SEASON IN REVIEW

When Florida State women's golf coach Verlyn Giles sat down and assessed his squad's chances for 1981 he admitted, "we look pretty good." Giles' statement may go down with Noah saying it looks like rain and Custer saying he thought he saw an Indian.

All the 1981 women's golf team did was win the AIAW national title and capture four additional first place trophies—the Dick McGuire Invitational, the Lady Gator Invitational, the South Florida Invitational and the Lady Paladin. In 10 regular season tournaments, the Lady Seminoles never finished lower than fourth, earning one second (Beacon Woods), four thirds (Lady Seminole, Betsy Rawls, Peggy Kirk Bell and Lady Buckeye) and a lone fourth (Southern Intercollegiate).

"I'll admit it now, we had a super year," Giles said. "I'm certainly hoping for a repeat performance this season."

At nationals held June 17-20 at Athens, Ga., the Tribe did what they had done all year—performed well under pressure. After the second day of the tournament, the squad trailed defending champion Tulsa and host Georgia, having carded back-to-back 307. On day three, FSU added a 298, the low round of the tournament. On the final day, Georgia moved ahead of FSU until the 17th hole when Florida State birdies and Georgia bogies opened the door for the FSU triumph. Seminole All-America Lisa Young finished third at 297, one stroke behind the winner.

"We hung in there and won late," Giles said. "When the chips were down and it was getting late they did it as a team. We could never have won the tournament had we not been pulling together. Everyone was cheering for everyone else."

The Lady Seminoles began the season with their initial first place finish in the prestigious Dick McGuire Invitational. At the Albuquerque tournament, the team carded a 919, the second lowest score ever. Capturing individual honors was All-America Michele Guilbault who shot a 218 to tie the tourney mark.

The team did not have to wait long for its second win picking up the Lady Gator title in the next tournament. Again playing against the top teams in the nation, the Tribe shattered the tournament record, shooting an 889—breaking the old record by 17 strokes. Young set the tournament record with a 214 and Jane Geddes was sixth at 222. Win number 3 came at the South Florida Invitational where the Tribe fought back to win handily on the final day. The final regular season first place finish was recorded at the Lady Paladin Invitational. At the Lady Paladin, Guilbault broke the course record shooting a 218 and placing her name ahead of professional golfers Nancy Lopez and Betsy King on the Lady Paladin record list. Seminole Marla Anderson was third, adding to the FSU honors.

"The Dick McGuire title was the first major victory in Florida State women's golf history and it just escalated from there," Giles said. "We gained confidence with every tournament win and the girls took it from there. I was proud of our performance all year."

VERLYN GILES Head Golf Coach

When head golf coach Verlyn Giles took over the reins of the Florida State women's program he promised to bring a winning tradition to the Tallahassee campus. In only three years Giles not only established that winning edge, but brought home a national title.

Entering his fourth season at the Lady Seminole helm, Giles mixes his coach's duties with his chores as general manager of the university-owned Seminole Golf Course.

The personable mentor came to FSU from Jacksonville as a student in 1958, completing his master's degree in 1963. Following graduation, he coached at the prep level in golf, football and track before returning to Florida State to manage the Seminole Golf course in 1972.

Giles turned professional in 1976 also serving as head professional at Seminole. Giles is listed as a Class A PGA member and has used that affiliation to attract top professional and high school athletes to the Florida State campus.

During his golfing career he has participated in both amateur and professional tournaments throughout the South while coordinating the Seminole Golf Course, teaching golf and keeping the FSU women's program in the national spotlight.

Giles and his wife Kathy have three daughters.

1982 SEASON OUTLOOK

When you return the entire squad from a national championship team the outlook for the coming season must be optimistic. And, while FSU head coach Verlyn Giles admits he would take a similar season's end, he hopes for improvement during the regular season.

"We had an abundance of confidence going into our tournaments last year, but we start from scratch in 1982," Giles said. "It's hard to win them all, but we'd like to improve on last year's regular season. I think we have a shot to win nationals again, and with the addition of our top recruit we might even improve."

The addition Giles spoke of is junior college transfer Julie Kintz. Kintz, the 1981 National Junior College champion could break into the top five. She'll be challenged for that starting berth by all five members of the 1981 championship team.

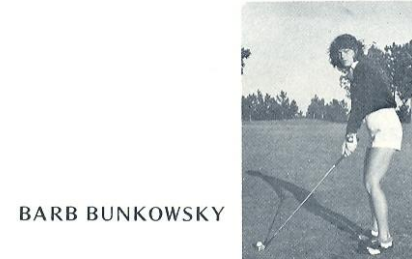

Leading the pack is senior All-America Michele Guilbault. Guilbault, the individual medalist in the Dick McGuire and Lady Paladin Invitational has captured five titles the past two seasons. Also an All-America in 1981, Lisa Young returns for her final season after topping the Tribe at nationals finishing third with a 297 only one stroke behind the winner. Young also set a course record 214 winning the Lady Gator.

Rounding out the top five are junior Marla Anderson, the third place finisher at the Lady Paladin, senior Barb Bunkowsky, 14th at nationals and junior Jane Geddes a second place finisher in the FSU hosted Lady Seminole Invitational.

If the Lady Seminoles do improve, it will come in the wake of the most difficult schedule in FSU women's golf history. The Tribe is scheduled to face the top teams again in the Lady Buckeye, Dick McGuire, Lady Gator, Betsy Rawles and Lady Paladin Invitational and will kick off the new season hosting the prestigious Lady Seminole September 18-20. The Tribe will defend its national title June 16-19 at Ohio State.

LADY SEMINOLES WIN 1ST EVER FLORIDA STATE NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

FSU Wins Golf Crown Female French-Canadian golfer finds happiness in Albq, N.M.

By BILL NAEGELE
Tribune Sports Writer

Can a lanky French-Canadian coed who attends Florida State University find happiness playing golf in Albuquerque?

Yes, if:
✓ Her name is Michelle Guilbault.
✓ She leads going into today's round of the Dick McGuire Invitational Women's Golf Tournament.

Following Wednesday's round, she consumed two (2) of the monstrously large steaks served at the steak fry which is a tradition at collegiate tournaments held on the University of New Mexico South Golf Course.

Eating twice her weight in steaks seem to have no ill effects on Guilbault, although for an interview following the steak fry, she indicated she'd rather remain standing to aid digestion.

GUILBAULT SAYS she likes the UNM South Course, especially the greens—greens which most players say really make the South Course a bear to play.

"I like the course because the greens are Canadian-like," says Guilbault. "In Florida, the greens are Bermuda grass which I don't like."

GUILBAULT DESCRIBES herself as an all-round athlete (majoring in physical education) who got into golfing at the suggestion of her parents who thought it would be a good career. "When I got into it I found I liked it," says Guilbault. Until golf, downhill skiing had been her top sport.

GUILBAULT "LIKED" both the greens and the South Course enough Wednesday to lead the McGuire field with a 3-under-par 71.

Following Guilbault was Kim Baur of Texas A&M with a 72 and Texas's Debbie Petrizzi with a 73.

New Mexico's Kris Monaghan was one of three golfers at 74. She was joined by Julie Ordonez of San Jose State and Rae Rothfelder of Texas Christian University.

"I REALLY played sloppy today, although it doesn't show on the scorecard," said Monaghan as she trudged up the 18th fairway toward the clubhouse in the 90-degree heat which marked the day's round.

"Tomorrow, I'll really have to charge."

UNM coach Henry Sandles says his team, eight strokes off the pace and in fifth place, will have to play better, too—and he thinks it will.

"WE ALWAYS have trouble the first day," said Sandles. "And there's more pressure playing at home. They sometimes try too hard."

"I think we have a good chance to win. The competition's really great, though. I think it's going to be a real dogfight."

THE LOBOS are at 313 and trail Arizona and TCU who are tied for the lead at 305, Florida State at 308 and Texas at 310.

Other Lobo individual scores saw Dana Howe with a 79, Irene Reed and Peggy Stanwood with 80s and Patty Curtiss with an 81.

Debbie Wright, a former player for Del Norte High and the defending Albuquerque city women's champion, fired an 80 for Texas.

Host Georgia Second by 3 In AIAW Finale

By LINTON JOHNSON
Banner-Herald Sports Writer

Verlyn Giles, the Florida State women's golf coach, wasn't doing much complaining Saturday at the University of Georgia Golf Course, but he did have one minor gripe when asked what kind of celebration he had planned for the Lady Seminoles' victory in the AIAW National Golf Championships.

All the players are going home, so "I'll be going back to the Tallahassee airport by myself," Giles said. "Even my kids will be out of town. It'll just be me and my wife celebrating tonight."

Coach and Mrs. Giles will have their hands full celebrating what happened this week in Athens. FSU was not considered a team favorite in the mold of Georgia and Tulsa, not by anyone except themselves, that is.

"They've been saying all along that they're the best, and today they proved it," said a disappointed Liz Murphy, whose host Georgia team finished second.

The Lady Seminoles carried a one-shot lead into Saturday's final round and fired a 308 for a 72-hole total of 1,220, while Georgia had a 310 for a 1,223. Southern Methodist, down by nine after 54 holes, had a 305 for a strong third-place finish at 1,226.

"Everybody played well," said Barbara Bunkowsky, who led the Seminoles Saturday with a 74, even par on the 6,044-yard U Ga. course. "But I can't believe we won. It's a great feeling."

I was nervous yesterday, but not today," Bunkowsky said. "Coach Giles told us to play our own games, and if it got tight, to play our man. But I didn't ever know how things stood, so I played my game all the way around."

FSU also got a solid 75 from Lisa Young, who finished third in the individual race behind Georgia's Terri Moody and Miami's Patti Rizzo. Jane Geddes added a 79 and Michele Guilbault an 80. Maria Anderson's 82 did not count.

Georgia's 310 was its worst round of the tournament, with a 76 from individual winner Moody, a 77 from Mitz Edge, a 78 from Cindy Pieger and a pair of 79s from Caroline Gowan and Denise King.

"It didn't happen like we wanted," said Murphy, whose Lady Bulldogs led the tournament after the first and second rounds. "I'm sorry we let down the city of Athens and the people who came out to watch."

"After the 13th hole, it looked so good. But the putts weren't falling. Mentally, we just weren't there."

Finishing fourth was defending champion Tulsa, which had a 302 Saturday for a 1,228, followed by UCLA at 302-1,232, TCU at 311-1,233, Texas at 311-1,238, Miami at 311-1,241, Florida at 309-1,241 and Texas A&M at 308-1,241.

Giles, who has all of his Lady Seminoles returning to defend their title next year, was mildly surprised himself by FSU's victory.

"We had never played this course well," he said. "We were extremely disappointed by the way we played in the WSC in April. But we made up our minds this time not to let the course

Florida State wins women's intercollegiate crown

ATHENS, GA.
The Florida State "Lady" Seminoles did what their counterparts on the men's team couldn't, they won a national championship.

Florida State surprised the favorites, the University of Georgia, by squeaking out a three-shot victory in the AIAW National Golf Championship over the weekend.

The Lady Seminoles were led by Lisa Young of British Columbia, whose 297 was good for third place overall in the individual competition.

Kate Bunkowsky was next for FSU with a 306, followed by Jane Geddes at 311, Michele Guilbault at 315 and Maria Anderson at 320.

Florida State finished at 1220 for the four-day tournament. Georgia finished second at 1223, with SMU next at 1226, Tulsa at 1228, and UCLA at 1232.

Terri Moody of Georgia won medalist honors when she holed a birdie putt on the third playoff hole to defeat the University of Miami's Patti Rizzo. Both Moody and Rizzo had ended regulation play with 296 total.

It was the first national championship for the FSU women's golf team coached by Verlyn Giles.

The Lady Seminoles had four first place finishes during the course of the season prior to their win here.

THIS IS FLORIDA STATE

Florida State University—the home of more than 22,000 Seminoles—was founded in 1857 as the Seminary West of the Suwannee. It ranks as one of the South's last, few bastions of campus greenery—the kind that combines the blossoms of camellias, azaleas and dogwoods with mossing oaks within 340-odd acres.

Florida State University has moved forward in time and growth more rapidly than many of its newer counterparts in the State University System. Its enrollment has quadrupled since it became co-educational in 1947, following nearly half a century as the Florida State College for Women. A city within a city, Florida State has 1,200 faculty members, more than 6,000 additional employees and a construction program that will exceed $50 million. The construction of a new civic center and a center for continuing education are destined for completion in 1981.

Today, its 14 schools and colleges are spread through $150 million worth of buildings, its annual budget exceeds $100 million and it attracts more than $18 million a year in research contracts and grants.

The University is a member of the Academic Common Market and has overseas study centers in Florence, London and the Panama Canal Zone. Summer programs of study are offered in law at Oxford, in hotel and restaurant administration in Switzerland, and in comparative studies of economic and social systems in Yugoslavia.

The location of FSU in the Capital City offers unusual opportunities for study and research in the social and policy sciences, and an optimum environment for internships and on-the-job learning experiences for students in many fields of study.

The University operates major laboratory facilities for nuclear, marine and computer research in addition to a wide-ranging spectrum of institutes and research centers. A Regional Rehabilitation Center serves citizens in the tri-state area with diagnostic and remedial treatment of speech and hearing problems.
