Head Coach
John Brogle

In just four short seasons as head coach of Florida State's cross country team, John Brogle has taken the Seminoles from a squad that had never qualified for the national championships to a team that placed eighth last season at the NCAA National Championships.

Last season's lofty finish is not that surprising when one examines Brogle's coaching record. Whether in the high school or collegiate ranks, Brogle has produced championship clubs at both levels.

Brogle began his coaching career at Clearwater's Oak Grove Junior High School after graduation from Florida State in 1966 with a physical education degree. After three successful years at that school, Brogle moved on to St. Petersburg Catholic.

It was here that Brogle would put together cross country teams that would dominate state competition for nearly a decade at the AAA level. Under Brogle's leadership, St. Petersburg Catholic went on to win the state cross country championship in 1969-72-73-75 and never finish below third place in eight seasons.

In addition to cross country, Brogle also was the mentor for the St. Petersburg Catholic track teams that finished in the top three in state competition for five consecutive years, including a state title in 1970.

Brogle brought his coaching talents back to his alma mater when he was named assistant track coach in 1976. One season later, Brogle became head cross country coach.

During his tenure as cross country coach, Brogle has led his squad to two Metro Conference Championships and two runner up trophies. But 1981 brought the most impressive FSU cross country achievement to date. Under Brogle, FSU not only qualified its first team ever for the national championships — but surprised the cross country world with a top ten finish. He earned Metro Coach of the Year honors in the cross country division for 1980.

Brogle's athletic accomplishments are not restricted to the coaching field. Prior to his graduation at Florida State, Brogle was a standout athlete for legendary coach Mike Long.

As a Seminole runner, Brogle captained the 1966 team and also set a school record in the 880-yard run with a time of 1:52.2.

Following completion of his degree at FSU, Brogle went on to earn a master's degree in physical education from the University of South Florida. The popular Seminole mentor also serves as an assistant professor within Florida State's physical education school.

He and his wife Margie have two children, Kimberly Ann, 15, and John Mark Jr., 8.

1982 Outlook

At first glance, one would assume Florida State's cross country team would be undergoing a rebuilding year in 1982. After an unbelievable season in which the Tribe finished eighth at the NCAA Cross Country Championship, FSU head coach John Brogle returns only a shell of that team.

Gone from that 1981 squad is All-American Herb Wills who finished 16th overall in the NCAA meet and was only the fourth American runner to cross the finish line. Gone also is Larry Greene, who placed 56th overall and 26th among American runners. Doug Overfelt, Scott Taylor, John Hodge and Robb Gomez, all solid performers, have also departed via the graduation route.

But a rebuilding year is the last description Brogle wants to use when describing his squad. "To me, rebuilding carries an implication that there is no way a team can match the previous year's accomplishments," Brogle says. "That's the last thing I want to convey to our athletes. We have the same goals that we had last season. We want to win the Metro Conference Championship and we want to qualify for nationals."

Although the loss of Wills and Greene will hit the Seminoles hard, FSU does return a solid trio of runners. With his track eligibility used up, Phillip Rolle has one season of cross country remaining after serving a three-year stint in our country's armed forces.

Brogle gives much of the credit to Rolle for FSU's lofty national finish. "Without Phillip we would not have finished nearly as high," Brogle says. "Although he's basically a middle distance runner, he came on strong for us and had a great regional and national meet. We hope he'll be able to repeat last season's stellar performance."

If the Seminoles are to be successful in 1982, Brogle believes that senior Ronnie Treadway must have a productive season. A transfer from Brevard JC, Treadway had a strong first half season before leveling off. "With a year's experience behind him, I believe Ronnie is ready for a big season," Brogle says.

Another runner the Tribe will be counting on is senior Bobby Shackelford. A Miami, Florida native, Shackelford was redshirted with injuries last year and returns as a fifth year senior. Described by Brogle as a strong runner with good potential, Shackelford must shake off nagging injuries that have slowed his career.

Juniors Paul Hodge and Pete Nachtigal return to bring quality depth to the Tribe's squad.

Four outstanding newcomers will compete for the Seminoles this season. Paul Waldron, a junior college transfer from Seminole Community College, heads the list. A former runner at the high school level for Brogle, Waldron was a two-time All-American at the junior college level.

A proven runner at the 10,000-meter level, Waldron will also help the Seminole track team at the middle distance level.

Jeff Muth, another junior college transfer, may also turn out to be a factor in the Seminole plans. A native of Orlando, Muth attended Brevard Junior College (North Carolina) for one season before transferring to FSU.

Brogle went to Edgewater High School and signed outstanding distance runners Chip Apple and Greg Doss. Both runners placed high in the Florida 4A high school cross country championships, with Doss also placing eighth in the Junior National Cross Country meet.

If the Seminoles are to meet their goals outlined by Brogle, they must peak at the proper time. As usual, the Tribe will take part in a competitive schedule leading up to the Metro Conference Championship on November 6 and the NCAA regionals a week later.

Top meets the Tribe will compete in this season include the Furman Invitational (November 9) and the Florida meet (November 22). "The Furman Invitational is extremely important," Brogle says. "This course has given us some trouble in the past and since regionals are held here it will be advantageous to run in this meet before regionals begin."

In addition, FSU will host the Seminole Invitational on September 25. Southeast powers Florida, Alabama, Auburn and Georgia have already committed to the meet.

If the Seminoles are to recapture the Metro title, it must dethrone champion Virginia Tech. "Winning the Metro is always our goal and seems Virginia Tech is always the stumbling block," Brogle says. "They're a great team and will have the advantage of the home course."

How does Brogle rate his team's chances for a Metro title and a return to the NCAA national meet? "It's not going to be easy, but it never is," Brogle says. "We'll go out there and compete as hard as we can and then we'll see what happens."

THIS IS FLORIDA STATE

Florida State University — the home of more than 22,500 Seminoles — has a campus that starts at the top of one of Tallahassee's famed seven hills, and rolls gently downward and westward across 340-odd acres of pines, palms and pecan trees.

Founded in 1857 as the Seminary West of the Suwannee, its heritage is evidenced in the wide range of architectural struggles to preserve history and keep up with modern times and air conditioning. Yet it still ranks as one of the South's last, few bastions of campus greenery — the kind that combines the blossoms of camellias, azaleas and dogwoods with moss-hung oaks that are, in some cases, as old as the University itself, if not older.

From the Gothic towers of Westcott at the eastern entrance to the campus, to the modern glass and steel structures of its Science Complex to the west, Florida State University has moved forward in time and growth more rapidly than many of its newer counterparts in the State University System. Its enrollment has quadrupled since it became coeducational in 1947, following nearly half a century as the Florida State College for Women.

Today, its 14 schools and colleges are spread through $150 million worth of buildings, its annual budget exceeds $100 million and it attracts more than $18 million a year in research contracts and grants. Students can pick and choose from more than 100 career options offered in arts and sciences, business, communication, criminology, dance, education, home economics, law, library science, music, nursing, social sciences, social work, theater and visual arts programs.

The location of FSU in the Capital City of Florida offers unusual opportunities for study and research in the social and policy sciences, and an optimum environment for internships and on-the-job learning experiences for students in many fields of study.

A city within a city, Florida State has 1,200 faculty members, more than 6,000 additional employees and a construction program that will exceed $50 million before the end of 1981.
