a teammate of Don Milner at George Wallace Junior College . . . a versatile athlete who can play virtually any position . . . has gotten a good look at first and third base as well as the outfield . . . is an exceptional hitter who could provide some punch for the Florida State offense . . . he is a powerful hitter who bats from the left side . . . might play vital role as utility man this season.

SEMINOLES IN CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY

Florida State has won six championships since 1957 in the region generally considered the toughest overall in the country. The merit of that accomplishment is best noted in the fact that only one other team has been able to win as many as three titles during that period. The Seminoles' 41 victories are the third most recorded in NCAA Championship play and only six teams in the nation can match their half dozen trips to the College World Series.

The University

THIS IS FLORIDA STATE

Florida State University witnessed several milestones in the academic year 1976-77, celebrating its 30th anniversary and receiving a new president who envisions FSU as one of the top twenty institutions in the future.

The Board of Regents named Bernard F. Sliger president on Feb. 7, and on June 10 — just one day before 6,000 graduates received their degrees — Dr. Sliger was inaugurated as Florida State's 10th president.

"I am confident that with the support, assistance and encouragement of students, faculty, alumni, citizens and friends, the University will use its distinguished tradition as a sound base upon which to build an equally distinguished future," President Sliger said at his inauguration. The immediate past was a mixture of hope and caution, a year of austerity as well as bold new projects.

Construction work, for instance, continued, on such projects as the Diffenbaugh Building renovation and the new College of Education. On Nov. 14, the University dedicated its completed $2.2 million School of Nursing complex, and the ground was broken this year for a new $5.3 million music annex.

And, after five years of work and planning, the 1977 legislature funded the $4.4 million Center for Continuing Education, a center that will serve the professional and educational needs of government leaders, businessmen, and just about every sector of community life.

Research programs and academic achievements did not take a back seat either. Thanks to money provided by the Lilly Endowment, the Charles MacArthur Center for the American Theater produced and taped a television production of S. N. Behrman's "End of Summer" starring Helen Hayes, which was telecast last spring on the PBS program "Theater in America." Grants continue to support University labors — the Agency for International Development awarded FSU a $790,000 contract for studies of adult education radio programs in South America and the University's Center for the Study of Southern Culture and Religion earned $104,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation.

Individual achievements were equally stellar. Herbert J. Taylor, professor of biological science, became the sixth Florida member of the National Academy of Sciences, one of the most distinguished honors awarded in the scientific profession. Novelist-in-residence Janet Burroway published "Raw Silk," which garnered glowing reviews from the likes of The Los Angeles Times and Newsweek. Playwright Susan Zeder saw her work performed in the Kennedy Center, and in the student ranks, the University was honored with its first Rhodes Scholar, 20-year-old Caroline Alexander.

All the good news fit in perfectly with FSU's celebration of its 30th anniversary as a statewide university. Although the school itself is actually 120 years old, it was exactly 30 years ago when Gov. Millard Caldwell signed the legislation which made it co-education and changed its name from the Florida State College for Women.

The academic growth of FSU in those three decades has often been referred to as an "educational miracle." Contrast between 1947 and today's campus are dramatic. Nearly 22,000 students now attend classes on a campus not much larger than the 80 acres that held only 4,000 students 30 years ago. Faculty strength has grown from 369 to 1,300 in the interim, and state revenues, from $2.5 million per year to $54.3 million.

Graduate research programs, which attracted 77 students in the fall of '47, now attract more than 4,000 students and $18 million a year in contracts and grants. The University's first doctoral programs were approved in 1948; today there are 50 programs, producing more than 300 doctorates each year.

On June 11, Florida State graduated its 30th year class. During commencement, Richard L. Rubenstein, professor of religion was named the Distinguished Professor of the Year, the highest honor the University can accord one of its peers. Earlier in the year, the University awarded honorary degrees to Lee Strasberg, the founder and director of the famed Actors Studio, and to Mae Knight Clark, a pioneer Dade County educator and a FSCW graduate.

In addition to the regular functions of a university, Florida State offers a spectrum of challenging special programs. FSU maintains study centers in Florence, Italy and London, England, which are open to all State University System students, and the University's Department of Hotel and Restaurant Administration annually conducts a summer program of study in Switzerland.

FSU President

Florida State University has a new "No. 1 Fan."

Bernard F. Sliger, who officially became the University's 10th president June 10, 1977, leads the Seminoles into their 31st season of intercollegiate baseball competition.

The 52-year-old Sliger believes that competition is an integral part of university life. "A major public institution is benefited by a well-rounded athletic program," he said. "In addition to being an important source of outside giving it is a means of identification. Athletics is a rallying point for present and former students as well as supporters of Florida State."

An economist and scholar in the special fields of economic theory and public finance, Dr. Sliger earned his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in economics at Michigan State University, and has done postdoctoral study in mathematical economics at the University of Minnesota. He has taught at Michigan State, Southern University and Louisiana State University. He served as executive director of the Louisiana Coordinating Council for High Education before joining FSU as executive vice president in 1972.

Dr. Sliger, and his wife Greta, have four children.

JOHN BRIDGERS

Athletic Director

John Bridgers came on the Florida State scene as its athletic director in the spring of 1973 and since that time the Seminole program has constantly been on the move upward.

His list of accomplishments is an imposing one for an athletic director who has been faced by the same general financial woes that beset the economy in general and intercollegiate athletics in particular nationwide. These problems were compounded at Florida State since the Tribe football program — the main source of revenue generation for the department — had suffered through its leanest years since the University resumed athletics in 1947.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., Bridgers came to Florida State from South Carolina. Previously he had spent 10 years as athletic director and head football coach at Baylor University, a period during which the Bears participated in three bowl games.

Following graduation from Auburn, Bridgers served two years with the Army in Korea, being discharged as a captain after enlisting as a private.

Bridgers is married to the former Frances Young of Florence, Alabama.

CLAUDE THIGPEN

Athletic Business Manager

Claude Thigpen has been a member of the Florida State athletic department for 23 years. He assumed his current position as athletic business manager in the spring of 1974.

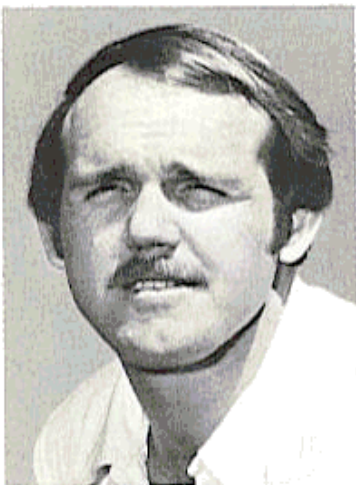

Prior to taking charge of the athletic department fiscal affairs, Thigpen was the accountant and ticket manager for the Seminoles. He continues to supervise the complex ticket operations in addition to overseeing the budget and fiscal control.

Through the years, Thigpen has organized the entire FSU ticket operation. He directs season ticket drives in four sports — football, basketball, baseball and track and field.

Thigpen, a native of Greenville, Fla., is married to the former Carleen Lindley.

LARRY PENDLETON

Assistant to the Director

Larry Pendleton oversees the guidance and counseling of all Seminole athletes and is responsible for special athletic events as assistant to athletic director John Bridgers.

This is Pendleton's fourth season as a full-time member of the FSU athletic staff and his first year at his present post. He returned to his alma mater in 1973 as a graduate assistant and spent the '74 campaign as an assistant football coach.

A native of Winter Haven, Fla., Pendleton attended Lakeview High School where he earned 10 athletic letters. He played both linebacker and offensive line at Florida State. He was twice selected to the Florida collegiate all-star team, started 33 consecutive games and played in three bowl games.

Following his graduation in 1969, Larry was an assistant coach for three years at Colonial High School in Orlando.

He is married to the former Carolyn Chalk.

MARK CARLSON

Sports Information Director

Mark Carlson has been the Florida State sports information director since August 17, 1976.

Carlson joined the Seminole administrative staff after a one-year tour at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga. His previous SID assignments included the University of Tampa and Tennessee Tech.

The Hibbing, Minn., native is a graduate of St. Leo (Fla.) College. He earned a bachelor of science degree for political science in 1969. Following graduation he joined the staff of the Fremon (Ohio) News-Messenger where he was sports editor for three years before taking the Tampa position.

At Florida State, Carlson is responsible for all promotion and public relations matters concerning the athletic department. The sports information office distributes information on all scholarship intercollegiate varsity teams.

Carlson is a bachelor.

MIKE PARSONS

Assist. Sports Information Director

Mike Parsons is in his first year as assistant sports information director at Florida State University.

As an aide to sports information director Mark Carlson, Parsons works with promoting the FSU athletic teams as well as editing the football game program and the Seminole Sportsnews.

Parsons, a native of Charleston, W. Va., and a recent graduate of West Virginia University, comes to Florida State after working three years as a sports information assistant for the Mountaineers. Previously he served as SID at Morris Harvey College in Charleston for two years and worked with several local newspapers and radio stations.

Parsons is married to the former Julie Brawley.

WAYNE HOGAN

Sports Information Assistant

Playing an important role with the Florida State baseball program will be Wayne Hogan. As a student assistant in the Sports Information Office, Hogan will be primarily responsible for press box operations and will also serve as official scorer for many of the home games.

A native of Tallahassee, Hogan served for three years as a sportswriter for the Tallahassee Democrat and one year as Sports Editor of the Florida Flambeau. He also has broadcast experience and will share play-by-play duties this year when the Seminoles are on the air.

DON FAULS

Head Athletic Trainer

Athletic trainers are known for being very popular with the athletes they work with and Florida State's Don Fauls is no exception.

To Seminole players and coaches since 1954, he's been a respected friend and confidant as well as the man who cares for their injuries.

A native of Ithaca, N.Y., Fauls came to FSU after serving as trainer for professional baseball teams in Greensboro, N.C., and Omaha, Neb. He has worked as a trainer for the U.S. Pan American team and was a member of the Olympic Trainers Selection Committee. He also served as an assistant coach to the Tribe's baseball team for eight years.

Don graduated from Ithaca College in 1948 where he lettered in baseball and basketball. He and his wife, Marguerite, have three children.

JOHN MOONEY

Asst. Athletic Trainer

John Mooney is in his second year as assistant trainer for the Seminole athletic teams.

Besides his close association with the FSU football team, he works directly with the basketball and baseball programs.

A graduate of Florida State, Mooney spent his undergraduate years as a student assistant trainer learning the trade from head trainer Don Fauls before landing the full-time assistant's position in 1976.

John, a native of Rogersville, Tenn., is married to the former Marilyn West.
