These are the barest dimensions of Prudential's South-Central Home Office in Jacksonville: a 22-story headquarters building for a ten-state operating territory. It's quite a building and quite a territory.

In fact, the South-Central Home Office is Prudential's largest regional home office in terms of policyholders (some 5.5 million) and life insurance in force (over $15 billion). These are impressive figures and naturally we're proud of them. But only because they reflect Prudential's ability to meet the varying life insurance needs of so many people from so many walks of life.

We're glad we picked Jacksonville and Florida for our home town and home state. And, most especially, we're grateful to the people in our ten-state territory for their confidence in us—the real reason why SCHO continues to be number one among Prudential regional home offices.

INTRODUCTION

It's a great privilege to welcome to our 20th Gator Bowl Game the many fans of both Florida State University and the University of Oklahoma, as well as the thousands of other loyal Gator Bowl fans. Today's game matches the football squads of two of America's great universities, and we are extremely happy to have as our guests the fine representatives of these institutions of learning.

An intersectional game between one of the finest football teams from the Southeastern area of the country and one from the Great Southwest always generates tremendous interest and assures everyone of a great football game.

We welcome you both. We're happy to have you as our guests. We wish you both the best of luck — and may the better team win!

Sincerely yours, W. Ashley Verlander

EXCITING KICKOFFS

By HUBERT MIZELL
Gator Bowl Public Relations Director

Nineteen years ago yesterday a gathering of 7,362 people spent New Year's Day watching Wake Forest down South Carolina, 26-14 . . . It was the very bottom of a ladder to sports fame.

That first annual Gator Bowl Game was the beginning of a beautiful romance between Jacksonville and a sports classic destined for greatness. When the principals this afternoon have wrapped up game No. 20, it will be but another page in the book of Gator Bowl memories . . .

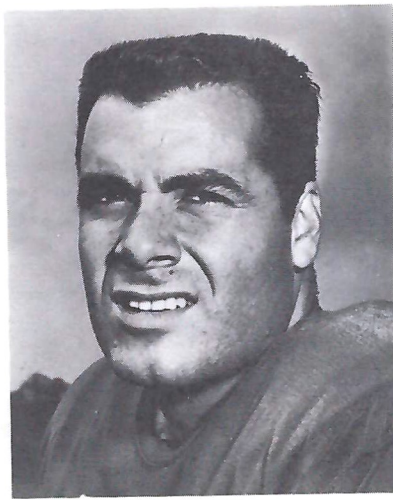

Who can forget when Texas' great coach, Darrell Royal, operated at quarterback for Oklahoma's Gator Bowl champs, Oklahoma's first GB trip . . . Or two years later when Clemson nudged Missouri, 24-23, in what Tiger Coach, Frank Howard, called, "The best game I ever saw."

Heroes have been abundant . . . passing Johnny Rauch of Georgia, smashing Rick Casares of Florida and dashing Larry Libertore of the Gators. The big names of Lu Gambino, Eddie Talboom, Bobby Cavazos, Don Orr, Wade Mitchell, Vince Dooley, John David Crow, Lance Alworth and Galen Hall serve as reminders of days of glory.

What lies ahead is most important . . . as the future always is. But the Gator Bowl past will indeed be a hard act to follow.

GAME HISTORY

GATOR BOWL 1965

Welcome out-of-town sports writers and broadcasters to today's 20th Gator
Bowl football game.

It is a match of striking contrasts . . .
Oklahoma's powerful running attack against Florida State's dazzling passing . . . The nation's winningest team over the past 18 years (Oklahoma) against the newest team to crash the national rankings (FSU).

That the Seminoles have been built on a strong foundation is evident by their being slightly favored today over the Sooners, a team which missed the Big Eight championship by one point.
Enjoy yourselves, gentlemen.

JACK HAIRSTON
Sports Editor, Jacksonville Journal

Hope you are not feeling groggy after all those televised college football spectacles yesterday—because you should be in for one whale of a showdown this afternoon.

When I think of Oklahoma I don't know what I think of first, one of the most successful Broadway plays in history or the most successful college football team in the past two decades.

Well, Oklahoma has it again and we have the Sooners on hand with a bone-crushing running game and a deep well of grid talent.

And there's pro-type excitement to come from Florida State's Seminoles, an upstart that has made it big in national ratings this fall.

It's a good bet that you'll think you are watching the NFL at times when FSU gets its passing attack in high gear.

So rub your eyes, relax and enjoy college football at its walloping best.

FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY

Florida State University founded in 1857 is an institution which is constantly growing with the development of its home state. The university covers almost 300 acres and is situated close by the downtown district of Tallahassee. It offers a varied and intense program of learning giving bachelor's degrees in the schools of education, arts and science, business and home economics. Its graduate school awards master's and doctorates for those students who wish to further their educations. Florida State is a well-rounded university offering not only educational development; but also, social and physical opportunities for the young men and women who comprise its student body.

DR. GORDON W. BLACKWELL

THE FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY
TALLAHASSEE

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

January 2, 1965

To Gator Bowl Fans:

Florida State University's appearance as the host team against the University of Oklahoma in today's 20th Gator Bowl Classic is an achievement we have hoped for--to send our Seminoles to a major bowl game. We couldn't be more proud!

This post-season game in a city which sends us so many outstanding students is a tribute to our players, to Coach Bill Peterson and his staff, and to thousands of alumni and friends who have given the University such splendid support in many University programs.

In a fashion, Florida State University and the Gator Bowl are kin. Both are young and dynamic. Despite this youth, both have experienced measures of greatness. Both have the promise of even greater achievement.

We are pleased to join with President Ash Verlander and all Gator Bowl Association officers in extending the warm hand of Florida hospitality to our opponents from the University of Oklahoma. The history of the Sooners needs no rehearsing. It is an honor to face Oklahoma in what we believe will be one of the nation's most exciting bowl games.

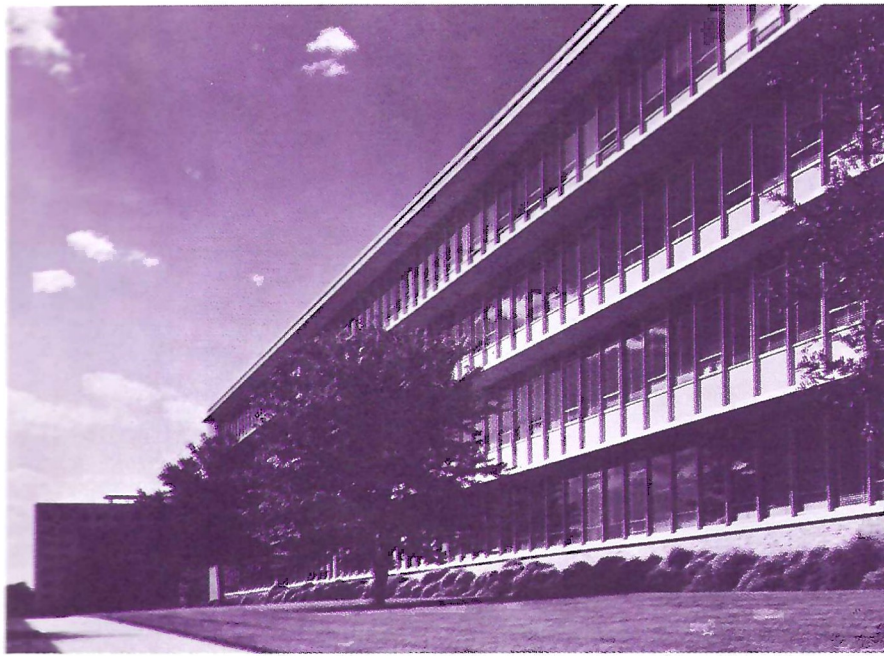

There is a legitimate place in distinguished universities for a well-rounded program of intercollegiate athletics. Our continuing advancement in intercollegiate athletics is a logical step in the growth and development of Florida State University.

While this Seminole team you will see today was maturing, there has come to be a recognition throughout the country and abroad that Florida State University is one of the rising universities in the nation. Our Seminoles are only one symbol of what's taking place at Florida State. For this University will take its place soon as one of the truly distinguished universities of our nation.

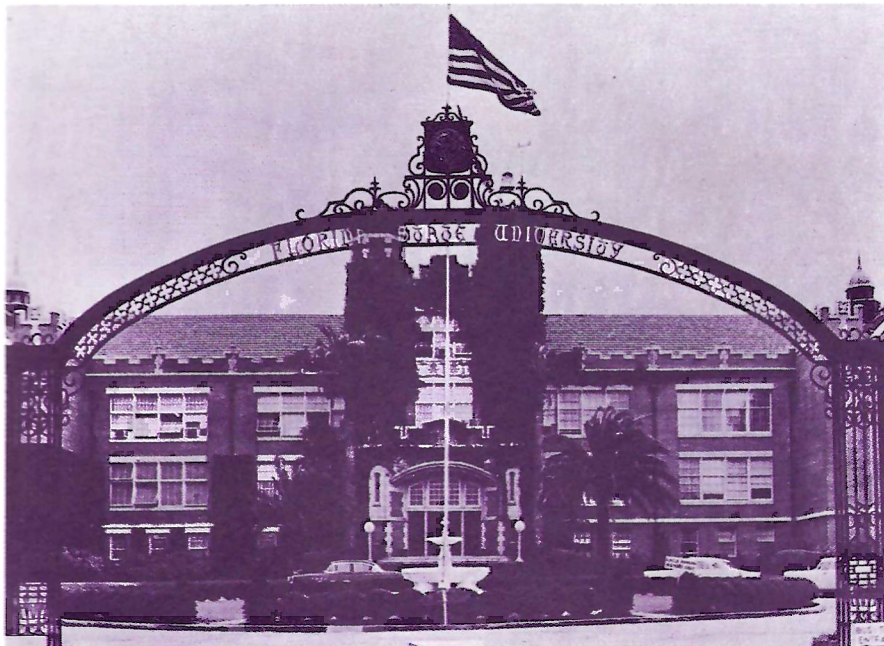

Cordially,

RAY CHARLESTON

THE MAGNIFICENT SEMINOLES

By RAY CHARLESTON
Florida Times-Union

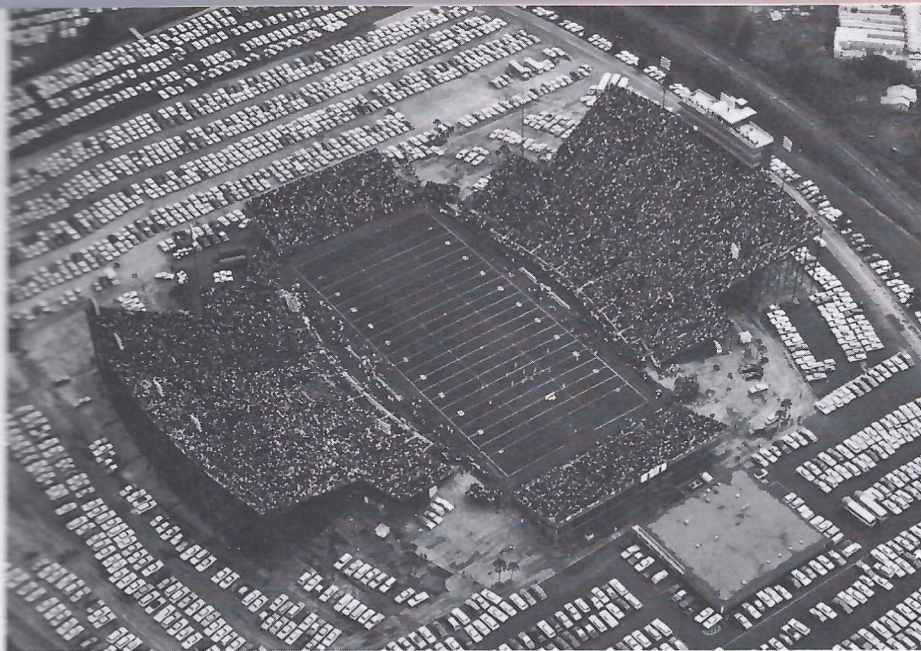

After watching Florida State's last 101 games, I consider the Gator Bowl Seminoles not only the finest team in the school's history, but also one of the best and most exciting in 1964 college football.

Florida State parlayed a most exciting "bomb," a bruising running game and "The Seven Magnificents" to post its totally unexpected 8-1-1 record and become one of the most talked-about teams in sports. FSU's offense ranks among the most exciting and paralyzing in bowl game action because a touchdown can come with breath-taking suddenness. Quarterback Steve Tensi, a national back of the week in the 1964 season, can throw a football an unbelievable distance and flanker back Fred Biletnikoff, an All-American, ranks as probably the best receiver in college ranks.

The "Seven," a line which specialized in wrecking the other team's offense, is led by a middle guard Jack Shinholser, one of football's quickest and most aggressive linemen.

Veteran observers of Florida State football had no inkling the 1964 team would turn into one of the best in the sport. The Seminoles figured to be good, but not among the nation's best. But, it did not take long to see the handwriting on the wall as FSU jumped off to five straight triumphs and the team's followers knew they had a winner.

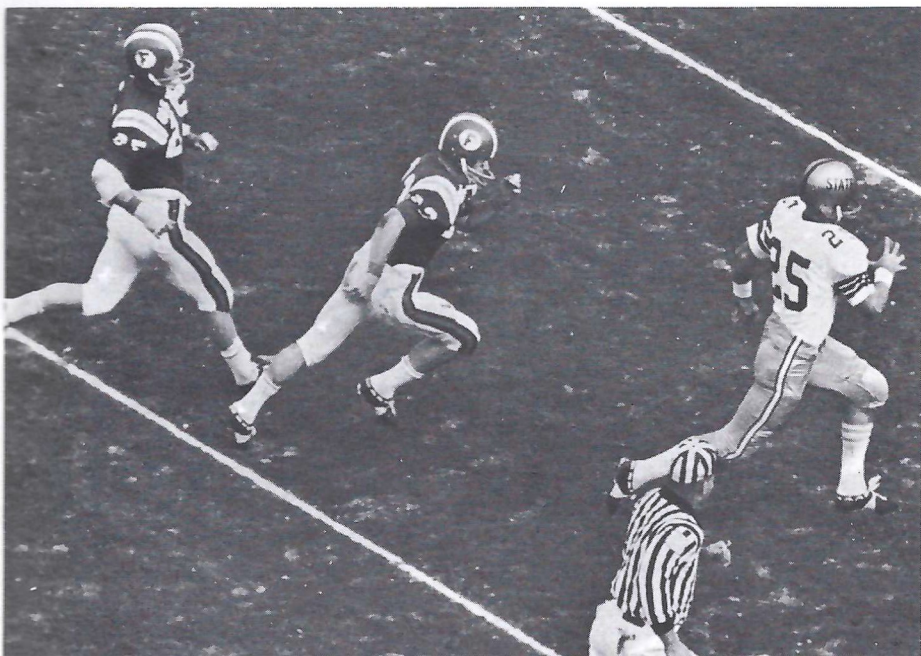

Florida State is exciting both on offense and defense. This post season attraction is the Seminoles' big moment, and the team is most dangerous at such times.

An aerial view taken of Florida State's Doak S. Campbell Stadium seating approximately 40,500 people.

Florida State's Phil Spooner (27) stopped after a 6 yard pickup. Florida State lost to V.P.I. 20-11.

A 55 yard touchdown pass from Tensi to Biletnikoff paving the way to a 16-7 Florida State victory over Florida.

THE OUTSTANDING OKLAHOMA SOONERS

By JIM WEEKS
Sports Editor Norman Transcript

Oklahoma's Sooners overcame a slow start, losing three of their first four games, to finish the regular season with a 6-3-1 record. Most of OU's veteran players were inconsistent in the early rugged tests against Southern California, Texas and Kansas. The Sooners muffed nine of their 23 lost fumbles in those games and gained only 170 yards rushing, normally Oklahoma's strong point, in only one of the contests.

But the Sooners changed to the two-platoon system after the second game, overcame some minor injuries and weaker foes to gain some confidence.

OU coaches decided to use Bobby Page, 1963 quarterback starter who did not play until the second half of the fifth game this season, and the offense began to move.

The Sooners hit a season peak by beating Big Eight Conference champion and fourth-ranked Nebraska, 17-7. Oklahoma has played in ten bowls, won seven.

GEORGE L. CROSS
President

UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA

The University of Oklahoma, founded in 1892, has a high academic standing among the other fine universities in the nation. The university covers over one thousand acres and is located in south Norman, near the center of the state. The university has an outstanding academic program with 99 fields from which to select a course of study. It offers a doctor of philosophy degree in 24 areas and a master's degree in 63 different departments. The schools of geology and petroleum engineering are the largest such schools in the world. The social and physical aspects of development are not neglected at the university. Students are given many opportunities to participate in both physical and social activities.

OFFICE OF
THE PRESIDENT

THE UNIVERSITY OF OKLAHOMA
NORMAN, OKLAHOMA 73069
December 8, 1964

Mr. George Olsen
Executive Vice President
The Gator Bowl Committee
Jacksonville, Florida

Dear Mr. Olsen:

The students, faculty members and administrators of the University of Oklahoma are proud that our football team was chosen to play in the 1965 Gator Bowl.

This will mark the first time since 1947 that Oklahoma has competed in the Gator Bowl. The game gives Sooner football fans an opportunity to visit the beautiful city of Jacksonville and renew friendships with the many Floridians who have shown us such fine courtesies in the past.

We are particularly pleased that the competing team represents Florida State University, an institution with an academic and athletic reputation of which it may well be proud.

Our sincere best wishes for the continuing success of your outstanding Gator Bowl program.

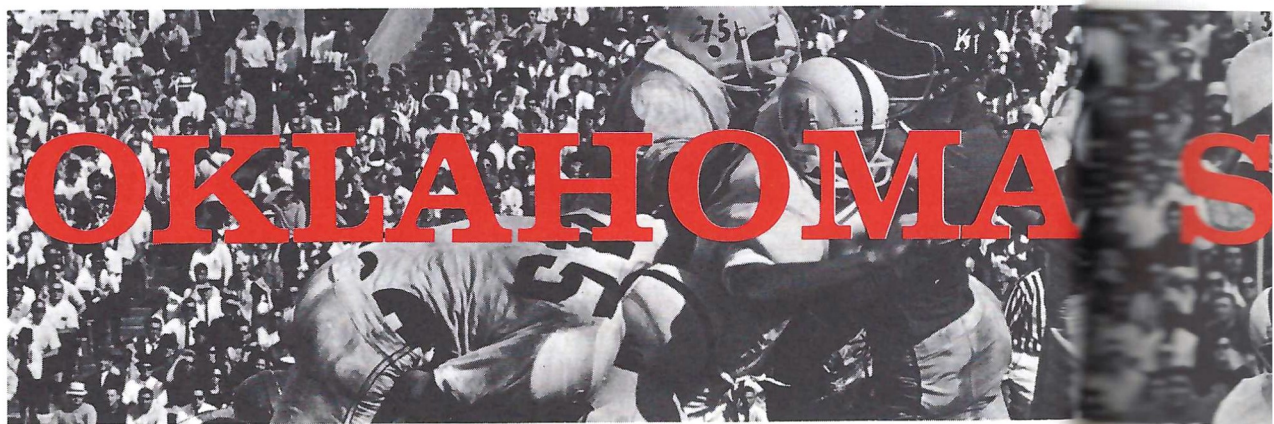

Sincerely,

G. L. Cross
President

MARY GRACE EZELL — 20, a sophomore, working toward a degree in drama.

Girls were selected from JACKSONVILLE UNIVERSITY — one of the youngest colleges in America... founded in 1935, it became a 4-year fully accredited institution in 1956. It has since grown to become one of the most modern and beautiful schools in the south. The campus overlooks the St. Johns River in the Arlington Section of Jacksonville.

JO MILLER — 18, a freshman, honor student majoring in nursing

GLORIA GRANGER — 19, a senior, majoring in history. Plans to do graduate work.

Raymond McCarthy

O. J. Oosterhoudt

In Memoriam

This publication is respectfully dedicated to two men, Raymond McCarthy and O. J. Oosterhoudt, who contributed so much to the Gator Bowl Association. Because of people like them, the Gator Bowl is what it has become today.

Raymond McCarthy was one of the three men who formed the Gator Bowl Association late in 1945. Until his death this past year, he continued to work for the Gator Bowl.

O. J. Oosterhoudt served as finance chairman of the Gator Bowl Association from 1947 until his death this past year.

Their spirit and resourcefulness will be an inspiration to the Gator Bowl Association in the years to come.

Southern Bell
... Serving You

HAVE A BALL...

that's what the Gator Bowl's for! And down through the years that's what the Gator Bowl has always been for the thousands who have made it an annual "must." This is an occasion that calls for a cheer, and Southern Bell offers a rousing one—for this bowl classic and the people of Jacksonville for making it possible.
