

As Director of the Intercollegiate Athletic Program, Vaughn Mancha brought FSU's athletics to national prominence with emphasis on scholarship programs and an improved sports schedule. Among his achievements during the eight years Mancha served in this position, were the addition of an athletic field house and lighted baseball field, and the enlarging of Campbell Stadium.

Bill Peterson, Head Football Coach, came to FSU in 1960. Practicing a pass-oriented, pro-type offense and hard-nosed, gambling defense, Coach Pete brought the Seminole team to high ranking position in both of these categories in their 1967 football season.

Dynamic Duo

Ron Sellers, a pass-grabbing wizard with the darting moves of a halfback, achieved consensus All-American status at the position of flanker back.

With 70 receptions and a total 1,228 yards, Sellers placed second in the nation, while his 17.5 yards per catch far exceeded every other pass-nabber.

Named as an All-American by AP, Football News, US Coaches, and several others, Sellers capped the season by snaring 14 passes during the Gator Bowl and being voted Sports Illustrated's top lineman of all bowl contests.

As a junior, Sellers has already snapped the FSU career record of total pass yards received, having gained 2,102 yards.

RON SELLERS
Flankerback

KIM HAMMOND
Quarterback

Kim Hammond, who had been considered as second best quarterback during 1966, made a shambles of the Seminole record book during 1967 and became the second place ranking quarterback for the entire nation.

Hammond's 2,074 yards of total offense fell barely short of the national yardage title, while his 58 percent pass completion record and 15 touchdown aeriels erased previous Tribe marks.

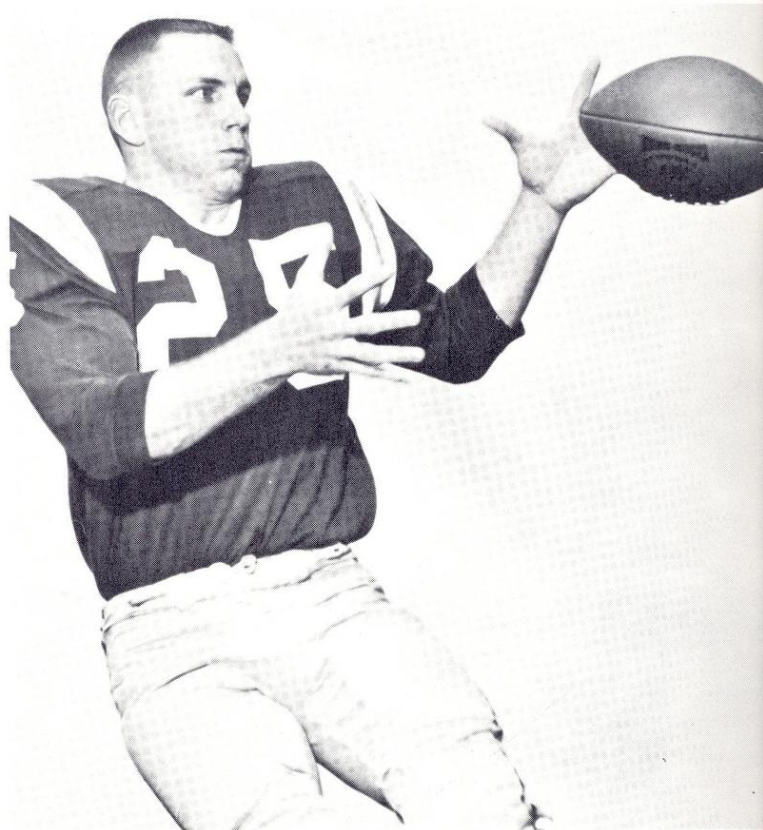

Honors bestowed upon Hammond included: Second team All-American (AP and UPI), fifth in the Heisman Trophy voting, and Most Valuable Player of the 1968 Senior Bowl.

The most electric moment of Hammond's career occurred en route to the 21-15 victory over Florida. Returning from half-time unconsciousness, he immediately tossed 51- and 38-yard passes to Ron Sellers, which culminated in the winning TD.

Tribe Scores Blazing Comeback

Kim Hammond and Ron Sellers, the nation's most prolific pass-catch duo of 1967, propelled FSU to a 7-2-1 football season that culminated with the Tribe's conquest of Florida and subsequent Gator Bowl invitation. The stunning aerial pyrotechniques of Hammond-to-Sellers triggered a torrent of post-season awards. The Tribe's forthcoming successful season was not evident in its opening contest. After a dismal evening at Houston, the Tribe dynamo stunned Alabama's vaunted pass defense to gain a 37-37 tie on the power of Hammond's aerals, Sellers' 13 receptions, Walt Sumner's 75-yard TD punt return, and Larry Green's relentless running.

A 20-10 setback by NC State plunged the '67 season into apparent disaster, but the Seminoles' gritty 19-18 win in a Texas A&M downpour was sparked by Bill Moreman and forged the initial link in a seven-victory chain.

Gators Gigged Again

Bill Gunter's power running and timely defensive interceptions sparked the Tribe over South Carolina. The Homecoming win over Texas Tech and subsequent pounding of MSU set the stage for FSU's keynote triumph at Memphis State. There Green's slashing runs and the savage linebacking of Dale McCullers (AP Lineman of the Week) tamed the violent Tigers.

After 500 yards of offensive might deflated the VPI nemesis, FSU dethroned Florida, 21-16, in a bitter dramatic reprisal at Gainesville. Hammond returned from an unconscious state to detonate a 38-yard bomb which Sellers caught sensationally for the winning TD. Tribe tacklers jarred four crucial fumbles from the Gators, to insure FSU's victory.

Season's Final Poll

The 1967 Gator Bowl between Florida State and Penn State turned out to be two football games. The Nittany Lions dominated first half play, while the Seminoles surged in the second installment to net a 17-17 tie.

Two scoring opportunities were muffed by the Tribe in the initial half. Three Penn State interceptions also cut off Seminole scoring drives. Meanwhile, Nittany Lion quarterback Tom Sherman kicked a 27 yard field goal, passed to split end Jack Curry for one touchdown and hit All-American tight end Ted Kwalick for another six points.

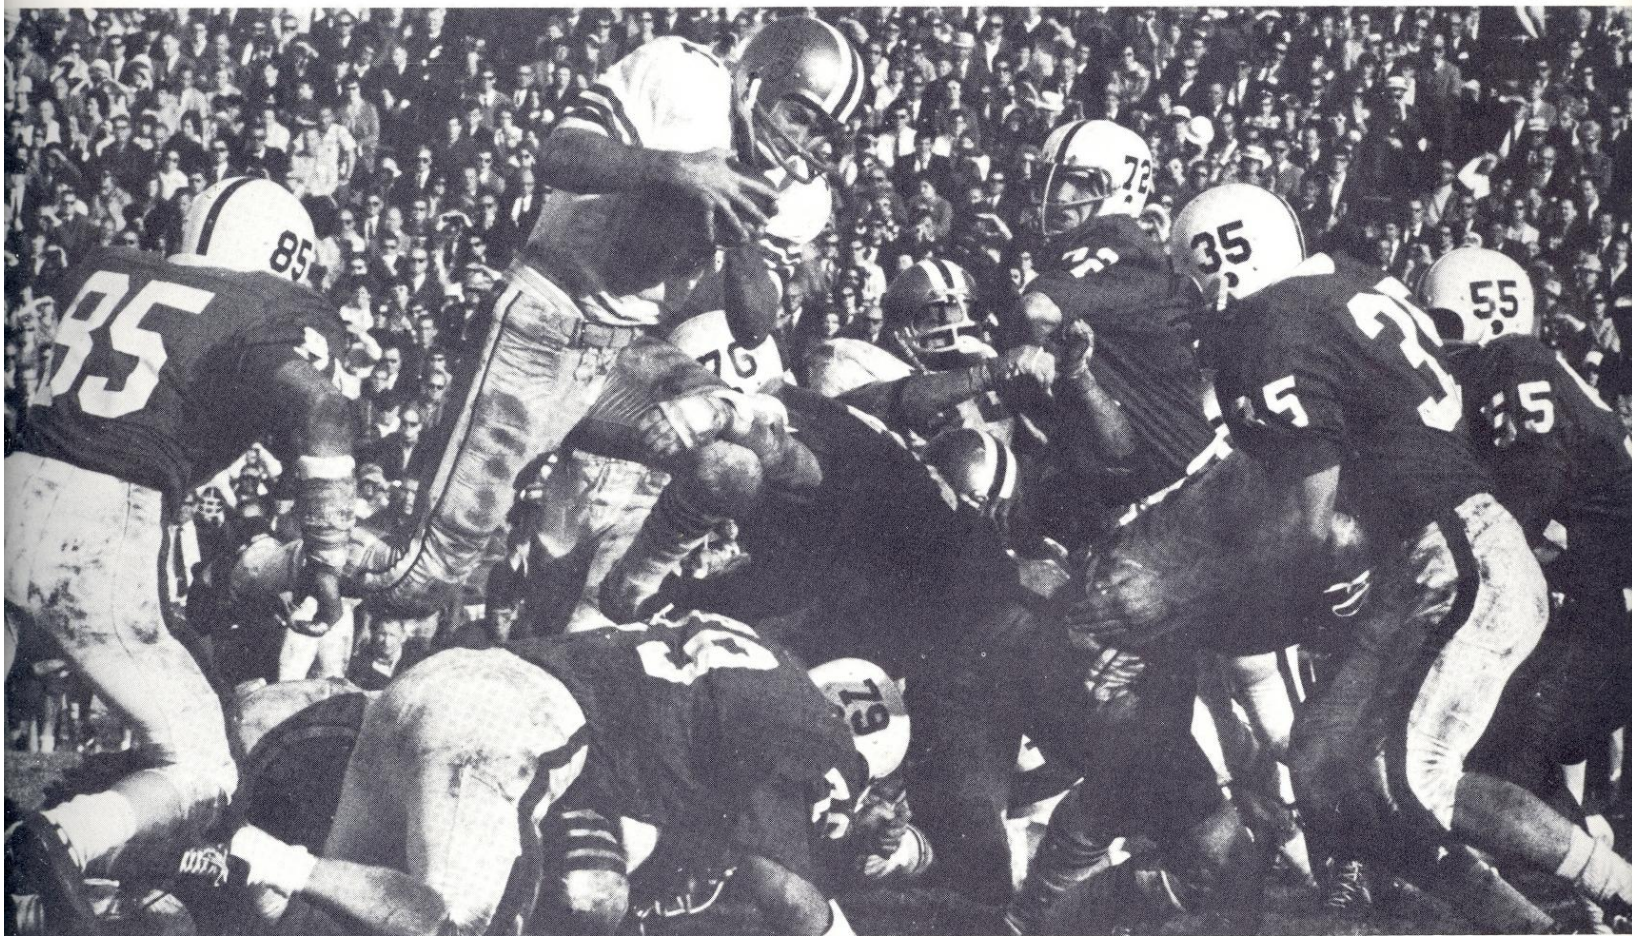

Seminole luck behind Kim Hammond and All-American flanker Ron Sellers returned in the final period as Hammond nailed Sellers for a 15 yard TD. On the following kick off Mike Blatt jarred loose the ball for a fumble and taking advantage of the break, Hammond slipped over for the payoff. Finally, with 15 seconds showing, Grant Guthrie connected from eight yards out to tie the game. Outstanding statistics accorded the Seminoles a fourth place ranking in Sports Illustrated's final football poll.

4 Wins — 2 Losses Is Harrier's Record

Coach Mike Long's Harriers finished their '68 cross country season with a record of four wins and two losses. Opening the season with a victory over the University of South Florida, the team went on to defeat Auburn, Georgia Tech, and South Florida once more in a rematch. In the Aldridge Invitational Meet, the Harriers placed second and climaxed the season by tying the University of Florida in the Florida State Championship Meet.

Basketball commanded a new respect on the Florida State campus during the 1967-68 campaign, with the Seminoles accumulating a 19-8 record, including an NCAA tournament invitation.

Led by sophomore Dave Cowens, who ranked among the nation's leaders with 17.0 rebounds averaged per game, and steady Jeff Hogan, who contributed 15.8 points a game, the Tribe survived a faltering start to run up the second best record in the school's history.

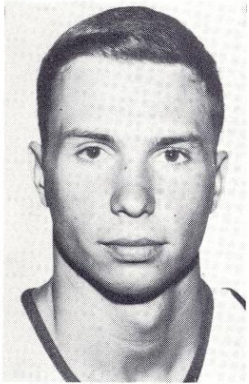

Eighteen school records were either tied or bettered, among them most points per game. The Tribe bucketed 130 against LSU Dec. 16.

In fact, the big score was the Seminole trademark. Nine times Florida State broke the century barrier during the season.

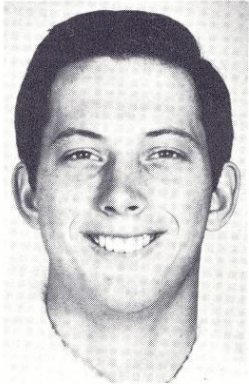

A further Seminole strongpoint was the bench. Coach Hugh Durham was able to make numerous substitutions with little loss of court strength.

Youth characterized the lineup of this year's team, which means that a more experienced nucleus will return for 1968-69.

To complete the most successful basketball season since achieving big-time basketball status, Florida State was invited to the NCAA Mid-East regional cage tournament as an at-large entry.

East Tennessee State University furnished the opposition, and additionally furnished the impediment to further the Seminole advancement, as the Buccaneers bopped the Tribe 79-69.

At the Kent, Ohio battle, the Tribe was hindered from getting the ball inside to stellar big man Dave Cowens. An accompanying cold streak also contributed to Florida State's downfall. The Bucs dominated the boards and commanded the lead from almost the beginning, even though they almost succumbed to a late Seminole rally.

Florida State University Tankers Finish

with 4-4 Record

Hampered by the loss of several key swimmers, the Seminole tankers suffered through their second worst campaign since the only losing season of 1948.

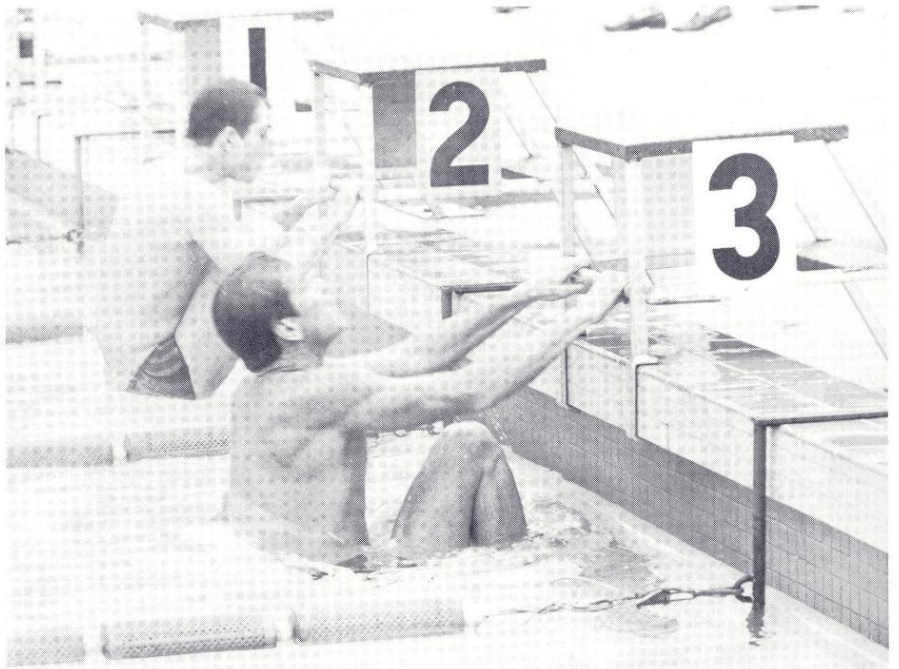

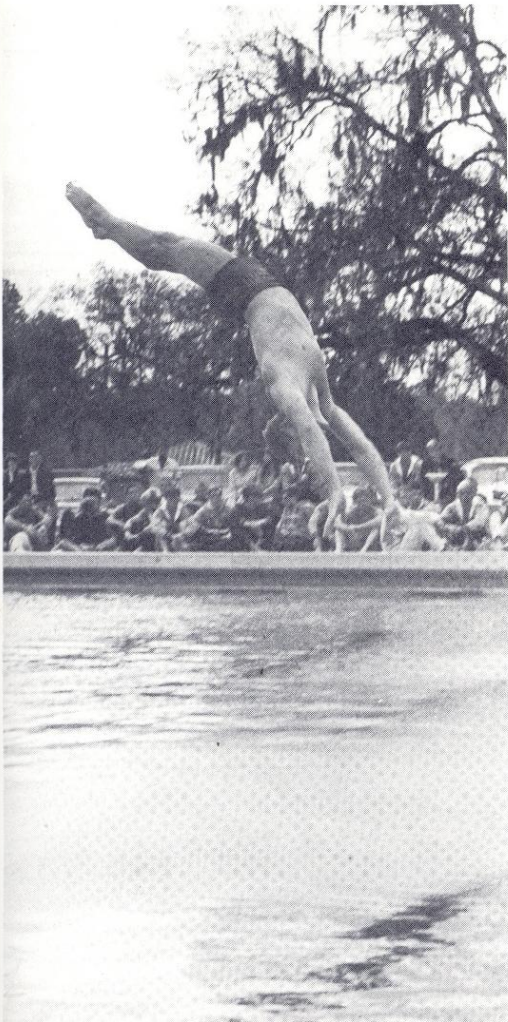

It 4-4 record included an almost-win at home over the University of Florida. Going into the final relay, the Tribe maintained a slim 54-52 lead over the Gators. The race ended in a dead heat and was decided by vote of the judges in the Reptiles' favor.

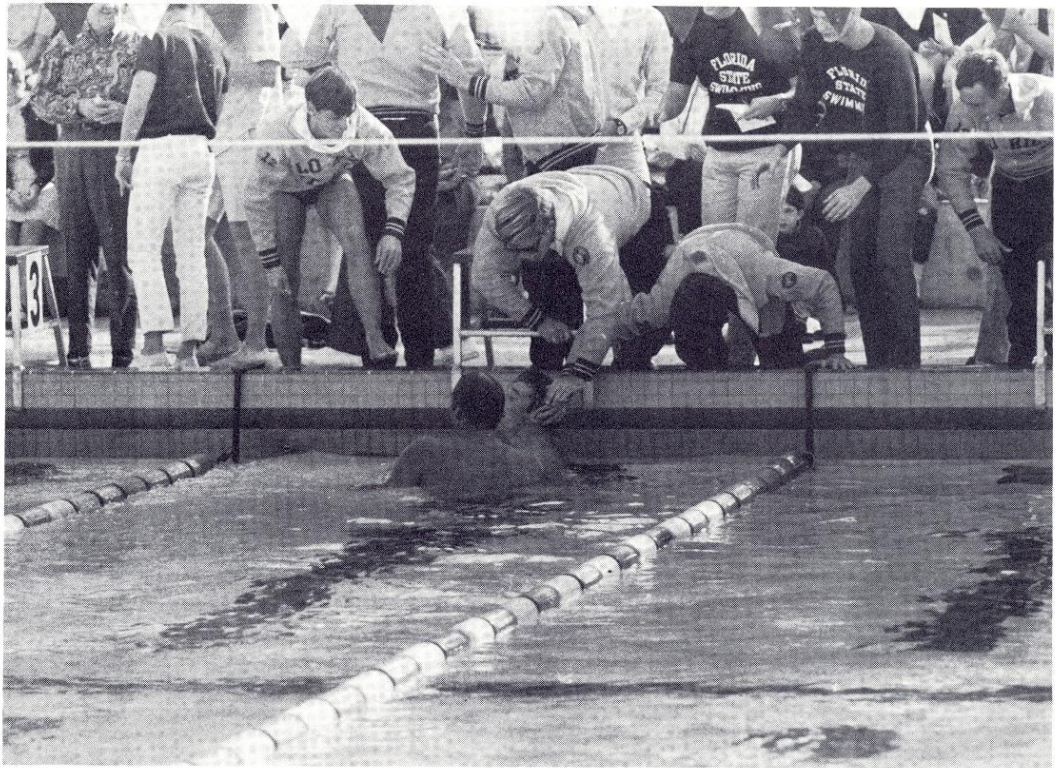

Many youngsters paced the swimmers this year, but veterans such as Seeley Feldmeyer sparked an otherwise unhappy season.

Diving was again the Seminole strongpoint with a competent diving corps of Randy Steward, Carl Springfels, Howie Acosta, and Ken Von Roenn leading the way. The addition of a second diving event in official competition was an extra bonus for the usually invincible divers.

Polls Rank Florida State Nation's Best

Balance turned out to be the keyword for Florida State baseball during the 1968 season. The Seminoles were loaded with talent in hitting, pitching, and defense, and used it to catapult themselves into the number one position in the baseball polls for three consecutive ballotings. A late season faltering, however, knocked the team to an 11th place final finishing.

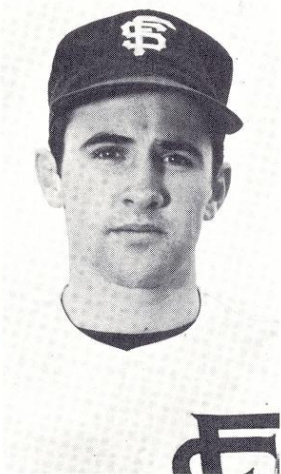

Nevertheless, the Tribe amassed a 21-game winning streak that lasted from March 23 to May 7. Coincidentally, the losses that preceded and ended that streak were by identical 3-2 scores.

March 27 was a record day in itself. Seminole pitchers hurled three no-hitters in one day, two by the varsity and another contributed by the B-team. Jeff Hill was on the mound for the first gem, and Lin Garrett teamed with Gene Ammann to produce the second. B-team hurler Tom Slade took over for the final whitewash job.

Coach Fred Hatfield's men ended the regular season campaign with three straight shutout wins over rival Florida before journeying to Gastonia for the District III tournament.

Three Straight UF Shutouts Avenge

Two junior college transfers were the mainsprings in Florida State's successful 35-6 season.

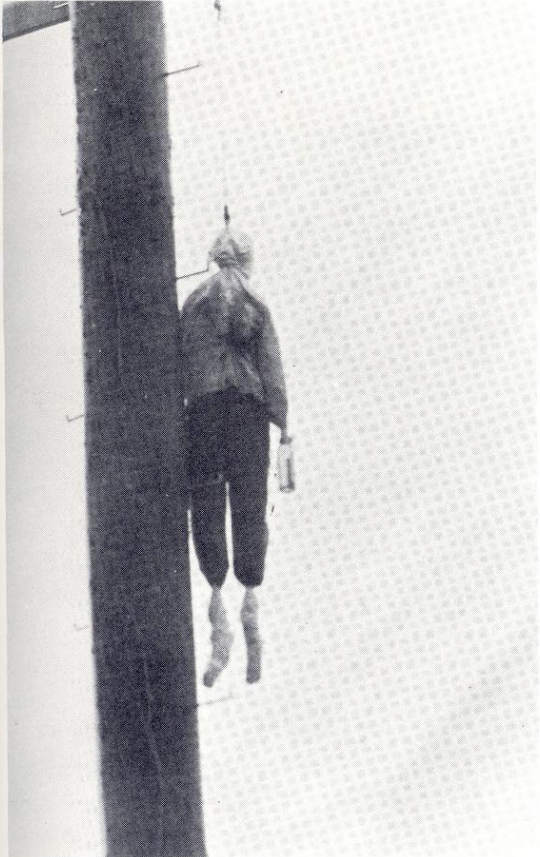

Catcher Tom Cook and pitcher Steve Mastin were the two standouts among a whole team of 1968 superstars. Cook, whose defensive skills have been admired by scouts, and who had been drafted three times by the majors, was ranked in the nation's top ten home run leaders. Mastin compiled an unbeaten record as a righthander.

Other stickouts for FSU included first basemen Mike Easom, whose batting average topped the .400 mark until the last series of the season. Jeff Hogan and Chuck Cone alternated at shortstop for awhile, but the consistent bats of both made it necessary for Cone to shift to centerfield. Utility infielder Jim Gurzynski made Seminole history by belting a home run later measured to be over 500 feet. Freshman pitcher Gene Ammann made his mark by helping with a no-hitter and hurling impressive ball the last part of the season.

Gastonia Jinx Again Destroys Tribe's

Hopes for US Collegiate Baseball Title

Gastonia, North Carolina, the site of the District III baseball tournament, again became the jinx for Florida State's hopes to win the national baseball title.

Favored to win the tourney, the Seminoles found themselves on the wrong end of a 13-inning, 2-1 affair with East Carolina.

Dropped to the losers' bracket, the Tribe fought back to beat Alabama, East Carolina and North Carolina State, thus putting the outcome on the line in a final game.

In a hard fought pitching duel, North Carolina State and Florida State battled to a 1-1 standoff until the ninth, when the Wolfpack pushed across three runs.

Unable to score a run with the bases loaded, in the bottom of the inning, the Seminoles' highly regarded diamond squad were forced to "wait until next year" by a 4-1 count.

From a three-first, three-second performance at the Tennessee Relays, where the Vols were a powerhouse on the cinders, to Mike Kelly's FSU record-breaking fifth place finish in the national hurdles competition at Berkeley, California, the thinclads had a satisfying year.

Along the way Florida State crushed Alabama and Auburn, took a first in the independent division of the Montgomery Coliseum Relays and ended up barely second to Florida in the Gulf States five-way meet.

In addition Kelly's outstanding year, the cindermen were bolstered by freshman miler Ken Misner, junior sprinter Andy Guy, and senior javelin thrower Bud Manning.

Tennis Coach

Before the 1968 tennis season, netter coach Lex Wood feared that the loss of aces Paul DeZeeuw and Stu Bruner to graduation would cast a shadow on the team's performance.

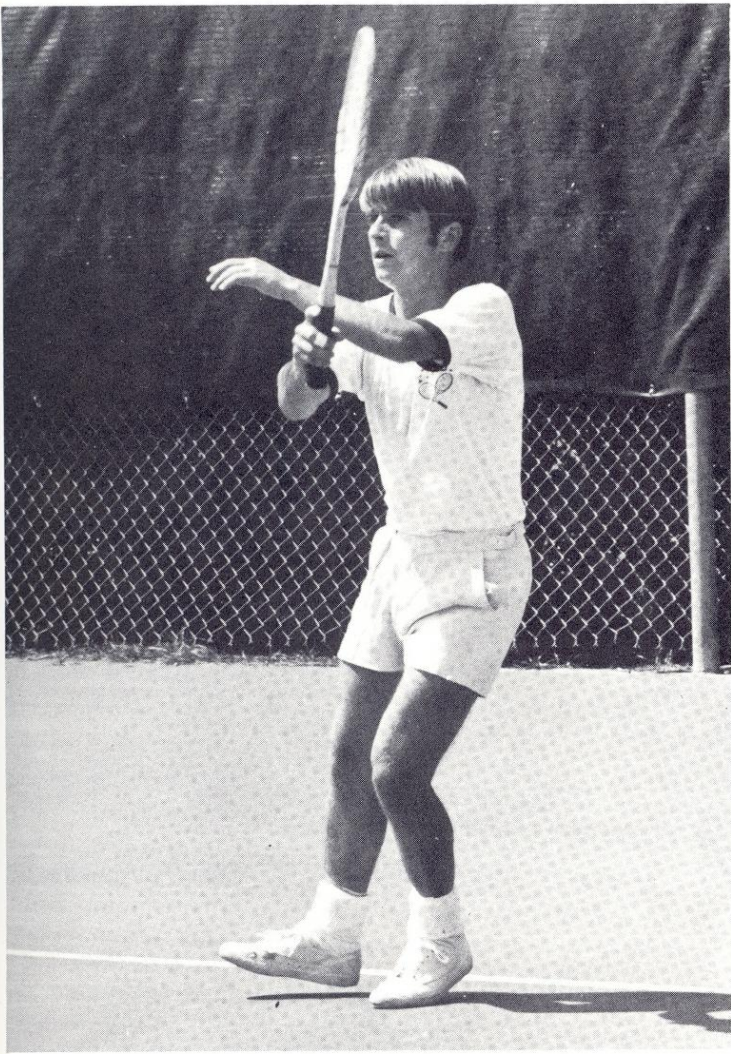

From a lineup abounding with inexperience, Wood discovered to his surprise that his material fashioned a 20-3 record, which just happened to be the greatest number of victories ever in a Seminole season.

Sophomores Herb Rapp and Scott Bristol broke into the lineup to boost the squad, and veterans Dave Danielson, Clint Murphy, Roberto Marcher, and Al Procopio also contributed to the cause.

The brother of Paul, John DeZeeuw, only a freshman, came up to grab another share of the outstanding season.

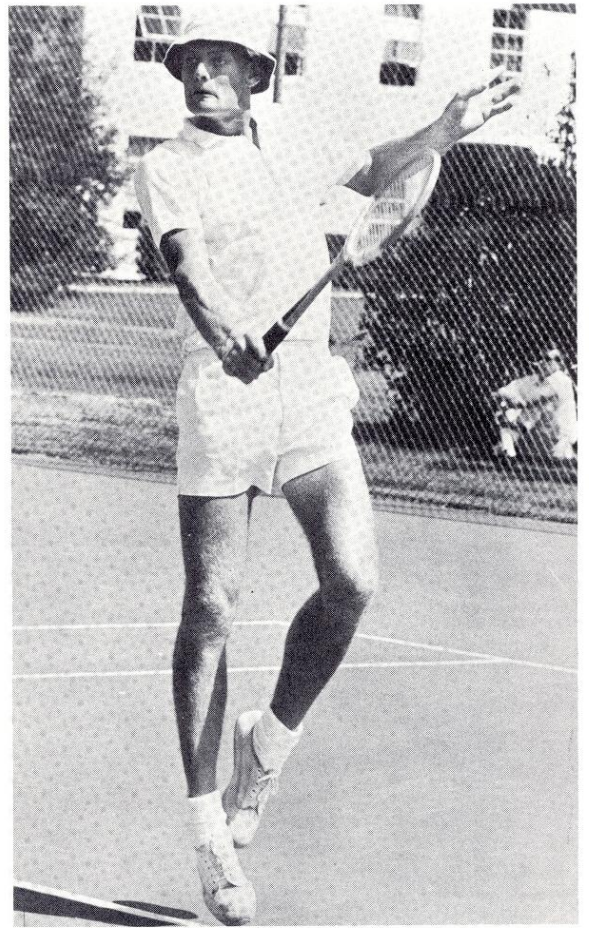

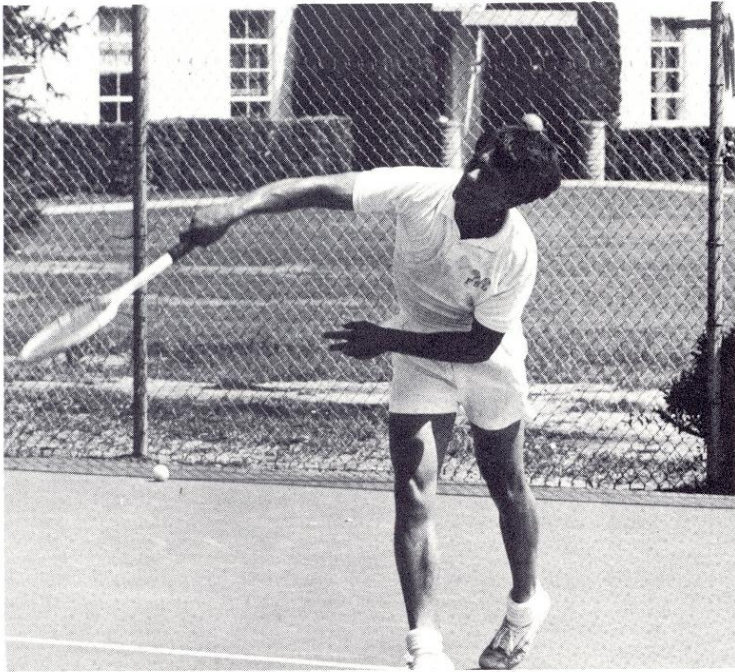

After early season losses to highly-regarded Florida and third-ranked Mississippi State, the Tribe proceeded to set the pace for the campaign, by reeling off 10 straight victories.

Miami dealt the Seminoles their third and final loss to break the string, but the netters went on to win the rest.

Tenth Ranked FSU Beats NCAA

Under new coach Don Veller, Florida State's golf team shot enough sub-par rounds to gain a 3-3 record and an invitation to the NCAA tournament in Las Cruces, New Mexico.

Topped only by the University of Florida, the golfers swept to second place finishes in the Florida Intercollegiate, the Cape Coral Invitational and was second in a three-way competition with the Gators and Jacksonville.

The best win of the year for the Tribe came at the Miami Coral Gables Invitational, where the linksmen played superior golf and bested even Florida, the winner of the NCAA Golf Tournament.

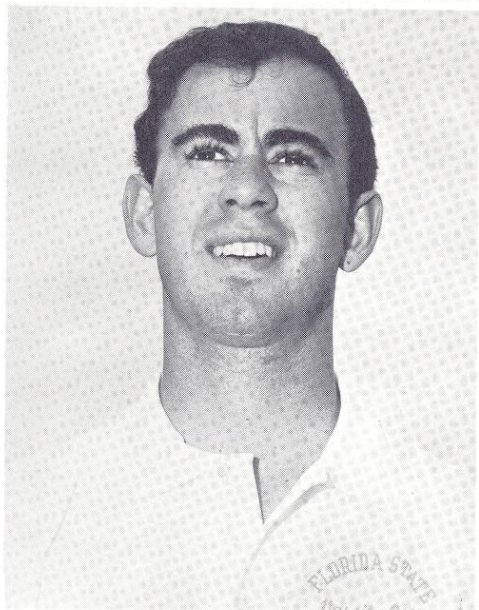

Hubert Green was the individual standout for the Seminoles, but he was aided by Carl DiCesare, Jim Conace, Bobby Huber and Ron Philo.

In the NCAA tourney, the Tribe got off to a third place during the first two rounds but slipped in the final two days to end up tenth.
