

The second game was scoreless until the third when Tech came up with an unearned run.

The Seminoles came back with four in the sixth and another in the seventh to take a comfortable 5-1 lead and appeared on their way to a sweep of the doubleheader.

It was not to be, however. A Tribe error opened the door, and the Yellow Jackets blasted their way to the front.

Sumner dropped Phil Caldwell's pop fly in short left opening the frame. After Lloyd Harris walked, Jim Hargrave singled. Caldwell attempted to score, but Moates' throw beat him to the plate by 45 feet. Catcher John Keith chased the runner back toward third, but then threw the ball into his back for the second error of the inning.

With the bases now full and starter Gene Ammann tiring, Coach Jack Stallings called on top reliefer John Ferguson. Ferguson's first pitch was in the dirt and bounded over Keith allowing one run to score.

Bonifay followed with a single sending another run home. Hudson, batting for pitcher David Vittur, singled in a run, and when Bobby Gibson doubled home another score Ferguson was sent to the showers.

Mike Reibling came on and was greeted by a two-run single from Chip Kays. After the next two batters flew out, Caldwell, batting for the second time in the inning, walked.

Lloyd Harris popped to center, but for the second time in the frame Sumner booted it and Kays scored.

Reibling finally struck out Hargrave to end the inning.

Vittur, who had come on in relief of Tech starter Gary Steele, was the winner, while Ferguson was the loser.

The Seminoles will be trying to put things back in shape before opening a four game road trip to Jacksonville and Georgia Southern Wednesday night.
