Sun Carnival President

Splendor in the Sun!

What could be a more appropriate theme for this, our 32nd annual Southwestern Sun Carnival?

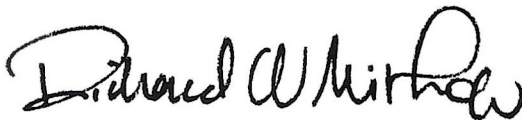

Our sunshine is almost legendary, a gift and a pleasure we happily share with you. Although we can take no credit for El Paso's wonderful climate, we are rightfully proud of the hundreds of volunteers who have been working for the past year, to prepare one of our finest Sun Carnivals.

This year, our celebration begins with our nationally-televised Sun Bowl game. On succeeding days, you will witness the finest intercollegiate basketball, the pageantry and charm of the Sun Queen's Coronation and Coronation Ball, the magnificence and beauty of the colorful Sun Parade, and fifteen other outstanding events—all planned to bring you holiday enjoyment.

We trust that our efforts will be pleasing. El Paso is noted for its hospitality. Share it with us, as you join in the 32nd annual Sun Carnival celebration.

Truly, we can all enjoy "Splendor in the Sun"!

Cordially,

Richard W. Mithoff
President
1966-67 Southwestern Sun
Carnival Association

The Sun Queen

A radiant young-and-lovely blond miss reigns as Queen of the 1966-67 Sun Carnival. Susan Joan McKee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles David McKee of El Paso.

Queen Susan, born at Los Alamos, New Mexico, when her father was project manager of the massive test-development site, came to El Paso when she was three years old. She attended Zack White School, where she won Citizenship and Penmanship awards, and El Paso High School where she was an honor student, Senior Class secretary, French Club vice-president, Bonne' Annee' secretary, member of Kalevala, "E" Association, Junior and Senior Honor Societies, Student Council representative, runner-up for Girl with the Prettiest Hair and Best Dressed Girl.

Her hobby is her pure-bred Arabian horse, "Hindi's Abu Ali," which she broke and trained and shows in Western and Arabian riding competitions.

Susan Joan is a sophomore at the University of Colorado, majoring in political science. She plans to travel to Europe, visiting friends and checking on schools in France and Germany where she may take her Junior year of studies. Queen Susan is a member of Alpha Phi sorority, Cosmopolitan Club and Campus Friends, organizations to promote orientation and friendship of foreign students on campus. She speaks French, German and Spanish.

Susan's brothers are David Michael McKee and Charles Steven McKee. Mike is an honor graduate of New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell, now a fourth year architecture student at the University of Colorado, winner of a 1965 top student award for design, presented by the A.I.A.

Steve is a sixth grade student at Zack White School, member of the band, model car and airplane enthusiast, and an award winner of the 1966 Soap Box Derby.

The Sun Queen's father, C. D. McKee, is a native El Pasoan, second oldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. McKee. The Queen's mother, the former Martha Louise Carter, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Carter of Amarillo.

Susan's parents met as students at New Mexico State University, where he was a mechanical engineering student and she was a pre-med and English major.

After graduation, Dave McKee worked on projects of the Robert E. McKee Construction Company, and the youthful Miss Carter returned to the family home in Amarillo. They were married seven years later and immediately moved to Panama. Then Mrs. McKee returned to El Paso when Capt. McKee, engineer and combat construction officer in the U.S. Marine Corps, was on active duty in the Central Pacific war zone during World War II.

In 1946, the McKees lived at Los Alamos, N. M., and Susan was born there in 1947, regarded as one of the first atomic-age babies.

Mr. McKee, honored as N.M.S.U. "Distinguished Alumni" in 1962, is president of the Zia Company, vice-president of R. E. McKee General Contractors, Inc., a director of Chelmont State Bank, and president of Los Caballeros Club. As a director and member of the Sheriff's Posse, he has ridden in Sun Parades for many years, and is a lifelong enthusiast in support of Sun Carnival activities with other members of the McKee family—Robert E. McKee, Jr. of Dallas, Texas; John S. McKee of El Paso; Mrs. Margaret Lund, the former Margaret McKee who reigned as Queen of the 1938-39 Sun Carnival; Mrs. Frances Evelyn Hays of El Paso; James W. McKee of El Paso; Philip S. McKee of Galisteo, New Mexico, and Louis B. McKee of El Paso.

Mrs. McKee is a member of the board of directors of the El Paso Museum of Art, member of the Woman's Department of the Chamber of Commerce and co-chairman of brunches to honor wives of Allied Students at Ft. Bliss Air Defense Center, and unit-chairman for the Allied Student Battalion. Her sister is Mrs. H. F. Brown of Las Cruces, New Mexico.

The McKee family, pioneer El Pasoans, have been magnanimous in their contribution to the community, through generous gifts and support of countless building, civic and charitable projects, now carried on through the efforts of the Robert E. and Evelyn McKee Memorial Foundation.

The McKee family home was recently donated to the Cerebral Palsy and Rehabilitation Center of El Paso.

Queen Susan McKee, reigning over the 1966-67 Sun Carnival, will be escorted by Mr. Guy Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Ray of Rawlins, Wyoming. He was an outstanding high school student in sports and scholastic achievement and is now an honor student at Colorado College of Mines. He is a petroleum engineering major, attending college on a football scholarship, active as a member of Alpha Tau Omega, Theta Tau national engineering fraternity, Dean's List, Academic Honor Roll, "M" Letterman's Club, and is a class officer.

A week of sports, social and special events, Dec. 24, 1966, through Jan. 1, 1967 is scheduled in celebration of the 32nd annual Sun Carnival.

The Lady-In-Waiting

Another poised-and-pretty young blond, cousin to Sun Queen Susan McKee, will reign as Lady-in-Waiting in the 1966-67 Sun Carnival. Barbara Jean McKee, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. McKee of El Paso.

Lady-in-Waiting Barbara was born in El Paso, attended pre-public school at Ft. Bliss, and Radford School for Girls from the 2nd grade through her Freshman year in high school. She won honors for her talents in piano and in homemaking and was President of the Freshman class.

Barbara Jean is now a junior at Coronado High School, treasurer of Solumnos Tri-Hi-Y, enjoys English studies, animals, sports, travel and music. She plans to major in English in college, at the University of Texas at Austin, or the University of Colorado.

The Coronation Ball

For the third year, guests at the Sun Carnival Coronation Ball will dance to the music of Johnny Vana and the Coronation Orchestra.

The Coronation program, pageant, and entertainment will also have the finest musical accompaniment provided by this troupe of well-known musical talents.

Vana and his orchestra have gained local and regional recognition for outstanding performances at the Coronation, at parties, festivals, dances, special events, and as the showtime orchestra for musical comedy productions.

Vana, an accomplished musician, classical and popular music drummer, is a graduate of the University of Omaha, featured as soloist and first chair percussionist with the Omaha Symphony Orchestra, former Commander of the 680th U.S. Air Force Band,

John S. McKee, father of the Lady-in-Waiting, is the third oldest son of the late Robert E. and Evelyn McKee. He is a civil engineer, a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, and served as president of Phi Kappa Alpha.

Mrs. McKee, born in Cleburne, Texas, is the former Miss Nan Honea Randle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Randle. Miss Randle and John McKee were introduced by Mrs. Margaret Lund, during high school days. They renewed an acquaintance at the University of Texas, and were married while she was still a student there.

The John McKees lived in Honolulu for 2½ years, while Mr. McKee worked on projects of the McKee Construction Co. as a construction engineer. He is president of Remcon Realty Co., Inc., operators of Chelmont Shopping Center; vice-president of the Zia Company and R. E. McKee General Contractors, Inc.; president of the Robert E. and Evelyn McKee Foundation; a director of State National Bank of El Paso; owner of Sunset Acres Thoroughbred Farm; vice-president of the New Mexico Horse Breeders Association and member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Mrs. McKee is a member of El Paso Museum of Art and YWCA, active in Austin High School Parent-Teacher's Association for seven years, Radford Mothers Association and Coronado P-TA.

Lady-in-Waiting Barbara Jean has two sisters and a brother, Mrs. Arthur Allen Cohen of Houston, Mrs. Jim Tatum of Houston, and John S. McKee, Jr., a graduate of Austin High School, now attending New Mexico State University where he is studying pre-veterinary medicine and agriculture and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Escort to the Lady-in-Waiting Barbara McKee will be Caswell Patton Forrest, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Forrest of Albuquerque. As a high school student, Pat was a track letterman, member of the golf and ski teams. He is now a freshman at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque, majoring in civil engineering, and is a pledge of Beta Xi chapter of Sigma Chi.

During the week of Sun Carnival festivities, Lady-in-Waiting Barbara Jean McKee and Sun Queen Susan McKee will be honored at many exciting events throughout the community.

and accompanist to many famous entertainers and recording artists. He is director of bands at El Paso High School, tympanist with the El Paso Symphony, featured in half-time performances of the University of Texas at El Paso Marching Cavalcade at Sun Bowl Stadium.

Jim Angelos, Sun Carnival vice president, representing the Active 20-30 Club of El Paso, is in charge of the Coronation Ball and arrangements for the dance orchestra. Club members also take charge of the Coliseum box office, tables and seating arrangements, and ushers for Coronation night guests.

After the Coronation program, 1966-67 Sun Queen Susan McKee will have the traditional first waltz with her father, C. David McKee, followed by the dance-time entertainment of another fun-filled Coronation Ball.

Mrs. Francis C. Broaddus Jr., vice president of Sun Court, Coronation and social events, was honored as Junior League of El Paso "Volunteer of the Year" for organizing volunteer services at R. E. Thomason General Hospital. She was Thomason Auxiliary president for four years, is an honorary life member of the Auxiliary and board, and is past president of Kappa Alpha Theta alumnae, past chairman of the Advisors Board of the UTEP Civic Ballet, first chairman of Adult Tours of the El Paso Museum of Art and vice president of the El Paso Bar Assoc. Auxiliary. Mr. Broaddus is a member of the law firm of Mayfield, Broaddus and Perrenot. Their children are John, 15; Bill, 13; Nancy, 10, and Brian, 8.

Mrs. Joseph R. Hoover is vice president in charge of Sun Court, Coronation and women's social events. She is past president of the Women of St. Clement's Church, Coronado Country Club Women's Golf Assoc., and winner of many city and regional golf championships. She was 1964 Tri-Hi-Y Mother of the Year and has held offices in the Junior League of El Paso, Providence Memorial Hospital Woman's Auxiliary, Coronado PTA and the Southwestern Golf Association. She is active in St. Clements Parents Council, Experiment in International Living, El Paso Museum of Art, Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae and El Paso Ski and Tennis Clubs. Mr. Hoover, who is a Lower Valley cotton farmer, and Mrs. Hoover, have a daughter, Molly, 16, and a son, Jodie, 8.

We extend to you a welcome as warm and bright as the Sun, itself!
It has been our great pleasure to be a part of the 32nd annual Sun Carnival—truly an established tradition in our magnificent Southwestern Sun Country.
Mrs. Joseph R. Hoover

Sun Court, Coronation and Social Events

Coronation

No more fitting tribute can be found to celebrate the 32nd Anniversary of the Southwestern Sun Carnival, than to select a theme honoring the Sun, Sun Country, and El Paso, Capitol of the Fabulous Sun-ny Southwest.

"Splendor in the Sun," theme of the glittering 1966-67 Coronation, was planned by Sun Carnival vice presidents Mrs. Francis C. Broaddus, Jr. and Mrs. Joseph Hoover in charge of the Sun Court, Coronation, and women's social events.

With the dedicated assistance of almost 200 volunteers serving on 35 volunteer committees, the gala week of Sun Carnival is highlighted by the regal splendor of the Coronation ceremony and the attraction of the delightful Coronation entertainment program.

The unique slide-presentation, with a program by some of El Paso's finest talents, in an elaborate setting of shimmering rays from a golden sun, was conceived and designed by Bill Lautenbach. The complex Coronation presentation and program was directed by Mrs. David Becker.

The entire plan of the Sun Carnival Coronation has taken on many new dimensions, this year. Seating capacity in El Paso Coliseum is doubled from previous years, by staging the colorful ceremony and program at the South end of the Coliseum building.

The slide presentation, "Splendor in the Sun," is made possible by countless contributions of brilliant prints emphasizing the beauty, versatility, and rewards of life in El Paso. The entertainment-accent, featuring local talents to highlight features of the slide-presentation, give a third dimension to the new and excitingly different program.

The lovely new Sun Queen, Miss Susan McKee, and Children of the Sun Queen's Court will ride on a specially-constructed float, the entire length of the Coronation hall, to the distinctive stage area. As the Queen ascends steps to a sphere of a gleaming golden sun, a wave of her regal scepter will cause the giant globe to open, revealing a majestic throne. Here, she will begin her reign, as the Sun Court and Coronation guests are treated to the Coronation program.

Preceding the presentation of the 1966-67 Sun Queen and Escort Guy Ray, with Lady-in-Waiting Miss Barbara McKee and Escort Pat Forrester, the Sun Court and dignitaries will be formally introduced to Coronation guests.

Forty lovely Sun Princesses with their escorts, representing leading communities and colleges in the El Paso-Southwestern area, and twelve charming Sun Duchesses with escorts, representing El Paso's leading women's civic organizations, will be spotlighted, this year.

They will honor 1965-66 Sun Queen Pamela Ann MacGuire with Escort Lt. Charles S. Leavell, Lady-in-Waiting Carol MacGuire with Escort Gary Johnson, 1966-67 Sun Carnival President Richard Mithoff and Mrs. Mithoff.

After the formal Coronation ceremonies and entertainment program, the honor of the first waltz with Queen Susan belongs to her father, C. D. McKee, marking the start of the festive Coronation Ball.

The week of special activities for all El Pasoans and their guests, in celebration of the 32nd annual Sun Carnival, will surely be viewed as a fitting tribute to the bountiful beauty and pleasures of the Southwest.

It is a time of true appreciation of the delights of living where there is abundant "Splendor in the Sun."

1966-67 Sun Parade Grand Marshals

DON HASKINS

BOBBY DOBBS

For the past two years, the achievements of the Flying Miners Basketball Team and Football Team of El Paso's own University of Texas, have given new significance to the 1966-67 Sun Carnival theme, "Splendor in the Sun."

For the 1966-67 Sun Parade, no two candidates more worthy of the honor of Grand Parade Marshal are to be found, than U-TEP Basketball Coach Don Haskins and U-TEP Football Coach Bobby Dobbs.

The opportunity to honor both outstanding El Pasoans was announced by Sun Carnival Vice-President George N. Broderson, Jr., serving for the second year in charge of the Sun Parade, as a representative of the Downtown Lions Club.

Both Dobbs and Haskins are masters of the art of bringing crowds to their feet with thunderous applause: Dobbs for his skill in developing a colorful, entertaining and successful team; Haskins for his unrivaled triumph as coach of the Number One basketball team in the nation, the 1966 N.C.A.A. Champions.

Don Haskins, born in Enid, Oklahoma, is a graduate of Oklahoma State University. He coached high school teams in Benjamin, Hedley and Dumas, Texas, before coming to U-TEP six years ago.

Sparked by Haskins' coaching, Flying Miners basketball teams have piled up impressive win records and attracted stellar competition in Sun Carnival Basketball Tournaments, before the thrill-packed 1965-66 season that led to ultimate national victory. Haskins was named El Paso's "Headliner of Year" in 1966.

Coach and Mrs. Don Haskins have four sons, Mark, Brent, Steven and David.

Robert Lee (Bobby) Dobbs, born in Munday, Texas, attended the University of Tulsa and U. S. Military Academy. He coached teams at Carswell Air Force Base, West Point, the University of Tulsa and the Canadian League Calgary Stampeders, before coming to U-TEP to achieve a new brand of Flying Miners football action. The highly successful opening season included a coveted bid to the 1965 Sun Bowl, and a breathtaking win over Texas Christian University, 13-12. Dobbs was named El Paso's 1965 "Headliner of the Year."

Coach and Mrs. Dobbs have three children, Johnny Bob, Suzanne, and Michael Lee.

These two popular local heroes will share top billing as Grand Parade Marshals, for their outstanding contributions to the community. The nation-wide spotlight of honor and recognition, which their achievements have brought to El Paso, makes our "Splendor in the Sun" even brighter and more rewarding, this year.

PARADE ROUTE

Sun Parade

More than 150,000 spectators are expected to line the 3-mile route of the annual Sun Parade and applaud the colorful pageantry—but few will realize how great the achievement really is, or how many people are involved in the responsibility for the parade's success!

George N. Broderson, Jr., Sun Carnival vice president for the Sun Parade, is responsible for the parade theme, development of plans and organization of the community's participation in the gala procession.

For the 28th year, Warren "Pappy" Hoyt will act in the official capacity as Parade Coordinator. Maury Cohen is assistant coordinator.

Theme of the Sun Parade, "Splendor in the Sun," is a fitting tribute to the 32nd annual Sun Carnival, linked directly to plans for the glittering Coronation, providing a unified theme for all events in the 1966-67 Sun Carnival celebration.

Special floats, designed to illustrate the Coronation theme and provide attractive settings for the Sun Court, are special attractions in the Parade. Sun Court floats will include a special design for the Queen, Lady in Waiting and Children of the Court; a separate float for the twelve reigning Sun Duchesses, and eight floats for Sun Princesses as they participate in one of the major Sun Carnival events.

Early on the morning of December 31st, before traffic begins to make its way toward the Parade route, hundreds of volunteer assistants will be hard at work, preparing traffic routes and safety lanes, establishing radio-control posts, designating approach points for floats, bands, marching units, special parade entries, and checking final details before the 10:00 a.m. starting time.

Each float will be checked and appraised in advance by the Float Judges: William Thorpe, Mrs. Grace K. Smith, R. L. Skov, Mrs. Odie Ditmore, and Donald D. Foos, with Mrs. Peter deWetter, alternate. Floats will receive final judging as they pass the reviewing stand in parade formation.

Float entries are judged in four categories: Industrial, Commercial, Service Clubs and Civic Organizations, and Military. Other special designations include Non-Competitive units, automobiles for Sun Parade dignitaries, Bands, Horse Mounted units, and Marching units.

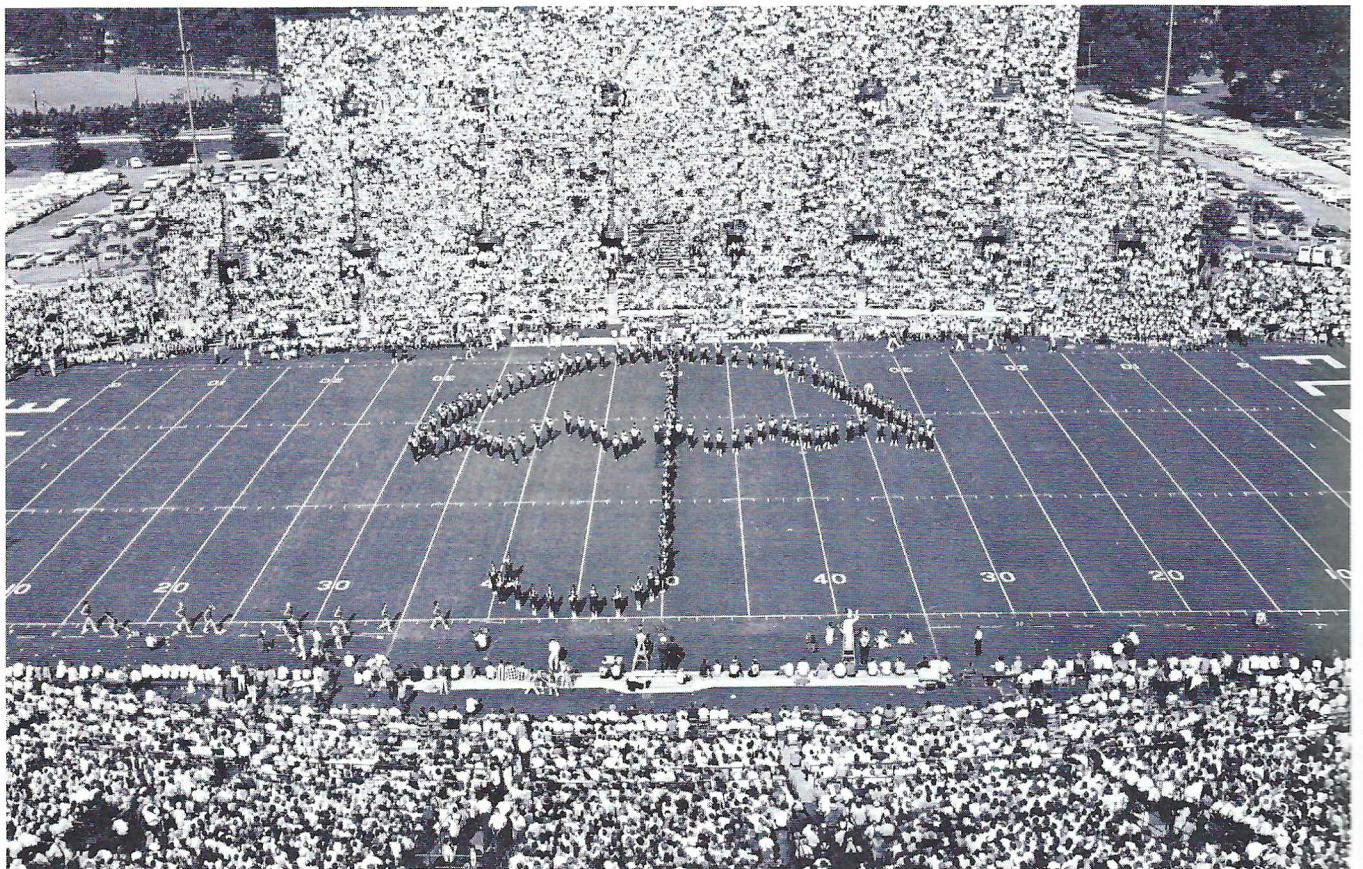

Trophies will be awarded for first and second place entries in each category, with a Sweepstakes Trophy for the best overall entry. Judges may also award special trophies where float entries are so outstanding and merit special recognition.

Although 1966-67 Sun Carnival activities are not ended by Saturday morning, December 31st, when the Sun Parade is scheduled, it is surely the highlight of a week of festive celebration—another triumph for El Paso and the Sun Carnival and a tribute to "Splendor in the Sun."

The greatest halftime show in 32 years of Sun Bowl history has been arranged for the game between the Wyoming Cowboys and the Florida State Seminoles. Each university has sent its complete band, and each band will perform for eight minutes at halftime. The Cowboys' musical aggregation is particularly noted for its ability to generate enthusiasm in the stands with its rendition of Wyoming's unofficial fight song, "Ragtime Cowboy Joe." Its director is Charles Seltnerich. Florida State's Marching Chiefs have been widely acclaimed for years as one of the nation's best bands and include the Seminole Twins and football's most attractive forward wall—the Seminole majorette corps. The F.S.U. band director is Robert Braunagel.

Sun Carnival Bullfight

A unique attraction in the annual Sun Carnival program is the "Corrida del Sol," a bullfight held in nearby Juarez, Mexico. This year the Sun Carnival bullfight will be held starting at 3 p.m. Sunday, January 1, at Monumental Bullring on 16th de Septiembre Street.

Dedicated to the Sun Queen and her Court, the bullfight matches some of the best matadors in Mexico in "hand-to-hand" competition.

Most El Paso-Juarez residents are fully familiar with bullfighting but the Sun Carnival visitor who will witness his first "corrida" should try to acquaint himself with the time-honored procedures and customs to gain a greater understanding and enjoyment. Bullfighting manuals are usually available in Juarez and there are some excellent works in El Paso Public Library. El Paso's Tom Lea compiled an excellent handbook and reprints of his work are still available.

Bullfighting is one of the more popular activities in Mexico, but it is not to be considered a sport in the ordinary meaning of the word.

"The man (matador) is supposed to live, by his bravery, and the bull to die. It is not a sport but a ritual, a tragic drama, concerning the power of death and the glory of courage," Lea wrote.

Monumental Bullring, site of this year's Sun Carnival Corrida, has a seating capacity of 18,000. There is ample parking. The arena may be reached by driving over either the Stanton Street or Cordova Island bridges.

Holloman Air Force Base

Roar of supersonic F-100 Super Sabers from the 4758th Defense Systems Evaluation Squadron of Holloman Air Force Base in New Mexico in a flyover will signal the start of the 1966 Sun Bowl and the Sun Parade.

Through the courtesy of the United States Air Force, the flyover adds a fitting military touch to the Sun Carnival program. This is the second year that pilots from the 4758th have participated in the aerial salute; last year the group was stationed at Biggs Air Force Base, their home since 1939. The organization was transferred to Holloman in April of this year when Biggs Field was deactivated.

J. Warren Hoyt, Sun Parade coordinator, discusses the flyover with Major J. Rosenberry (left) and Major Walter Harris, both members of the 4758th Squadron.

Sun Golf

Sun Carnival pro-am golf tournament is slated to begin at 8 a.m. Monday, December 26, at Ascarate Golf Course in Ascarate Park, Highway 80 East and Delta Street.

The third renewal of the tournament will see total prize money of $1,000 with a $300 top prize. Competition will be 18 holes, best ball for two-man teams.

El Paso County Commissioner Richard Telles is tournament chairman for the sponsoring Ascarate Golf Course Association.

Entry fee for teams will be $20 with December 22 deadline for registration. Full handicaps, attested by home course professionals, will be given.

There will be 13 awards with $300 top prize for the winning team; $200 will go to the runners-up and $150 for the third place finishers. There will be a $100 award for fourth place and $50 for fifth place. There will be $25 prizes for those finishing sixth through 13th.

Sun Carnival History

Seven fun-filled days of holiday merriment and sparkling entertainment, enhanced by a renewal of Sun Carnival traditions, unite to make this, the 32nd annual Southwestern Sun Carnival, an event of which Southwesterners can be proud.

And it all began with a football game!

In 1935, Dr. C. M. Hendricks and Dr. Brice W. Schuller promoted a football game between a team of El Paso high school all-stars and a team from Ranger, Texas. The success of that contest led to the scheduling of college teams the following year. The game was named the Sun Bowl.

Soon the event became a week-long carnival, filling the days from Christmas to New Year's with varied activities. It grew rapidly in size and stature.

Realizing its importance, El Paso civic clubs joined the El Paso Kiwanis in the huge task of staging the festival. Other clubs which provide the volunteers, include Downtown Rotary, Downtown Lions, 20-30, Jaycees, Downtown Optimists, Five Points Lions, East El Paso Rotary and East El Paso Kiwanis.

Each of the clubs furnishes five men to the Carnival's Board of Directors. The major portion of the actual planning and execution is entrusted to an Executive Committee composed of a president, executive vice-president, secretary and treasurer and vice-presidents who are placed in charge of the various activities.

While attention focuses on the Sun Bowl football game, other major events include the Sun Queen's Coronation and Coronation Ball, Sun Bowl basketball tournament and the elaborate Sun Carnival parade. The coronation is recognized as the outstanding social event of the year in El Paso, and is unrivaled in lavishness and pageantry. The Sun Parade features floats which compare with those seen in other Bowl cities in the nation. Some of the nation's top basketball teams participate in the intercollegiate basketball tourney.

Other special events and activities include a symphony concert, art exhibitions, bowling tournament, tennis tournament, pistol shoot, baton twirling contest, table tennis tournament, polo match, Touch-down Club Luncheon, Sheriff's Posse breakfast, thoroughbred and dog racing, band jamboree and rodeo.

During the 32 years of this annual salute to the sun-blessed Southwest, volunteer leadership and effort have been the lifeblood of the Sun Carnival. Civic interest and civic pride have joined to produce one of the country's major winter spectacles.

El Paso Symphony

The traditional Sun Carnival Symphony, honoring the Sun Queen and her Court, will be held at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, December 28, in Liberty Hall. It will be the fourth concert of the 1966-67 subscription season by the El Paso Symphony Orchestra.

Orlando Barera, musical director of the orchestra since 1951, will conduct. He has personally chosen the selections for the concert which will open with the playing of the National Anthem.

Stately marches will provide the regal accompaniment for the entrance and introduction of the Sun Queen and her Court, together with their escorts.

Featured in the program will be the first cellist of the orchestra, Mr. Eugene Eicher, as soloist.

The complete program:

Overture
"Oberon" ..... Weber

Cello Concerto in B flat Major ..... Boccherini

Allegro moderato—Adagio, non troppo—Allegro
Soloist Eugene Eicher

INTERMISSION

From Swan Lake Ballet:
"Scene and Waltz" ..... Tchaikowsky

Finlandia ..... Sibelius

"Orpheus in the Underworld" ..... Offenbach

Members of the Sun Bowl football and basketball teams will receive the Movado, one of the world's finest watches, with "Sun Bowl" and the date inscribed on the face of the watch as a memento of their participation in the 1966-67 Southwestern Sun Carnival sports program.

Movado has achieved a world-wide reputation for precision and is one of the most remarkable in the Swiss watch industry. The Movado watch was the first made in a small watchmaking shop in Chaux-de-Fonds, a town which is now the center of the Swiss watch industry. The name "Movado" is taken from the international language Esperanto meaning "always active."

Movado watches have achieved singular honors at international expositions since 1900 and the firm has been in the forefront with such innovations as the calendar watch, self-winding watch and others which have been widely copied.

Sun Bowl

El Paso's Sun Bowl is probably the most copied stadium designs in the country, and with good reason. One of the newest facilities in the nation devoted exclusively to football, the Sun Bowl was chosen as one of the ten best architecturally designed structures by the Texas Society of Architects. It has received praise from throughout the country and is a tribute to the foresight of El Paso County taxpayers who passed a $1.75 million bond issue for its construction in 1960. It was formally opened in September, 1963.

The location of the stadium is one of its many unusual features. The Sun Bowl commands a view of two nations (Mexico and the United States) and three states (New Mexico, Chihuahua and Texas). Through the open end of the stadium can be seen the Rio Grande and a portion of Juarez; to the north are the Franklin Mountains and on all sides are rugged foothills which provide excellent seating for those who choose not to purchase tickets.

Prior to the Sun Bowl, football games were played at Kidd Field which is adjacent to the present stadium. Many of the drawbacks of Kidd Field helped the planners build the almost perfect Sun Bowl. For example, there are no seats behind poles nor seats in the end zone. The stadium is cup-shaped so that all seats face towards the 50-yard line. In addition, 10,490 seats (almost the capacity of Kidd Field) are in the Sun Bowl's center sections. All seats are of the wooden bench type and project from concrete tiers. Seats are 28 inches from front to back and are 18 inches wide; normally stadium seats are only 26 inches in depth and 16 inches wide.

A wide concourse runs completely around the inside of the stadium and leads to ten entrances on each side of the stadium. The concourse also leads to six different concession areas and to four rest room facilities. Telephones and drinking fountains can be found easily. There are additional concession stands beneath the pressbox on the west side.

All of the lights are atop four tubular steel poles, 165 feet high. The poles flank the pressbox on the west side and are behind the east stands. Each pole supports a bank of eighty 1,500 watt bulbs and each light is accurately aimed at the field. The lights provide sufficient illumination for color photography at night.

There is no track in the stadium which allowed placement of stands nearer the playing field. A special thick-rooted grass provides an excellent playing surface. The huge scoreboard at the south end of the stadium was the first of its kind to designate the number of time-outs. Marquee-type signboards hold the names of the opposing teams and there are the other usual spectator aids on the board.

All controls for the scoreboard, field lights and public address system are in the modern pressbox which sits on concrete pillars at the top of the west stands. The pressbox has facilities for more than 60 newsmen, individual booths for visiting team scouts, statisticians, radio and television stations, and rest rooms. There is a photographic darkroom plus facilities for handling food. The pressbox has ample telephone and telegraph outlets.

The new Sun Bowl is a fitting site for the oldest post-season game in Texas and third oldest in the nation!

Sun Bowl History

The idea behind the first Sun Bowl game, played Jan. 1, 1935, was to see what the pick of El Paso High Schools could do against worthy opposition. When the El Pasoans whacked the Ranger, Texas high school eleven, one of the best in Texas that year, the Sun Bowl was on its way.

This year will see the 32nd annual Sun Bowl game watched by an expected sellout stadium crowd of more than 30,000 fans and a national television audience of millions through the facilities of the National Broadcasting Company.

It will be a far cry from that original Sun Bowl game on January 1, 1935. The first game was such a success that the post-season contest was continued with college teams invited in 1936. Since that time the best in college teams that the Sun Bowl could invite have participated here. Although money was always a limiting factor in the early years, the Sun Bowl has consistently provided some of the most evenly-matched contests of any post-season contest. With the completion of the new Sun Bowl stadium (and with a resultant increase in team guarantees), the year-end grid battle has emerged as one of the nation's major post-season games.

But one thought has remained since the inception of the Sun Bowl: to provide an event which could be the keystone of a celebration for residents of the Southwest.

With the Sun Bowl game as the major attraction, the Sun Carnival program has been steadily expanded to include other athletic and social events.

Although new events are continually being added, the Sun Bowl game remains the principal attraction. The site of the game was shifted to Kidd Field at Texas Western College in the late 1930's and, unlike some other post-season contest, continued through the war years, relying largely on service teams. Periodically the facilities at Kidd Field were enlarged but the need for a larger stadium was apparent if the Sun Bowl was to keep pace with other post-season games in the country. The taxpayers of El Paso responded to the need in 1960 by passing a $1.75 million bond issue for the construction of the Sun Bowl.

Throughout the years the Sun Bowl game has attracted many of the outstanding colleges and universities in the country. Although the Sun Bowl was never classified among major contests until building of the new stadium, the game has enjoyed wide popularity because of the hospitality shown to visiting teams by the people of the Southwest. And games have almost invariably been close, hard-fought contests.

The Sun Bowl is the oldest bowl game played in Texas and third oldest in the United States. It is fully accredited by the National College Athletic Association and operates under NCAA rules.

Most Valuable Player

Sportswriters and sportscasters annually select the most valuable player in the Sun Bowl game to receive the Dr. C. M. Hendricks' trophy, a memorial in honor of the man who has been called the "Father of the Sun Bowl."

Because linemen were so often overlooked in the balloting for the most valuable player award, a second award for the most valuable lineman was added in 1961. This award is presented by Hixson Jewelers.

Balloting for these two trophies is done late in the fourth quarter.

It is possible for a player to win both awards if he is a lineman inasmuch as there is no restriction as to position for awarding the Hendricks' trophy.

Past winners of the trophies are:

- 1954 Quarterback Dick Shinaut of Texas Western College.
- 1955 Quarterback Jesse Whittenton of Texas Western College.
- 1956 Halfback Jim Crawford of Wyoming University.
- 1957 Fullback Claude Austin of George Washington University.
- 1958 Fullback Ken Porco of Louisville University.
- 1958 *Guard Leonard Kuczewski of Wyoming University.
- 1959 Quarterback Charley Johnson of New Mexico State University.
- 1960 Quarterback Charley Johnson of New Mexico State University.
- 1961 Fullback Billy Joe of Villanova University.
- 1962 Halfback Jerry Logan of West Texas State University.
- 1963 Quarterback Bob Berry of Oregon University.
- 1964 Quarterback Preston Riddlehuber of Georgia.
- 1965 Quarterback Billy Stevens of Texas Western.

MOST VALUABLE LINEMAN

- 1961 Guard Richie Ross of Villanova University.
- 1962 Guard Don Hoovler of Ohio University.
- 1963 Guard John Hughes of Southern Methodist.
- 1964 Tackle Jim Wilson of Georgia University.
- 1965 Tackle Ronny Nixon of Texas Christian.

The outstanding players in the 1965 Sun Bowl were Quarterback Billy Stevens (left) of the University of Texas Miners, who won the Dr. C. M. Hendricks' trophy for most valuable player, and Ron Nixon, Texas Christian University tackle, who won the most valuable lineman award given by Hixson Jewelers. Dr. Don E. Ewalt presents the awards.

University of Wyoming

The University of Wyoming was founded in Laramie in 1886, 18 years after the territory of Wyoming was established and four years before Wyoming was admitted to statehood. It is one of 68 land-grant colleges established since the Morrill Bill was signed by Abraham Lincoln in 1862.

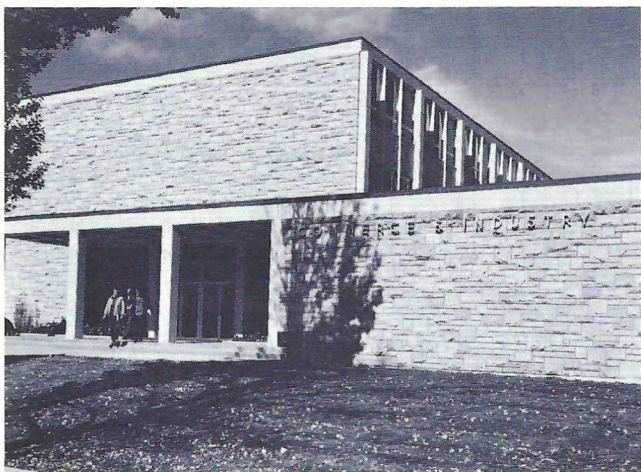

As Wyoming's only four-year institution of higher learning, the University considers its campus to extend over every one of the state's 97,014 square miles.

With over 6,000 students studying in the University's eight academic colleges, enrollment is at an all-time high. Students come to the Cowboy campus from every one of the state's 23 counties, from most of the 50 states and from approximately 25 foreign countries.

Trustees recently launched another major building project, continuing the vital program begun 17 years ago. Recently completed are an eight- and 12-story dormitories and a food service-recreation structure. An additional 12-story dormitory will be completed by the fall of 1967. Work is being launched on a $10 million Science Center project, and several other academic structures are in final planning stages.

Just completed is an $11 million building program, begun in 1959. It includes construction of a College of Commerce and Industry building, a combination College of Nursing and Student Health Service building, low cost apartments for 264 married students, Crane-Hill Halls for 800 students and an adjoining cafeteria and food service, Ross Hall for 400 women and a $750,000 physical education, recreation and athletic area that includes baseball, tennis and track areas for intercollegiate competition.

Early in its history (classes were first held in the fall of 1887) the University began to attain prominence in research and instruction related to physical-sociological characteristics of the region. Many other programs in a wide variety of fields are now considered outstanding.

PRESIDENT

The 15th President of the University of Wyoming is Dr. John E. King, Jr., named in July to succeed Dr. John T. Fey.

Dr. King came to Wyoming from Kansas State Teachers College, Emporia, where he was president for 13 years.

Born in 1914 in Oklahoma, Dr. King was raised on a Texas farm and completed his undergraduate work at North Texas State University, Denton. He received his bachelor of arts degree in 1932 at the age of 18. He holds an M.S. from the University of Arkansas (1937) and his Ph.D. from Cornell University (1941).

He was a high school Latin teacher and coach in Frisco, Tex., from 1933 to 1935, was education director for a Civilian Conservation Corps camp in Arkansas from 1935 to 1937, was principal of Dwight Indian School in Vian, Okla., from 1937 to 1940, and was superintendent of the Tucson, Ariz., Indian School from 1941 until he entered the Navy in 1943.

Dr. King served as a deck officer aboard the U.S.S. Hyde, an auxiliary personnel assault vessel, and was discharged from active duty in 1946 with the rank of lieutenant. He currently is a commander in the Naval Reserve.

Prior to assuming the presidency of Kansas State Teachers in 1953, he was academic dean and, later, provost at the University of Minnesota, Duluth campus, and a graduate faculty member of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell.

He is president-elect of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, is a member of Kappa Delta Pi (education honor society), Phi Kappa Phi (scholastic honorary), Phi Delta Kappa (honorary graduate society), Lambda Chi Alpha (social fraternity), and is active in Rotary International.

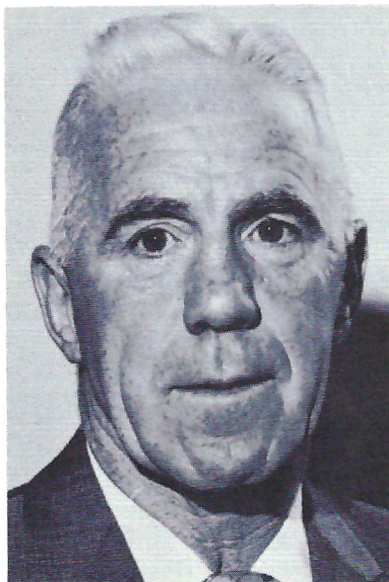

Dr. and Mrs. King have two married daughters, Ann, a teacher of anatomy at an Illinois medical school, and Rebecca, the wife of a Navy officer now in the submarine service.

Wyoming Athletic Staff

GLENN J. JACOBY
DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Unexcelled organizational ability and sound judgment have won for Glenn (Red) J. Jacoby a national reputation as one of the finest athletic directors in the business.

In the last 20 years Jacoby chiefly has been responsible for the complete rebirth of Cowboy athletics. Much of the credit for the detailed planning of Wyoming's Memorial Fieldhouse and Stadium and physical education, recreation and athletic area must go to Red. Also the progress which the Cowboys have shown can be traced to his attention to detail and unusual foresight.

Jacoby took over Wyoming's lagging athletic program in April, 1946, after five years of Army service in World War II, in which he had risen from First Lieutenant to a full Colonel.

He was well qualified for the assignment at Laramie. His undergraduate work was done at the University of Idaho, where he was graduated in 1928. He received his Master's degree there in 1932, and has done considerable work on his Doctorate at Columbia University Teachers College.

Red was one of Idaho's greatest athletes, winning nine varsity letters in football, basketball, and track, and on the gridiron he was an All Pacific Coast half-back in 1927, the year the Vandals tied for the conference championship.

While working on his Master's Degree, Jacoby was the Vandals' frosh mentor and in 1930 he became backfield coach, where he remained until 1935. He was appointed Athletic Director at Idaho Falls High for the next two years, then returned to his alma mater as head of Physical Education, Intramural Director and backfield coach. He also went back to Idaho briefly in 1946 after his army discharge before accepting the post as Wyoming's Athletic Director.

LLOYD EATON
HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

Beginning his fifth year as Cowboy Head Coach is Lloyd Eaton.

Eaton earned a national reputation as a defensive mastermind in his five years as assistant under Bob Devaney before taking over in February, 1962. During that span Wyoming was one of the top defensive teams in the nation, ranking in the top 10 three times and leading all major colleges in defense in 1960.

A native of Belle Fourche, S. D., Eaton came to Wyoming in 1957 from Northern Michigan College where he was Michigan's "Small College Coach of the Year" in 1956.

A dynamic enthusiasm that rubs off on his youthful staff, players and fans alike characterizes the Eaton method. He teaches sound, hard-knocking football that pays off on the playing field as well as off.

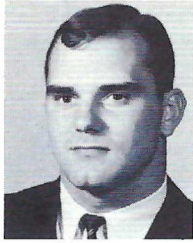

In addition to his stint at Northern Michigan, Eaton was for seven years head coach and athletic director at Alma, Mich., College; assistant at his alma mater, Black Hills State, one year; assistant for the Michigan 150-pound team, one year, plus three years in Michigan high schools as head coach.

F. S. U. Athletic Staff

BILL PETERSON
HEAD COACH

Beginning his seventh year as Florida State's head coach, Bill Peterson is recognized as one of the profession's most imaginative members.

The 44-year old Ohioan was one of the first major college football coaches in the nation to install a wide-open pro-type attack, and though the first years were lean ones, Peterson held to his belief that the forward pass was far from its potential as a weapon on the college gridiron.

Peterson was graduated in 1946 from Ohio Northern University, where he was an end and team captain. After an eminently successful coaching tenure in Ohio high school football circles, he joined the staff of Louisiana University as offensive line coach, and was credited with the procurement and development of many of the players on Paul Dietzel's 1958 national champions.

The Seminole head coach has done graduate work at both West Virginia and LSU. He is a member of the Methodist Church. He and his wife, Marjorie, have five sons.

VAUGHN MANCHA
ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

One of the best known and most popular figures in Southern football circles is Florida State's Athletic Director Vaughn Mancha.

Practically as legendary at the University of Alabama as Don Hutson and Harry Gilmer, Mancha assumed his present position as director of Florida State's seven-sport intercollegiate athletic program in November, 1959. He has tackled the job with all the fervor that characterized the performance that made him a 240-pound All-Southeastern Conference center for an amazing four years at Alabama (1944-48), and everyone's All American.

Born in Sugar Valley, Ga., in 1921, Mancha moved to Birmingham, Ala., at an early age, and entered Alabama in 1944. During Mancha's four seasons, Red Drew's Crimson Tide rolled up a 30-9-2 record and played in three major bowl games—against Duke in the 1945 Sugar Bowl, Southern California in the 1946 Rose Bowl and Texas in the 1948 Sugar Bowl.

He completed all work toward his doctorate except the dissertation while at Columbia. Married to the former Sybil Little of Birmingham, he is the father of three children.

Florida State University

Now engaged in its 110th year of service to the citizens of Florida and the nation, Florida State University is a coeducational, public institution of higher learning with a 1966 fall enrollment of more than 14,000 students, and a projected enrollment of 25,000 students by 1975.

Located in the state's capital city of Tallahassee, Florida, State's main campus comprises 332 highly-populated acres of land. Founded in 1875 as the Seminary West of the Suwanee, the institution marked its 109th birthday in February, 1966. Its evolution to full, coeducational university status in 1947 was marked by steady growth and strength—through several stages of development as a liberal arts college for women and/or men, as history dictated.

The University's academic divisions currently include the Graduate School (in which more than 2,200 students are currently enrolled), nine undergraduate schools and colleges, and professional College of Law which opened in September of 1966. The undergraduate divisions include the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Education, School of Music, School of Home Economics, the Library School, School of Social Welfare, School of Business, School of Nursing and the School of Engineering Science. The Graduate School administers eight major research facilities and institutes of graduate research and faculty research programs. These facilities include the Institute of Government Research, Institute of Human Development, Institute of Human Learning, Institute of Social Research, Institute of Molecular Biophysics, the Oceanographic Institute, a Computing Center and a Nuclear Research Program.

Now under construction on the northwest corner of the campus is a rapidly expanding network of modern facilities for space-age research known as the University's Science Center. This center will have 22 classrooms and laboratory buildings when completed under the 10-year-plan which spans the current 1965-75 decade and projects some 55 major additions or improvements to the physical plant of the campus.

DR. JOHN E. CHAMPION
PRESIDENT

Dr. John E. Champion is the fourth distinguished educator to serve as full-time president of the Florida State University since it became coeducational and achieved university status in 1947. The youngest of 10 chief executives in the University's 110-year history, he has served as President since June 22, 1965.

Born on May 11, 1922, in Chipley, Ga., (now called Pine Mountain), the 44-year-old business educator began his professional career in college teaching at the University of Georgia's College of Business Administration, his alma mater. From 1948 to 1956 he taught accounting there, leaving with the rank of associate professor to join the faculty at Florida State.

Dr. Champion's 10-year affiliation with Florida State has included service as professor of accounting, assistant dean of the School of Business and three years as vice president for administration—from August, 1962, until his appointment as acting president of the University, in 1965. As vice president, he supervised a $26 million building program—largest in the history of the University.

He and Dr. Homer A. Black, a fellow professor of accounting at FSU, are authors of a textbook, Accounting in Business Decision, published by Prentice-Hall in 1961. This book, being revised this year, is widely used in colleges and universities.

The President holds the Ph.D in business administration from the University of Michigan, and the B.S. and M.S. degrees from the University of Georgia, which designated him, this year, as a "Distinguished Alumnus" of its College of Business Administration.

Dr. Champion was married on June 4, 1955, to Mary Lanier of West Point, Ga., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cam B. Lanier and a kinswoman of the famous 19th Century poet, Sidney Lanier. She is a graduate of Auburn University. The Champions have two children, Sally Lanier, 9, and John E. Jr., 7.

Following graduation from the University of Georgia he entered the Army and during World War II served both in the infantry and as a quartermaster officer in the South Pacific. He was discharged as a captain in 1946.

Basketball Tournament

The Sun Bowl Basketball Tournament, which has moved into prominence among holiday cage tournaments, presents one of the strongest fields in its nine year history, December 29-30, when Drake University, Southern Illinois University, Southern Methodist University and the University of Texas at El Paso tangle in the annual two-night meet in Texas Western's Memorial Gymnasium.

Opening night competition will send the defending NCAA Champions, the University of Texas at El Paso—Texas Western College, against the Salukis of Southern Illinois. The nightcap will find SMU, the defending Southwest Conference Champs, meeting the Missouri Valley entrant, Drake University.

The Miners of TWC stand as the favorites in the meet and they are returning almost the same squad that carried away the championship last year and ended the season with a decisive win over the University of Kentucky for the NCAA Championship.

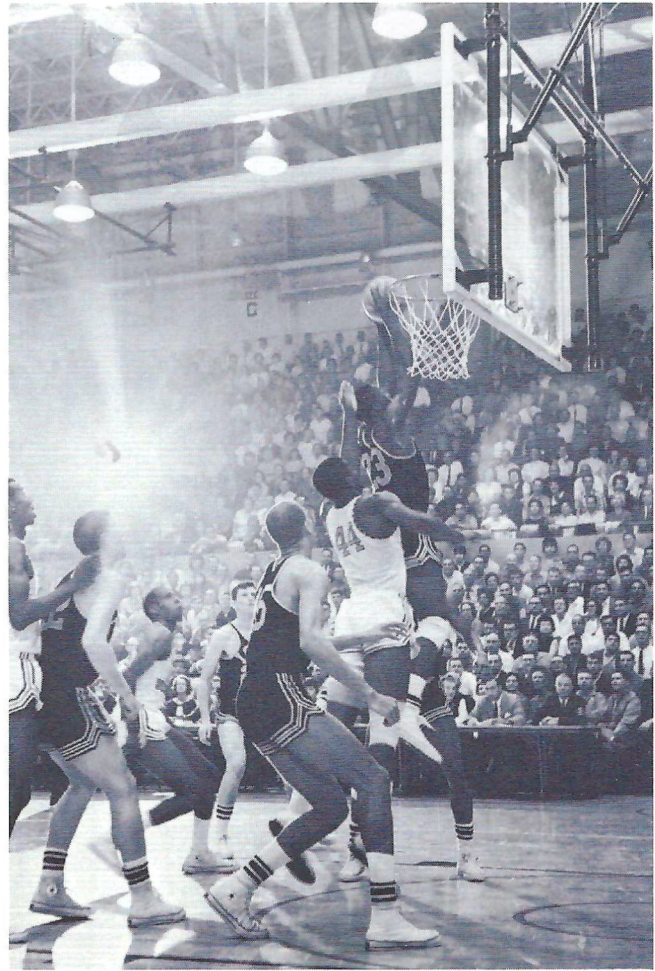

Southern Methodist is expected to give stiff competition as their records indicate. The Mustangs have won or tied for the Southwest Conference Championship in seven of the last 11 years. Last year in the NCAA regional finals they beat a powerful Cincinnati team to take third place. Coach Doc Hayes will have all but one man returning from last year's squad.

Southern Illinois University was in the NCAA college division finals for the second year in a row last season. The Salukis lost the final game and ended their season with a fine 22-7 mark.

Coach Maurice John of Drake University is expected to field one of his finest teams. Led by All-American Bob Netolicky, the Bulldogs could easily be the surprise team of the tournament.

The Sun Bowl Basketball Tournament was first began as part of the winter festival in 1949 and three meets were held until it was impossible to obtain a suitable playing site. The tournament was renewed in 1961 with the completion of the Texas Western gymnasium.

The Miners' Memorial Gym, located on Robinson Boulevard on the TWC campus, was designed with basketball spectators in mind. There isn't a bad seat in the 5,000 seat auditorium and there are several acres of free parking available to the fans.

The University of Texas at El Paso-Texas Western College was founded as the Texas School of Mines in 1913 and officially opened its doors in 1914. The college campus is nestled among the rugged foothills of the Rocky Mountains in the western part of El Paso. All campus buildings are of Bhutanese architecture because the terrain of the school is reminiscent of the countryside of Tibet. The school's expanding faculty, curriculum and physical facilities has led to an upsurge in enrollment which has more than doubled in the last seven years. The president is Dr. Joseph M. Ray.

Southern Methodist University, located in suburban University Park, a residential district surrounded by Dallas, Texas, has a record of growth and achievement to match that of the city. At its opening session, 51 years ago, the University had two buildings and 706 students, a 35-man faculty and a 133-acre campus. Today, the school has 70 buildings in its physical plant, a faculty of more than 300 employed on a full time basis, a 150-acre campus and an average enrollment of over 6,000. Since SMU is not a state-supported institution, enrollment is not limited to residents of Texas, nor is any distinction made for out-of state students. President of the University is Willis M. Tate, a 1932 graduate of the school.

White Sands Missile Range

North of El Paso in the Tularosa Basin of southern New Mexico, sprawling over 4,000 square miles of sandy desert, rough granite hills, lava beds and rugged mountain ranges creased with deep canyons and winding arroyos, lies the largest military reservation in the United States.

White Sands Missile Range, where the atomic age was born in July 1945, may be described as a giant outdoor laboratory for testing and developing modern defense weapons and space vehicles.

This national range is operated for the Department of Defense by the United States Army. Primarily, it is a testing and development operation for guided missile, rocket and space vehicle programs of the Army, Navy, Air Force, National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), and numerous associated agencies and contracting firms.

More than 2,000 times each year, or on an average of about once each hour during working hours, the sky above the range is streaked with the vapor and smoke trails of test vehicles traveling at supersonic speeds. Great clouds of dust and smoke boil up from the desert floor in the launching areas. The earth shakes and shock waves roll across the surface as missiles break the sound barrier seconds after takeoff. These are the "hot" firings of complete missile systems undergoing tests on the range.

But nearly three times as many test missions of other types are conducted each year also. These include static or restrained firings of power plants, instrument checks, tracking missions, target experiments, fragmentation tests of explosive warheads, weather balloon flights and investigations of all aspects of environmental conditions.

More than 17,000 military, civil service and contractor personnel are employed on the range. Some 21 percent of these commute daily from homes within the city limits of El Paso. Others reside on the post and in neighboring towns and communities of the El Paso Southwest.

With the introduction of newer and longer-range missiles in recent years, White Sands has branched out from the range proper. Since 1960 it has had part-time use of a 1,600-square-mile area, 40 miles square, adjoining the original range on the north. Employed some 20 times a year, this range extension allows for longer test flights of some of the more powerful supersonic missiles being developed for defense in the space age.

In 1963 the Army and Air Force began their programs of off-range firings. The Army's Sergeant missile has been fired from Datil, New Mexico, and from the Hueco Range near El Paso, to impact on White Sands Missile Range. The Army Pershing missile is fired from launch complexes at Fort Wingate, near Gallup, New Mexico, and at Gilson Butte and Blanding, Utah, also impacting on the range. The Air Force is conducting firings of the Athena missile from a launch complex at Green River, Utah, with impacts 450 miles away on the range. The Air Force also has fired its Hound Dog missile from Del Rio, Texas, to impact on the range in southern New Mexico.

The U.S. Naval Ordnance Missile Test Facility at White Sands Missile Range utilizes the land-locked range to test missiles and radar systems designed for use by the United States Navy's fleet units. The Navy at White Sands also is concerned with space and meteorological research. Its Aerobee upper atmosphere research rocket program provides scientific data for the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, D. C.; for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and for other agencies engaged in programs related to outer space.

NASA, which has completed an extensive complex of administrative and industrial facilities at the foot of the San Andres Mountains near the west-central boundary of the range, is conducting tests of the various stages of Project Apollo, this nation's program to land a man on the moon within the decade. Successful tests of the lunar service module and the abort escape system have been conducted.

A station on WSMR is a primary member of the Global Tracking System for the Gemini orbital flights.

The range is one of the best instrumented and surveyed pieces of real estate in the free world. Skilled technicians operate a complex network of high-precision optical and electronic instruments to collect detailed and accurate data on test firings. In strategic locations on the range are more than 1,100 instrument stations equipped with high-speed cameras, powerful telescopes, radar network facilities and telemetering equipment. Continuously being augmented and improved, these facilities are linked together with communications facilities consisting of 60,000 miles of wire and cable lines, 1,163 miles of roads and 340 microwave and radio channels.

Extensive laboratory and shop facilities also are available for use in the missile testing and development programs. Effects of temperature and weather extremes, rough handling and other environmental conditions on missile performance can be determined. Components may even be bombarded with nuclear radiation for tests to determine how they will function under such battlefield conditions.

The permanent physical plant on White Sands Missile Range, including administrative facilities, instruments, test hardware and supporting equipment, is valued at more than $918,000,000. The operating budget is an additional $150,000,000 per year, including a payroll of $85,000,000. Thus the installation makes a major contribution to the economy of the El Paso Southwest. Of even greater importance to the nation and the free world are this unique installation's contributions to defense and to the ultimate goal of a real and lasting world peace.

A Nike Zeus anti-missile air defense guided missile is shown on its underground launcher, ready for firing, in the Nike Zeus complex near the southern boundary of White Sands Missile Range. The Range extension area, some 140 miles north of the launch complex, is the impact point for many of the Nike Zeus test firings. (U. S. Army photo)

Sun Carnival Time at Sunland Park

One of the most thrilling sporting events of Sun Carnival Week is horse racing held at beautiful Sunland Park, located in New Mexico, just six miles from downtown El Paso.

The plush four-million dollar plant is situated on a 150 acre site nestled below historic Mt. Cristo Rey with the towering Franklin Mountains of Texas and the Sierra Madres of Mexico forming magnificent backdrops. The silvery Rio Grande flows just a few furlongs away adding to the international flavor.

From the spacious stands, patrons can view two countries and three states in an atmosphere of unrivaled comfort and beauty.

A million dollar purse schedule for the 1966-67 meeting has attracted top flight stables and jockeys from all sections of the country. Now in its tenth season, Sunland Park has become the Turf Capitol of the Southwest.

Such famous jockeys as Willie Shoemaker, Bill Hartack, and Ismael (Milo) Valenzuela are frequent visitors and each turf celebrity has his signature and handprints placed in cement in Sunland's unique Walk of Fame located at the clubhouse and grandstand entrances.

"Racing's Place in The Sun" provides early arrivals with a spectacular water ski show presented on the 30 acre infield lake. The famous Sunland Skiers have delighted hundreds of thousands of racing fans since the track opened in 1959.

Special races have been programmed for the gala Sun Carnival including the Sun Carnival Handicap on New Year's Day. The beautiful Sun Queen, assisted by her royal court, will crown the winner of the Sun Queen Stakes, one of the major races of the season.

Drake was founded in 1881 on its present site, now in the northwest side of Des Moines, Iowa. A privately endowed, coeducational university, Drake is Iowa's largest non-tax-supported institution of higher learning and the third largest university in the state. Now bustling with a building program, the 40-acre campus includes some 30 buildings housing the 10 colleges of the University. Drake is the oldest member of the Missouri Valley Conference, having joined in 1908, and the home of the world famous Drake Relays held each spring. President is Dr. Paul F. Sharp.

William Beaumont General Hospital

A key segment of El Paso's big military community is the Army's William Beaumont General Hospital, the medical treatment center for the thousands of servicemen and their families stationed in the El Paso area.

Commanded by Brig. Gen. Frederic J. Hughes Jr., Beaumont Hospital is an Army specialized treatment center for treatment of medical, surgical and orthopedic cases. Every medical and surgical specialty is represented at the hospital, which is fully accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation.

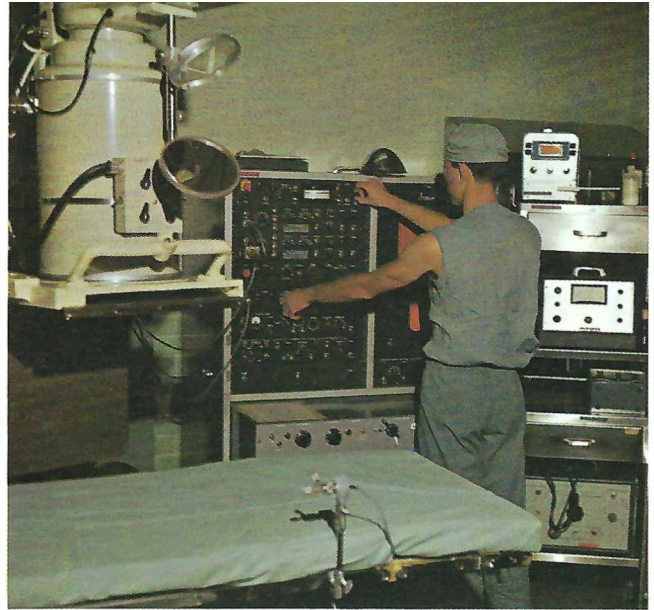

The hospital provides complete inpatient and outpatient care for Armed Forces personnel and their families at Ft. Bliss, Biggs Field, White Sands Missile Range and other installations in the Southwest, and retired Armed Forces personnel and their families, as authorized, in the Southwest. The hospital is authorized 70 beds for veterans.

As Ft. Bliss expands, so does William Beaumont grow larger in direct proportion.

The hospital's patient load is almost twice what it was 18 months ago, largely because of the establishment of basic recruit training at Ft. Bliss. These individuals are being brought together for the first time from all sections of the country and are living and working under concentrated conditions which makes some of them more susceptible to minor respiratory illnesses.

In addition, William Beaumont is receiving patients from Vietnam. The daily census of these patients averages about 40. Half of these are battle injuries and the other half are due to illnesses or non-battle injuries. It is the policy of the Army to send these Vietnam casualties to medical facilities nearest their homes whenever possible.

On an average day at the hospital, five babies are born, nearly 40 patients are admitted, 470 patients are treated, 23 major and minor operations are performed, and 1114 outpatients are cared for. Pathology Service completes more than 2875 tests daily, Radiology Service takes some 520 x-rays and the Department of Dentistry accomplishes about 150 procedures. Nearly 825 prescriptions are filled by Beaumont's two pharmacies each day.

Beaumont has added to its many specialized activities with a greatly expanded medical research and development program which will conduct studies on a number of research projects.

Beaumont also plays a major role in the professional teaching programs offered by the Army Medical Service. Approved teaching programs are conducted on a continuous basis for medical interns, residents and dental interns. These young physicians and dentists come to the hospital from cities throughout the nation. They remain in El Paso from one to five years.

Included in the list of new equipment installed recently at the hospital is a cardiac monitoring system which stands constant watch over a number of patients simultaneously. The system indicates immediately when any patient is having difficulty, and enables doctors and nurses to take quick remedial action.

William Beaumont maintains especially close ties with the El Paso County Medical Society and other El Paso hospitals. Many members of the hospital staff are active in El Paso civic clubs, churches, school and professional organizations, sports and other groups.

Numerous El Pasoans, members of Ft. Bliss and Biggs Field serve the hospital in many volunteer ways. They include the Gray Ladies, Nurse Aides, Staff Aides and Youth Volunteers, all members of the American Red Cross Volunteers, whose many services to patients and professional administrative staff members day in and day out contribute much to the successful operation of the hospital.

The William Beaumont General Hospital staff comprises a great team of unselfish people of many skills, united and devoted to conserving the fighting strength.

Fort Bliss-U.S. Army Air Defense Center

Historic Fort Bliss, commanded by Major General George T. Powers III, was established in 1849 as an Infantry outpost. Now in its second century of service to its nation, it has become the U.S. Army's foremost air defense training center and has played an integral part in the development of El Paso and the Southwest. Through the years, Fort Bliss has quartered troops representing various branches of the Army.

Until 1912 it remained an Infantry post. During 1912 the 1st Squadron, 4th Cavalry, arrived to relieve the Infantry. From this small start, Fort Bliss grew to be the largest cavalry post in the nation. During the period 1921-1942 it was the home of the famed 1st Cavalry Division.

The roster of former illustrious commanders includes such names as General John J. Pershing, who led an expedition from the post into Mexico in an attempt to capture Rebel General Pancho Villa.

In commemoration of 100 years of protection, service, and historic contribution to this region, the citizens of El Paso, in 1948, presented Fort Bliss with a replica of the original post. It stands proudly today near the southeast corner of the Fort as a link between the musket-toting soldier of yesterday and the highly trained missile technician of today. Housing historic relics of the past, the Replica is viewed daily by visitors from around the world.

In September 1965, the Department of the Army named Fort Bliss as the site for a basic training center. In July 1966, the German Air Force Air Defense School, USA was inaugurated as an air defense training facility for the German Air Force. The same month Biggs Air Force Base was transferred to Army control to become Fort Bliss Biggs Field.

Today, Fort Bliss is our nation's Air Defense Center, and there is no installation like it in the world. From the $304,000 seven-building, 1265-acre reservation of 1893, which was home for about 250 soldiers, it now comprises 1,130,000 acres, approximately 4550 buildings and a total value in land, buildings, supplies and equipment of more than 650 million dollars. It is the home for 30,000 soldiers and a work home for 4400 Federal civilian employees. Its job: to train basic trainees and missilemen for air defense units worldwide.

Individuals at the U.S. Army Air Defense Center receive training ranging from basic marksmanship, map reading and basic mathematics to instruction on the most complex missile and electronic systems.

Despite its modern posture, the Air Defense School is the Army's oldest service school, tracing its lineage directly to the Artillery Corps for Instruction founded April 5, 1824 at what was then called Fortress Monroe, Va.

Just 26 miles northeast of Fort Bliss is McGregor Guided Missile Range. Part of the U.S. Army Air Defense Center, it is the free world's largest and foremost air defense guided missile range. The range covers approximately 1,200 square miles.

This is where missilemen from the world over come to fire the Nike Ajax, Nike Hercules, and Hawk missiles. Evaluators from the U.S. Army Air Defense Command watch and score every step of the annual service practice from the uncrating, assembling, and checking of the missile to the actual impact with the target after a missile has been fired.

American and Allied servicemen trained at Fort Bliss man air defense posts throughout the free world—24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Rare Book Display

A collection of rare books about the individual careers of the famed "Twelve Travelers Through the Pass of the North" will be on exhibit at the El Paso Public Library, 501 North Oregon Street, from December 17 through January 14.

Tom Lea, noted El Paso author and artist, in his own book pertaining to the twelve travelers said they were among the many strong men who passed through this area of "Paso del Norte."

As Lea explained, "Various not only in character but in accomplishment, these early travelers through the Pass each unfolds a picturesque legend of the land. Their portraits might each be considered as characteristic symbols of early chapters in the history of the West, episodes in the conquest of that Pass of the North where a modern city now stands."

The twelve Travelers were Alvar Nuñez Cabeza de Vaca, Fray Agustín Rodríguez, Antonio de Espejo, Gaspar Castaño de Sosa; Juan de Oñate, Fray García de San Francisco, Diego de Vargas, Zebulon Pike, Juan María Ponce de León, James Magoffin, Alexander Doniphan and Big Foot Wallace.

Tennis

Addition of an invitational class for boys and girls, 18 years, who have won a major tournament or are the number one player on their high school teams is expected to increase interest in the annual Sun Carnival tennis tournament, the largest outdoor winter meet in the world.

Play in the different classes will be held December 27 through December 30. Opening round competition will be held on various high school courts with the finals set for the El Paso Tennis Club at 2510 North Saint Vrain Street.

The open competition for players below college level will be divided into eight divisions. The divisions are boys, 18, 16, 14, 12, singles and doubles; girls, 18, 16, 14 and 12, singles and doubles. The 12-year-old event is also a newcomer to the Sun tennis competition.

Normally there are 600 entries in the tournament which is for any player enrolled in a school, either private, public or parochial, below the college level. Trophies are awarded to winners and runners-up in every division.

Sponsors of the tournament with the Sun Carnival are the East El Paso Kiwanis Club, headed by George Harris, and the El Paso Tennis Club, headed by George Yelderman. Ed Chew is Sun Carnival vice-president in charge of the event. Coaches from the El Paso and Ysleta Independent School Districts will assist in the operation of the tournament. Leslie Berkes, El Paso Tennis Club's resident professional, will be tournament director.

Twirling

Sun Carnival Twirling Contest evolves into two events this year with competition spread over three days, December 28th through 30th, in the gymnasium of Burges High School, 7800 Edgemere Drive.

The twirling competition, ranging from beginning strutting and twirling to advanced solo, baton and team twirling, will be held December 28th and 29th.

A new event, the School Awards Festival, will find individual and team competition in cheerleading, drilling, pom poms, as well as a drum major and majorette contest. There will be awards both to the individual winners and to the schools they represent.

All events are sanctioned and judged by the National Baton Twirlers Association with qualified judges to be named for all competition.

Mrs. Barbara Prewitt, instructor of the champion El Paso Shownettes, will be chairman of the competition for the tenth year.

There will also be competition for Miss Sun Carnival. The 1966 winner was Miss Rebecca Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Phillips of 9900 Trinidad. She is a senior at Eastwood High School where she is a majorette with the Trooper Band.

Polo

El Paso has long been one of the polo centers in the country because of the location here of Fort Bliss, once the mounted cavalry center of the U.S. Army. A favorite sport of the cavalry men was polo and its popularity has been retained, even though the cavalry is now a part of the past.

Each year during Sun Carnival week Fort Bliss sponsors a polo match, inviting top teams and players from other areas of the U.S. to compete against the members of the Del Norte Polo Association of El Paso-Juarez.

This year's Sun Carnival Polo game will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, January 1, at Armstrong Field on Fort Bliss. The field is located near the main entrance to the installation on Pershing Drive.

The Del Norte Polo Association is composed of both civilian and military personnel from the U.S. and Mexico. The group holds regular competition throughout the year. All matches, as with the Sun Carnival game, are open to the public without charge.

Pistol Tournament

A pistol tournament, sponsored by the Desert Sands Gun Club, is once again part of the Sun Carnival schedule of events with top shooters from throughout the Southwest expected to participate in this year's action December 28-29.

Firing will begin at 8 a.m. on both days of the tournament at the Desert Sands Gun Club, located about nine miles east of the El Paso city limits on Highways 62 and 180.

The tournament is open to all members of the National Rifle Association, men and women, and will be governed by NRA pistol rules. Entries will be limited to 100 shooters. All matches will be squadded with tickets for individual matches issued the day prior to the match. Challenges will be accepted.

There will be both class and team awards with a special prize to anyone establishing an NRA approved national record.

Desert Sands Gun Club consists of 50 firing points with fixed targets at 50 yards and turning targets at 25 yards. There are basket-weaved wind breakers on three sides together with a modern club house and gun museum. Free space is available for campers and trailers of registered shooters. The public is invited to attend the matches.

Ski Slalom

Skiing has become a major participant sport in the sunny Southwest, and its popularity has led to its inclusion on the annual Sun Carnival program. A ski slalom will be held this year at popular Sierra Blanca Ski Resort in Ruidoso, N. M. which, with Cloudcroft, N. M., gives El Pasoans and area residents the finest in winter sports facilities.

Located in the ruggedly handsome Sacramento Mountains, Ruidoso and Cloudcroft are both summer and winter tourist resorts. Each offers golf, horseback riding, hiking and winter sports, particularly skiing. Ruidoso has fine horseracing at its Ruidoso Downs during spring and summer months.

One of the principal attractions in Cloudcroft is The Lodge, a smart, modern resort hotel, nestled in majestic pine woods. Open the year around, The Lodge offers the finest in dining and entertainment. It overlooks one of America's highest, and sportiest, golf courses. Ski Cloudcroft, the major ski area in Cloudcroft, is just three minutes away; natural and/or artificial snow permits skiing from Thanksgiving through March.

Sierra Blanca in Ruidoso is one of the nation's newer ski resorts and has attracted winter sports enthusiasts from throughout the United States. This year's Sun Carnival slalom has been sanctioned by the Rocky Mountain Division of the United States Ski Association.

A slalom is a race against time. There are three types of slalom; downhill, giant slalom and slalom. The downhill is over an open course with gentle curves and skiers can reach speeds of 60 miles an hour or better. The giant slalom is a tighter course with sharper curves, while the slalom has the tightest course and sharpest curves. Bamboo poles topped by flags outline the course; skiers must maneuver through these poles.

Arrangements for the slalom are being handled by members of the El Paso Ski Club.

Art Exhibit

International attention has been focused on the Sun Carnival Art Exhibit which has been a part of the annual year-end festival for the past 11 years. The top entries in the art competition are now hung at the El Paso Museum of Art where they will remain on exhibit until January 8.

Mrs. Gladys Lloyd Robinson, artist and collector from Los Angeles, and Jay R. Broussard, director of the Louisiana State Art Commission of Baton Rouge, were the judges who selected the top entries from material submitted by artists from throughout the United States and Mexico.

Approximately 600 paintings were in the competition with 90 selected for the official show, according to Mrs. Frances Hay, chairman of the show, and Mrs. Frieda Grissom, co-chairman.

The art exhibit is jointly sponsored by the El Paso Art Association and the Southwestern Sun Carnival Association. It is open to all art media and collages which are original works by living artists done without supervision and which have not previously been exhibited in any El Paso show.

Prize money for the art exhibit is extremely good. There is a $750 Sun Carnival Sweepstakes Award with second place money of $350. Other awards are $200 for third place and $100 for fourth place. There are also art materials awards for honorable mention.

Band Jamboree

Special competition and entertainment is furnished for the many high school bands which annually participate in the huge Sun Parade.

The bands, representing all areas of the Southwest, will first meet in a talent competition at 8 p.m. Thursday, December 29, at Magoffin Auditorium on the campus of the University of Texas at El Paso. Special prizes will be awarded to winning participants.

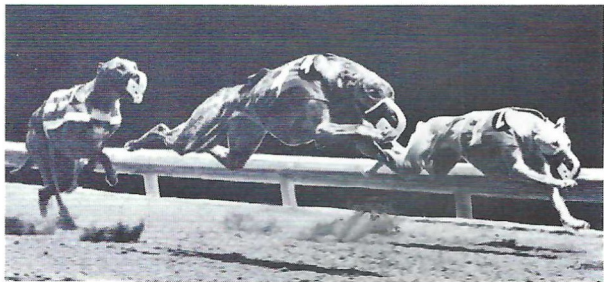

A "Band Jamboree" dance for all band members will be held on Friday night, December 30, in the Student Union Building ballroom on the UTEP campus. An orchestra and special entertainment, plus hats, noisemakers, and refreshments, make the dance a "must" for band members.

Saturday, December 31, the bands add their special color and music to the big Sun Parade.

Juarez Track

The Juarez Greyhound Club, which operates on an extended schedule of five nights weekly, Wednesday through Sundays, will be open throughout Sun Carnival week.

The track will close only one racing night during the month of December: Saturday, December 24, Christmas Eve. Racing will be held on all other racing days with first post time 7:50 p.m. El Paso time.

Visitors to El Paso will find complimentary passes to the greyhound races available at all motels and hotels, as well as the Race Track Office and at Sun Carnival headquarters in the Cortez Hotel.

Located six miles from downtown El Paso, Juarez Race Track is recognized as one of the most striking structures in the Southwest. A combination of contemporary and Mexican architecture, it is an unusually handsome building.

Guests get their first impact at the entrance when they look up at a huge mural done entirely in glass mosaic tile of many hues. It depicts the history of Mexico.

Access to the upper levels of the building is by a circular suspended ramp from which spectators can enjoy the charm of a multi-colored, spraying fountain constantly changing patterns. From the ceiling over the fountain hangs a 46-foot, hand-made chandelier created by Mexican glassblowers.

Box seating with tables is provided in the Jockey Club in the completely glass-enclosed, heated building. Accommodations in both the clubhouse and grandstand consist of individual moulded plastic bucket seats of varying tones. A visit to El Paso would not be complete without a visit to the Taj Mahal of racing, the Juarez Race Track.

Sports Car Slalom

A sports car slalom has been added to the Sun Carnival schedule of events for the second year in recognition of the growing popularity of the sport. This year's competition is slated for the Sun Bowl parking lot starting at 10 a.m. Sunday, January 1.

Sponsored by the Triumph Owners Club of El Paso, the slalom will have both class and open competition. The event, the only winter-time sports car slalom in El Paso, is sanctioned by the Sports Car Club of America.

Judges and timing will be handled by club members.

Rodeo

A permanent fixture on the Sun Carnival calendar of events is the annual Sun Carnival Rodeo which will be held at 1 p.m. for two days, December 31 and January 1, at the Ysleta Rough Riders arena.

There will be six separate events on the programs: calf and steer roping, barrel and pole racing, ribbon roping and matched roping.

Riders from throughout the El Paso Southwest normally join in the action. The Ysleta Rough Riders have some form of rodeo competition nearly every weekend throughout the year at their modern arena which is located at the intersection of Interstate Highway 10 East and Zaragosa Road. A nominal admission fee is charged. There is plenty of seating and parking, together with rest rooms and concession stands.

A rodeo should and has had a place on the Sun Carnival program for many years. Historians have said that the first rodeo ever staged was in Pecos, just east of El Paso, in the late nineteenth Century. Rodeos apparently evolved from the roundup when many of the events seen in today's rodeo were all part of a cowboy's workday.

Bowling

A bowling ball doesn't take many unusual bounces, particularly in the annual Sun Carnival Bowling Tournament which attracts top men and women contestants from throughout the Southwest.

Actually, this year's tournament, eighth to be held under Sun Carnival sponsorship, will be a triple-header affair with ragtime doubles December 1 through January 2, team event from December 26 through January 2, and a singles special on January 2.

All competition will be at the Skylane Bowl, 6200 Dyer Street in northeast El Paso.

Men will bowl in the various events starting at 2 p.m. with women bowlers taking the lanes at 3:30 p.m.

The tournament has the American Bowling Congress and Women's International Bowling Congress approval. The highest sanctioned league average for the 1965-66 winter season will be used; anyone without a handicap must bowl from scratch.

Entry blanks and other pertinent data may be obtained from any El Paso bowling establishment.

Industry of El Paso

El Paso as a location for industry is gaining in importance each day as businessmen and industrialists learn of the city's climate, abundant labor pool, excellent transportation facilities, cultural and recreational opportunities, and its genuine hospitable attitude.

Nearly 100 new businesses and industries have located here during the past five years and there are more than 400 basic industries which have stayed to expand in a community where "there is a place in the sun for industry."

El Paso does have sun. The sun shines on the average of 360 days a year. The climate of El Paso is ideal; it is conducive to good living and happy workers. Absenteeism is at a minimum and El Paso's high, dry climate is a strong inducement to attract workers from other areas.

El Paso's Industrial Development Corporation is active in its quest for new industries and businesses. Underwritten by the City and County of El Paso and El Paso Chamber of Commerce, the corporation conducts luncheons for businessmen and industrialists in several major U.S. cities each year. In addition, there is constant contact with those firms which have expressed interest in building a new plant or relocating here. These contacts are kept current on the matters which play an important role in their decisions—labor, land, transportation, school systems, recreation, culture. It is a full-time job and a job which is important in a progressive, growing city.

El Paso has its own abundant labor pool—more than 100,000 from which to choose. The technical reservoir is also filled by men and women from the El Paso military complex and from the many workers attracted to El Paso by its climate.

El Paso has over 25,000 acres of land zoned and ready for industry with several well-developed industrial districts and parks. Transportation and utilities, always important to industry, are the very best. El Paso's location is another plus factor; it is midway between Los Angeles and Houston and about equidistant to Dallas-Fort Worth, Denver and San Diego.

El Paso and its sister city just across the Mexican border, Juarez, combine for a metropolitan population of nearly 750,000. El Paso is the youngest city in the United States with a median age of 22.5 years; it is a lusty, growing city rapidly moving forward.

El Paso is blessed with exceptional educational facilities, fine churches, good hospitals and fine homes.

El Paso is a good location for industry. It's true: There is a place in the sun for industry—El Paso!

History of El Paso

History of El Paso can be traced as far back as 2,000 years ago in the pictographs at nearby Hueco Tanks. Later Indian tribes found this area to be an ideal resting stop, there are many artifacts still found in and outside of what are today's city limits.

The first white man to visit El Paso came in 1536 and with him into Mexico went tales of fabulous cities of gold. This started a flow of expeditions to explore, colonize and Christianize the natives here. Gradually a settlement began in the "Pass of the North."

It can be safely said that El Paso, a gateway to the Southwest and the Republic of Mexico, has a history that reaches back through the exciting days of Indians, cowboys, miners, prospectors, Conquistadores and padres.

The early day traveler always sought the easiest and lowest pass through the mountains that lay in his path. Through the pass in the Rockies where the present city of El Paso lies traveled the Spanish soldiers and priests. By October 1531, the followers of Cortez, conqueror of Mexico, had founded a settlement at Culiacan on the west coast of Mexico in what is now the state of Sinaloa. To them came rumors of Seven Cities to the North, where gold was plentiful and people were rich.

These rumors were augmented and new interest aroused when in 1536 Cabeza de Baca and his handful of followers arrived at Culiacan. They had been wandering for months along the gulf and across country through the Pass into Mexico following a shipwreck off the Florida coast. In 1540, the famous Coronado expedition started from Culiacan. Other groups followed, exploring and seeking suitable colonization locations. Don Juan de Oñate established a settlement on the eastern bank of the Rio Grande in 1598 at a place thirty miles north of Santa Fe.

All these expeditions came through the Pass leaving a definite imprint of Spanish influence on the entire territory. Other expeditions, seeking conquest by arms or through the more subtle influence of the Church, followed. In 1659, a settlement was founded in the Pass on the site of what is now Juarez, Mexico. The founding of a mission and the establishment of a place where travelers might rest were the first steps. So well did the padres build that the Mission is still standing and in use today.

Colonel Alexander Doniphan, during the war with Mexico in 1846, and his regiment, the First Missouri Volunteers, were ordered to march south from New Mexico to form a junction with General Wool's forces in Chihuahua. Wool never reached Chihuahua but Doniphan's volunteers secured north central Mexico alone and ultimately joined Wool and Gen. Zachary Taylor near Monterey. Two days after Christmas 1846, Doniphan and his men flew the sovereign flag of the United States through the Pass of the North for the first time.

On November 7, 1848 a War Department Order directed troops to be dispatched to El Paso del Norte to establish a post there. In June 1849, the necessary reconnaissance completed, seven companies of the 3rd Infantry started out on the 673-mile trek from San Antonio across the desert. Three months later they arrived and established a post, Ft. Bliss on the Rio Grande.

El Paso today is a modern metropolis, a city with fine hotels and office buildings. It has substantial homes, good schools and playgrounds. All of this is in vivid contrast to the struggling village of adobe huts of bygone times.

El Paso, 3,762 feet above sea level, enjoys comfortable summers with cool nights and warm, dry, sunny winters, with little rain and snow. All enhanced by its magnificent setting midst mountain and desert and its colorful history. It is truly a unique city.

The International City

Separated only by the Rio Grande River, El Paso, Texas and Ciudad Juarez, Mexico form a metropolitan community of nearly 700,000 people. The closeness of the two cities and the intermixing of their populations has resulted in a single designation: "The International City."

A superb setting of mountain grandeur and desert space, a sun-blessed climate, the zest of the Old West, the colorful grace of Spanish customs and culture, the crackling vitality of the Space Age . . . all of these combine to make El Paso unique, and a challenge to those who wish to participate in the many activities of a fast-growing section. It is also the answer to those who wish to merely bask in the warm and constant sunshine.

Variety unlimited best expresses the attractions to be found in the El Paso Southwest where sunshine is the magic catalyst which successfully blends summer and winter activities.

El Paso's mild climate permits participation in nearly every type of sport. There is professional baseball in the summer months and horse racing at nearby Sunland Park, N. M. during the fall and winter months. Golf is played the year around. There are also many beautiful natural parks in and near El Paso. Famed Scenic Drive encircles Mount Franklin and permits a mountain-top view of El Paso-Juarez and vicinity. There is also an aerial tramway to the top of Ranger Peak which affords another breath-taking view of the El Paso area.

The diversity is accentuated during the winter months when you can ski in New Mexico mountains just three hours away and return to El Paso for a dip in a swimming pool, play golf or ride horses.

Easy drives take the visitor to the wonder-provoking Carlsbad Caverns, the amazing phenomenon of White Sands National Park, rugged Gila Wilderness and the colorful Old World culture and hospitality of Mexico.

Scenery ranges from stark desert to wooded mountains, from open range land to lush irrigated cotton fields, from sleepy (and sometimes "ghost") hamlets to bustling metropolises.

El Paso is the focal point for Southwestern travel. Served by major railroads, airlines and Interstate Highway 10 and other major highways, the city at the Pass of the North is the hub from which a visitor can easily move to any part of the North America.

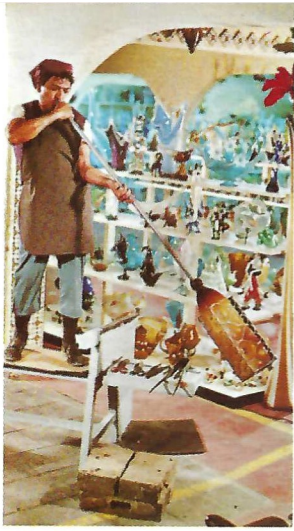

El Paso's economy is diversified. One of the major cotton clothing manufacturing centers of the world, the city of more than 300,000 also has oil, cattle, mineral refining and agriculture industries. There are many military establishments including Fort Bliss, William Beaumont Army Hospital and nearby White Sands Missile Range and Holloman Air Force Base.

El Paso's cultural life is full and varied. It is the home of the University of Texas at El Paso. It has a fine symphony orchestra, theatre organization, and its International Museum is the home of a Kress Art Collection. El Pasoans can also sample the best in Mexican culture.

Together Juarez and El Paso form a truly "International City."

History of Juarez

From humble beginnings, Ciudad Juarez has grown into a modern city with a promising and bright future, but still tied by culture and custom to its past.

The beginning of what is now Juarez goes back to 1659. Even before that there were goings and comings by Spaniards in the vicinity. Spanish conquerors were camping in the Pass of the North long before the first English-speaking colony was planted in Jamestown.

After Cortez conquered Mexico in 1521, Spanish conquest, Christianity and colonization spread slowly into the wilderness to the north. Cabeza De Baca, a shipwrecked Spaniard, wandered westward across the continent and crossed the Rio Grande at or near Juarez in 1536. Several expeditions passed up the river into New Mexico; and in 1598 Juan de Oñate, crossing the sand south of Juarez, made camp seventeen miles below the present site of the city. Continuing upstream, Oñate, on May 4, 1598, crossed the river at a ford near a place where the stream cut through the mountains. This ford and pass through the mountains was destined by geography to become an important way station for the Spaniards, who called it El Paso del Norte—The Pass of the North.

Dwelling along the Rio Grande near the Pass at the time was a wild, non-agricultural tribe of Indians called Mansos. Oñate and his missionaries paid them little attention; they pressed northward into New Mexico to the populous pueblo regions. Long after colonizing New Mexico, the Spaniards turned their attention back to the Mansos. So it was that the settlement of El Paso del Norte came from the North, rather than the South.

The man who had most to do with the actual founding of what was to become the city of Juarez was a brown-robed Franciscan priest named Fray García de San Francisco y Zuñiga. Fray García, judging from reports of his associates, was a remarkable man. After founding the mission of Socorro in New Mexico, Fray García went to El Paso in 1659. García got all the Mansos together and "offered them the evangelical word." Fray García named the congregation "El Paso" and dedicated a little church to the Virgin Guadalupe, the Patron Saint of Mexico. Thus began the settlement of the permanent community which is now Ciudad Juarez. Soon the temporary mission buildings were replaced by more substantial structures, and García dedicated the cornerstone on April 2, 1662. During the Indian Rebellion in 1680, El Paso del Norte became the provisional capital of New Mexico province. It was at El Paso that the Spaniards gathered their strength for the reconquest of New Mexico, which was completed in 1693.

In 1827, an El Paso del Norte resident named Juan María Ponce de León crossed the Rio Grande and established a ranch on the north bank, thereby becoming the first settler of what was to become El Paso, Texas. But it was not until the 1840's and 50's that the Anglo-Saxons began to enter the Pass in numbers. The French invaded Mexico and drove President Benito Juárez from Mexico City in 1862 and enthroned Maximilian and the Empress Carlota who began to reign in a blaze of glory and extravagance. President Juárez was driven from pillar to post. At last he had to flee to El Paso del Norte.

But even in Mexico's darkest hour a silver lining had edged the clouds of despair. From sympathizers in the United States came supplies, weapons and financial assistance. At last the tide turned, and on June 17, 1866, the residents of El Paso saw their black-frosted president ride out of town to the south in his shabby carriage. A year later his forces were triumphant.

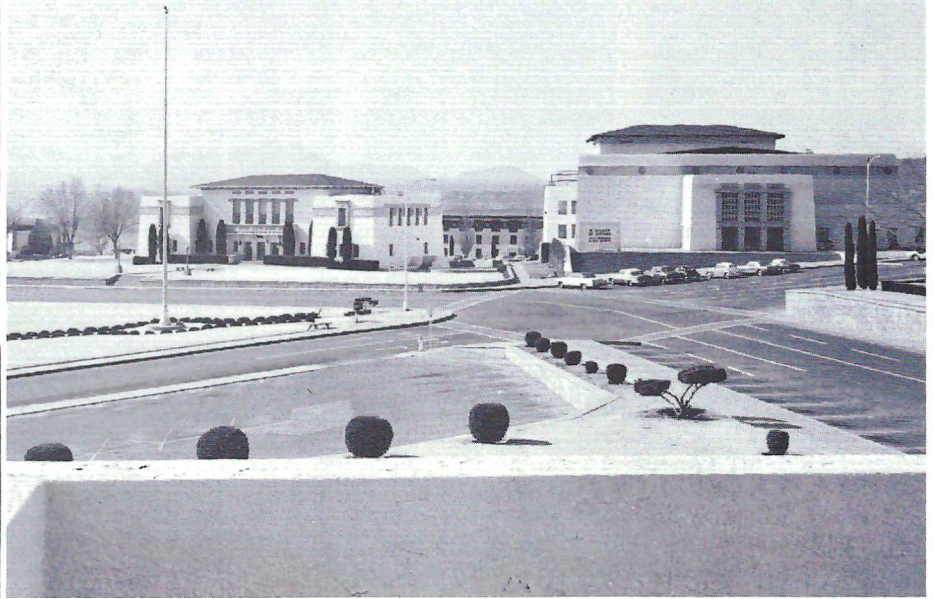

The border city in 1888 changed its name from El Paso del Norte to Ciudad Juárez in honor of its famous guest. A monument to Mexico's benefactor now stands in Benito Juárez Park.

In 1909 President Diaz and Taft met on the international bridge between Juárez and El Paso in a demonstration of the goodwill which existed between the two republics. The recent settlement of the Chamizal Dispute is evidence of this continuing understanding.

The University of Texas at El Paso

Times are changing at THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT EL PASO, formerly Texas Western College and even with only a one-year absence, the returning Sun Carnival visitor will see the changes and hear them.

There's the name for one thing: even reducing it to UTEP, it will still sound and look strange to those who recall it as simply TWC. The new designation, as Dr. Joseph M. Ray, president of the College puts it, is a move toward closer identification with the Main University in Austin. "We are still a college," Dr. Ray says, "but we are moving and growing and gaining stature. We do not forget our traditions but neither do we minimize our progress."

The progress president Ray pridefully notes will be easily evident to each Sun Carnival visitor: an enrollment of over 8,000; a $2 million Science-Mathematics building rising from the arroyo southeast of the Administration Building; plans for a $2.5 million addition to the Student Union Building and a $1.5 million expansion of the campus Library. The $6 million in construction, some underway and some in planning stages, is one of the signs of the changing face of the College.

But other changes and progress are not so readily evident. There is the matter of increased library holdings (over 200,000 volumes), the rapidly growing number of Ph.D's in the faculty ranks (128 compared to 76 in fiscal year 1965), and—helping to account for these upward changes—the growing participation of the community in gifts to the Excellence Fund and other grants to the College.

Since 1916, when the College turned out its first graduating class of three members, through June, 1966, when 380 students received degrees, THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT EL PASO-Texas Western College has granted more than 10,300 degrees including more than 1,000 master's degrees. There is also pride in the fact that some 100 graduates of the College are seeking advanced degrees in leading universities throughout the nation.

It would be a serious and noticeable omission not to add that the College flexed its athletic muscles last year and found the taste of triumph (and fame) indescribably sweet. In football, Coach Bobby Dobbs brought the Miners back from a disastrous 0-8-2 season to an 8-3 mark and an unforgettable victory over Utah on November 13. The event, called "The Turning Point" by Tom Lea, was captured in an oil painting by the El Paso author. The Miners capped the season by winning the Sun Bowl classic from TCU.

In basketball, Coach Don Haskins rolled up 28 wins and a single loss including a 72-65 victory over heavily-favored Kentucky at College Park, Maryland, for the NCAA championship. And the slogan, "We're Number One!" is still a resounding one.

"We're Number One," in fact, is a prideful cry that extends through all of UTEP, whether a fact in athletics or an ambition in other endeavors of the College.
