

Miami tennis coach Dale Lewis and his Hurricane net squad dined on steak here last night.

They had good reason, for moments earlier the Hurricanes had completed their fourth straight undefeated season and added to the longest winning streak in college tennis history with a 9-0 whitewash job on Florida State.

It was the 89th straight tennis triumph for Miami, which last lost a dual tennis match to Presbyterian, back in 1957.

Finishing 18-0 this season, the Hurricanes took five of yesterday's six singles matches in straight sets. The doubles were much closer, with the No. 2 doubles reaching the 23d game of the third set before Miami pulled it out.

It was a gruelling day for Seminole junior Paul Scarpa, who endured 63 games under a blistering sun. Scarpa carried John Karabasz into the third set of their No. 2 singles match before bowing, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2. He came back with teammate Ed Fasula for a marathon doubles contest. Scarpa and Fasula finally were outlasted by Karabasz and Bob Bossong, 6-0, 4-6, 12-10.

FSU, which has an impressive 15-4 record, has two matches remaining, with Mississippi State here Wednesday and Rollins here Saturday.
