STAFF SKETCHES

TERRY MAUL

FLORIDA STATE '68 HEAD COACH

Terry Maul works from the philosophy that each individual should have the opportunity to develop to their fullest potential academically, emotionally, and athletically. From this philosophy, Maul has built a reputation for success, while at the same time, insuring the development of the individual athlete in the college environment.

In his fourteen seasons at Florida State, Maul has guided 30 All-Americans. He has served as the women's head coach since 1976. He began working with men and women in 1987 when the program was reorganized. He compiled a 75-35-1 dual meet record and led his 1982 squad to an AIAW National Championship runner-up finish to Texas.

Since joining with Bill Shults as co-head coaches, the pair have combined the men's and women's programs into a 43-21 dual meet slate. Maul's specific duties in the innovative coaching arrangement include personally directing the overall training regimen for the entire swim team. He designs the physiological cycles for water workouts, sets the periodization and applications of strength training, and implements psychological support systems.

Nationally known and respected, Maul has gained international coaching experience as well. In 1984 he headed the U.S. Swim team in the South American Cup in Rio de Janeiro. He also served as head coach of the South squad at the 1987 U.S. Olympic Festival in Chapel Hill.

Maul graduated from FSU with a bachelor's degree in Biology in 1968 and went on to earn a Master's in Sports Psychology in 1975. He has completed coursework for a doctorate in Sports Psychology and is a frequent speaker on the subject at USS sponsored coaching clinics.

Co-head coach Terry Maul handles most of the deck-side duties..

BILL SHULTS

NEW HAMPSHIRE '76 HEAD COACH

Bill Shults has been a key in FSU's resurgence to national prominence. Since the reorganization of the swim program, he has taken over the administrative, as well as the academic, aspects of the program.

In his eighth year as a head coach at Florida State, Shults has the Seminole program headed in the right direction. The program has built a reputation for its academic success, which can be accredited to Shults, as he oversees the academic support systems. He assists the athletes with academic study hall monitoring and career counseling.

Over the past three seasons, FSU's team grade point average has reached a "B" average, and in 1988, the swim team won all four academic awards given by the athletic department. Under Shults, the women's team received commendable marks by the College Swim Coaches Association of America (CSCAA) for its overall GPA, ranking seventh among Division I schools for the 1988 spring semester and sixth for the fall of 1988-89.

In 1981 he became the fourth head coach of the men's program after serving as an assistant under John Stafford. He led the men to two top 30 finishes as a head coach after being credited with signing several future All-Americans as an assistant.

Prior to his arrival at Florida State, Shults was the head coach at New Hampshire, where he graduated from in 1976 after earning four letters and captained the '76 squad. In just one season at UNH, he was credited with bringing in the finest recruiting class in the school's history. He also spent a one-year stint at Trinity College in Hartford, CT.

Shults, 35, is active in a number of positions. He serves as chairman of the Academic Committee to the CSCAA and was honored as the recipient of the President's Award for Outstanding Service to the organization. He was recently named to the NCAA Swimming Committee, which is responsible for rule changes. Last year he served as the color analyst for the Sunshine Network's production of the LSU meet in Tallahassee.

He is married to the former Linda Carlton and they have two sons, Stevie and Ricky.

SID CASSIDY

NORTH CAROLINA STATE '77 RECRUITING COORDINATOR/ASSISTANT COACH

Truly one of the most dynamic young coaches on the collegiate swimming scene, two time All-American Sid Cassidy begins his fifth year at Florida State.

Cassidy has been instrumental in Florida State's continued improvement since his arrival in 1985. He has served as recruiting coordinator, credited with signing several All-American swimmers to the program. His success has been clearly visible over the past two seasons, and this year's class, may have been his best. With one of the best recruiting classes in the nation, Cassidy brought in eight high school or Juco All-Americans.

Other duties include planning and implementing training methods for the middle distance swimmers, video taping stroke mechanics, and assisting with all aspects of training for the entire team.

The Kinston, NC native has international, as well as head coaching experience. Before his stint at FSU, Cassidy was the head coach of the Greater Tampa (FL) Swimming Association after heading the Wilmington (DE) Aquatic Club, the same club he spent his prep years under the tutelage of internationally acclaimed Bob Mattson. Currently, he coaches the Area Tallahassee Aquatic Club's senior team.

He was chosen as an assistant coach for the U.S. team at the Arena Championships in Bonn, West Germany in 1985. He also coached the Mexican Olympic National Team in Mexico City. This past summer he was selected to the U.S. National Team coaching staff and produced his first national champion, current Seminole Jay Wilkerson, in the 25 kilometer marathon.

Cassidy was a world-ranked professional marathon swimmer after completing his collegiate career at North Carolina State, where he was twice named an All-American.

GARY COLE

BOWLING GREEN '76 DIVING COACH

Gary Cole is in his eighth year as the diving coach at Florida State, carrying a wealth of collegiate and international coaching experience.

Cole, a member of the NCAA Diving Rules Committee and a member of the U.S. Professional Diving Coaching Association, has developed divers at all levels. He has coached two world age group champions and collegiate All-Americans. In 1984, three of his pupils placed in the top eight at the Canadian Olympic Trials.

In June of 1987, Cole was selected from applicants all across the nation to coach South Korea's Olympic hopefuls. Before his work with the South Korea national team, Cole also gave clinics for the International Olympic Committee in Chile and Canada.

In addition to his work with the FSU divers, Cole is responsible for opponent scouting and meet operations at Florida State. He also assists with the analysis and instruction of swimming starts and turns.

Cole was a standout diver in high school, coached by Ron O'Brien, U.S. Olympic Coach since 1972.

MARIAN CASSIDY

PITTSBURGH '88 ASSISTANT COACH

Marian Cassidy joins the swimming coaching staff at Florida State as a graduate assistant.

After swimming four years at the University of Pittsburgh, Cassidy earned her bachelor's degree in Exercise Physiology in 1988. She served as an assistant coach at Pitt during the 1988-89 campaign before accepting the position here, where she will pursue a masters degree in Exercise Physiology.

While a swimmer at Pittsburgh, Cassidy was a Big East conference champ, an NCAA qualifier, and was named a Big East Post Graduate Scholar Athlete in 1988.

Born in Kinston, NC, Cassidy grew up in Wilmington, DE, where she swam for the Wilmington Aquatic Club. Marian is the sister of assistant coach Sid Cassidy.

KRIS ZUMENTS

FLORIDA STATE '89 STUDENT ASSISTANT COACH

After four years as a swimmer at Florida State, Kris Zuments remains as a student assistant coach. The fifth year senior will graduate in December with a Psychology degree and pursue his Master's in Business Psychology.

The 22-year-old will be working with the distance freestylers and sprinters - his specialty, and hopes to remain in swim coaching.

As a swimmer here, Zuments scored at Conference three consecutive years and earned the "Pikes Peak" award as a freshman.

Assistant coach and recruiting coordinator Sid Cassidy brought in one of the best freshman classes ever this year.

OUTLOOK

The women's team is looking to emerge as one of the premiere teams in the nation. This squad is loaded from top to bottom in every event and looks to be one of the best teams in the last decade of Seminole swimming. Leading the way are All-Americans Kathy Isackson and Danielle Van Dyke, both looking to improve on their 9th and 10th place finishes at NCAA Championships. The supporting cast includes thirteen upperclassmen and a very strong recruiting class.

Senior Tri-Captains Kathy Turner and Jennifer Hazard will look to regain their sophomore performances which took them to NCAAs. The junior class is in top form with the likes of Merrie Brennan, school record holder in the 1650. Krissy Myers and Stacia Evans will look to regain freshman form that earned them both All-American Honorable Mention honors. The addition of JUCO transfer Kirsten Harrington will add strength to nationally-ranked sprint relays. Look for Alison Harvey (free, fly), Kristin Chambers (IM, back), and Belinda Martin to lend strong support in their specialities. Sophomores Anne Spaeder (IM, free) and Juliet Yenglin (back, IM) should look to improve on last year's successful campaign.

The push to the top will come from the stellar recruiting class. The headliner of the group is Missy Connolly, the winner of the 800 free at this year's Olympic Festival. Valerie Moore, another High School All-American, will be a top threat in the backstroke events. Aurora Valseca, Kiki Steinberg, Meghan Henning, Suzie Gunn, and Courtney Clark will be the supporting cast of this freshman crew.

The Lady Noles will also see the likes of Florida, LSU, Alabama, Miami, Georgia, and South Carolina on their schedule. This team has all the ingredients to match-up with these national powers. Look for them to become the new power of the south. This is a team aiming at both the Metro Conference Title and a top ten finish at NCAA Championships.

OUTLOOK

Florida State's men will enter this season with one advantage over years past. That advantage is experience.

The Seminoles' strength lies with their cast of six seniors and a talented group of returning lettermen. The squad isn't as deep as previous years, but the level of talent and experience should make up for the lack of depth.

Faced with a schedule that resembles the football squad's; the men must perform up to expectations to challenge the opposition.

Leading the Seminoles will be senior tri-captain, Vance Tankersley. The burden of scoring in the middle-distance free events will lie on his shoulders. Seniors John Kenny and Jay Wilkerson are the strong basis of the distance free races while seniors Graham Carothers, Mike Hermann and Matt Muller will focus on the sprint free, butterfly and backstroke events.

The wealth of talent doesn't stop with the seniors. Leaders among the upperclassmen become apparent with the versatile talents of Charlie Rose, definitely one of the most dangerous weapons of the team. His mirror image is reflected with sophomore Dieter Holtz. Both athletes are capable of swimming a wide-range of events and will be counted on heavily.

Returning to lead the onslaught in breaststroke events are juniors Craig Zettle and Mike Roder. Zettle will look to repeat his Metro Conference title in the 100 breaststroke and qualify for NCAA Championships. Other returnees to watch are Richard Greenwood and Scott Mundell both capable of qualifying the NCAAs.

Looking down the road, the schedule is filled with some of the best teams in the country. The field includes the likes of Florida, LSU, Georgia, Alabama, Miami, South Carolina, and North Carolina State. The men will need to be prepared, and with the right mix of chemistry and leadership, this team can become another force in the South.

THIS IS FLORIDA STATE

Florida State University, expanding on its long-standing reputation in the performing arts, will soon be the professional training ground for one of the state's fastest growing industries—the motion picture and television industry.

Keeping pace with professional film studios opening this year in Florida, FSU is embarking on a new project that will eventually train 150 graduate and undergraduate students each year—putting jobs in Florida films in the hands of Florida residents. Admitting its first students this fall, the new School of Motion Picture, Television and Recording Arts will offer a bachelor of fine arts degree program in film production and management at the Tallahassee campus and a master of fine arts degree program at the FSU Motion Picture, Television and Recording Arts Conservatory at the Asolo Performing Arts Center in Sarasota.

Florida State's entry into film education complements both its commitment to nationally respected programs in music, dance and theater, led by highly credited faculty and well-known professional artists-in-residence, and to its high standing as a research institution.

Florida State is a public, coeducational university with more than 26,000 students enrolled. A senior member of the State University System, FSU was founded in 1851 by a legislative act that provided for two institutions of higher learning, one east and one west of the Suwannee River, and began operating in Tallahassee with its first students in 1857.

Today, the main campus is spread over 347 acres in Tallahassee; the University owns a total of 1,167 acres in Leon, Bay and Franklin counties.

Florida State's operating budget is $323 million. Faculty and administrators generate more than $50 million annually in external funding to supplement state-sponsored research, and the private, non-profit FSU Foundation raised $15 million in private gifts during the past fiscal year to support academics.

The University's academic programs are divided among eight colleges—Arts and Sciences, Business, Communication, Education, Engineering, Human Sciences (formerly Home Economics), Law and Social Sciences—and seven schools—Criminology, Library and Informational Studies, Music, Nursing, Social Work, Theatre, and Visual Arts and Dance. FSU offers more than 275 graduate and undergraduate degree programs.

With 1,450 members, the FSU faculty boasts renowned scholars, and has included four Nobel laureates. It currently includes four members of the National Academy of Sciences and four members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. The faculty is backed by 2,750 administrative, professional and support staffers.

Library holdings at Florida State include 1.7 million book titles, 18,000 serials, and 3.1 million microforms. The main library facility, the Robert M. Strozier Library, is linked via a computerized information system to other campus libraries and other state university research centers, as well as to the nation's outstanding research centers. Opened in fall 1988, the Paul A. M. Dirac Science Center Library places scientific library resources close by the university's main science research complex.

On the top floor of the Dirac Library is the Supercomputer Computations Research Institute, a multidisciplinary program that brings together some 50 scientists, engineers and technicians to develop computational techniques using high-performance computers. Electronically linked to an off-campus research complex, SCRI is home to two of the world's fastest and most powerful supercomputers, including the ETA10, which is capable of performing 10 billion calculations per second. Faculty members and graduate students in a variety of disciplines, as well as visitors from other universities around the world, are attracted to the research possibilities of these computing dynamos. Examples of supercomputing applications are underground pollution studies, weather forecasting, the motion of DNA molecules, and probabilities in the state lottery.

Also providing unique research opportunities is the Tandem Van de Graaff Superconducting Accelerator Laboratory in the department of physics. It houses two powerful atom smashers and is ranked among the top four such laboratories in the nation by the National Science Foundation.

FSU extends its reach far outside of Florida by means of international study programs in England, Italy, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, France, Panama, Costa Rica and the West Indies. Within the state, it spreads 45 miles south to its marine laboratory on the Gulf of Mexico, west to its 20-acre campus in Panama City, and south to its professional programs at the Asolo State Theater in Sarasota and the Burt Reynolds Institute for Theatre Training in Jupiter.

The Center for Professional Development and Public Service, housed in the Florida State Conference Center located on the edge of the main campus, last year extended the University's services in credit and non-credit continuing education activities to 78,000 participants from Pensacola to Miami.

Recent growth during Dr. Bernard F. Sliger's 12-year presidency at FSU includes the student union complex expansion, the building for the joint Florida A&M University/Florida State University College of Engineering, the Village Green project at the College of Law, and the new FSU Panama City Campus, which offers students in Florida's Panhandle the opportunity to pursue bachelor's and master's degrees. Recent renovation projects include the Westcott Building, Ruby Diamond Auditorium, and Dodd and Bryan halls. Currently under construction is a new student recreation center.

The needs and interests of all its students rate high on the priority list at Florida State. Recognized as one of the nation's top universities in minority retention, FSU is among the 22 percent of colleges and universities that account for nearly 80 percent of all bachelor's degrees awarded to minority students. Indeed, Florida State's performance in retaining black students has been such that the University was selected by the U. S. Department of Education for a study of successful minority-retention policies and practices.

The one-of-a-kind, all-collegiate Flying High Circus, where students in every major may become stars on the high wire or trapeze, is but one of many extracurricular activities available to students at Florida State. The Honors and Scholars program, student government and intramural sports are among more than 200 organizations in which students can participate. Additionally, programs such as the FSU Artist Series and Distinguished Lecture Series, which bring top-caliber performers and well-known personalities to the campus, serve to broaden the horizons of Florida State students.

Florida State bonds the educational and social aspects of campus life, just as it blends Gothic and modern styles of architecture with the oaks, pines, palms, azaleas and dogwood of North Florida and with the thriving capital city, Florida's hub of state government.

Florida State remains a growing institution—from its roots as the Seminary West of the Suwannee, through the early 20th century as the academically respected Florida State College for Women, to its coeducational status as a university in 1947, and its modern development as an acclaimed research institution, a top-ranked competitor in athletics and as a standard-setter in the performing arts. In all areas of teaching, research and service, Florida State University continues to build on its national stature.
