FSU vs North Carolina

For some reason it seems like more often, but this is just the ninth time Florida State has played in the afternoon here since Bobby Bowden came in 1976. . . The Seminoles have played just .500 football in home day games under Bowden, posting a 4-4 record. . . Bowden's home night record is 42-7. . . The daytime problems may stem from playing tougher opposition in those early encounters. . .

FLORIDA STATE'S HOME DAY GAMES UNDER BOBBY BOWDEN WON 4, LOST 4 (at night: 42-7)

DATE	OPPONENT	REASON	W/L	SCORE
Nov. 2, 1985	Miami	ABC-TV	L	27-35
Sept. 21, 1985	Memphis State	WTBS	W	19-10
Dec. 1, 1984	Florida	ABC-TV	L	17-27
Nov. 14, 1981	Southern Mississippi	ABC-TV	L	14-58
Nov. 7, 1981	Miami	ABC-TV	L	19-27
Nov. 22, 1980	Florida	ABC-TV	W	17-13
Nov. 8, 1980	Virginia Tech	ABC-TV	W	31-7
Nov. 18, 1978	Navy	ABC-TV	W	38-6

The SuperStation has been good to Florida State over the years since Ted Turner's group jumped into college football. . . This will be the seventh time WTBS has carried the Seminoles—that's more than any other college team. . . FSU's first appearance on TBS was against Louisville in 1982. . . Three times the Seminoles made the network last season. . .

Along those lines, Florida State continues to be one of the most televised teams in the USA. . . This is the ninth network opportunity for FSU in the last 15 games. . . The Michigan game will make it 10 of 16. . . Didn't ABC do a great job on the Nebraska game?

Too bad all Seminole fans didn't have an opportunity to go to the FSU-North Carolina game last year in Chapel Hill. . . If there is a prettier setting anywhere in college football I don't know where it might be. . . This appears to be the final regular season meeting of these two teams. . . That's too bad—I wouldn't mind seeing those Carolina Blue jerseys another time.

Perhaps not many teams can say, like Florida State, that they have played two games and the jury is still out on their future. . . Toledo may have been too weak to get a reading and Nebraska too strong. . . Today's game might be the true acid test for these 1986 Seminoles.

I know Bobby Bowden hopes the first half this year is better than the one of 1985. . . His Seminoles turned the ball over to the Tar Heels five times before the intermission. . . Never has a team felt luckier to be down only 10-0 at halftime. . . That might go down as one of the worst offensive halves in recent memory. . . The second half at Nebraska wasn't far behind.

A FLORIDA STATE WIN

- . . . Would give Florida State a 3-0 in the series against North Carolina
- . . . Would give Florida State a 22-14-1 all-time series record against current ACC team
- . . . Would give Florida State a 3-2 record in last 5 games
- . . . Would give Florida State a 7-3 record in last 10 games
- . . . Would give Florida State a 11-4 record in last 15 games
- . . . Would give Florida State a 14-6 record in last 20 games
- . . . Would give Florida State a 85-33-2 record under Bobby Bowden
- . . . Would give Florida State a 22-10-1 record in television games under Bobby Bowden
- . . . Would give Florida State a 28-17-2 all-time record in television games
- . . . Would give Florida State an all-time record of 235-163-15
- . . . Would give Florida State an all-time coaching record of 158-65-2
- . . . Would give Florida State an all-time coaching record of 8-4 against current ACC teams

Derek Schmidt has made 91 consecutive extra points since he came to Florida State. . . He needs nine more to qualify on a percentage basis as an NCAA leader. . . Alabama's Van Tiffin has a streak of more than 100 straight in his career, but he is a senior. . . Uwe VonSchamann holds the NCAA consecutive mark with 125. . . Schmidt has the rest of this year and another full year to go.

Derek had one of the more underrated field goals I've seen in the game against North Carolina last year. . . With 2:17 to play he broke up a 10-10 tie with a pressure-packed 51-yarder. . . When Martin Mayhew intercepted a Carolina pass and returned it for a touchdown with 50 seconds to play, Schmidt's field goal was almost forgotten.

A small contingent of band members from FSU's Marching Chiefs made the long drive to Lincoln, Neb., for the game. . . Just when the Nebraska pep band was getting warmed up for its annual Friday night visit to Misty's (a local pub), here came the familiar strains of the Florida State fight song. . . Suddenly, in the midst of this rowdy place bulging with Husker-mania, there was a battle of bands. . . Bob Milton, the owner of Misty's, told me it turned into one of the most spirited nights ever in his establishment. . . "First time in history," he said, "we've had the other team's band in here with ours."

Two of Florida State's top performers are no strangers to this North Carolina team. . . FSU quarterback Chip Ferguson grew up in Charlotte and his parents still reside there. . . You'd be hard-pressed to find a finer set of parents than Chip's—Charlie and Pat are first class folks. . . Defensive tackle Steve Gabbard hails from Concord, N.C.

North Carolina kicker Kenny Miller is probably glad to see the Seminoles again. . . In last year's game, Miller kicked a school record 54-yarder. . . But Miller has lost his first string position to Lee Gliarmis and instead will be the punter and kickoff man. . . But word out of the UNC Sports Information Office is that if it's a long try, expect to see Miller.

Doing It With Class— These Seminoles Make the Grade

By Dan Pearson, Assistant Editor

Stereotypes die hard. For as long as college football has been popular, the image of the "dumb jock" fumbling through basket weaving classes has been with us.

Fortunately stereotypes do not provide a true reflection of life. Proposition 48, stringent rules for admittance to Florida State and the enactment of a unique academic enhancement program has assured that at FSU, student-athletes will always be students first and athletes second. Academic advisor Brian Mand noted recently that 13 players on scholarship maintained 3.0 (B) averages or better during the entire academic year and he believes that today's football players are concerned about graduating. "The times of a college athlete just taking cake courses to stay eligible are over", Mand says. "This was caused mainly by the satisfactory progress rule, where athletes had to pass a certain amount of hours that could be applied to a degree program. But I really sense a difference in attitude. I believe your typical athlete is very much interested in earning his degree. I believe he wants to take advantage of his situation; you don't see too many guys just worried about staying eligible." A look at the Florida State roster confirms that. Thirty-three players list their major in the fields of business, economics, finance or accounting. Biology, computer science, management, engineering and communications are also listed as majors by many more players—all are considered to be challenging academically.

Mand's assumption about that attitude change may very well be valid. ABC-TV sent a World News Tonight crew to Tallahassee last week as part of a special report on college athletes. During the week's interviews, a cross section of 20 players were asked numerous questions about their academic and athletic lifestyles. Surprisingly, almost all players responded that graduating from college was their main reason for accepting an athletic scholarship. Many talked about personal commitments made to parents to graduate and also talked about the uncertainty of playing professional football.

This new attitude is personified in football players Darrin Holloman, David Palmer and Martin Mayhew. Although their career goals and interests vary greatly, their commitment to academics and eventual graduation from Florida State is the same.

Darrin Holloman Economics Major-3rd Year ROTC

Called "My Little Man" by coach Bobby Bowden, Darrin Holloman is in his second year of starting for Florida State. An exciting player, Holloman snagged 20 passes last year for 323 yards and three scores. He's off to a good start in 1986, with an 18.8 average and 94 yards on five catches. An all-state player for Gene Cox at Leon High, Holloman has always made excellent grades in the classroom as well as on the playing field.

An economics major, he is also in his third year of the Air Force ROTC program at Florida State. Although the "Little Man" tag holds true because of his 5-7, 169 lb. frame, Holloman has nothing but very "big dreams" for the future. He maintains a 3.0 average in his major—one considered mentally challenging and among the more difficult at FSU.

After graduation, Darrin will be commissioned as a second Lieutenant in the Air Force. He hopes to secure a position as a pilot, while possibly continuing his studies in economics. Upon completion of his military obligations, he aspires to become a commercial airlines pilot and a stockbroker. Holloman believes that getting an education should be the top priority of every athlete.

"Too many good players in high school think they will go to college and then play pro football," Holloman says. "If I could offer advice to every high school player good enough to play college ball it would be to use that scholarship to get your degree. Football to me is a very worthwhile thing, but it doesn't last forever. You could be the greatest player in the world but after you use your eligibility, you would drift from memory. You have a chance to get a degree—if you use it wisely, it can lead to success in other fields down the road."

Holloman is making good use of his chance. Although he finds the time requirements of college football demanding, he says that making good use of free time is the key. "We play football because we love it; nobody's making us do it," Holloman says. "Players may not have time to get involved in a lot of things other students do socially, but special interests occupy the time of a lot of students—not just football players. It's totally possible to play athletics and graduate. It all comes down to making the best use of your time."

David Palmer Biological Sciences

Although it never came easy to him at Florida State, academic success has always been a priority for David Palmer. He says he plays football because he loves it; but he works hard on the books for a more important reason—he wants to become a doctor.

"I guess I've always wanted to become a physician," he says. "Because of that I've always tried to get good grades. I know that will be important for getting into medical school."

Palmer has maintained almost a 3.4 average since he arrived at Florida State in 1984. That lofty grade point average includes many tough chemistry and biology courses. But Palmer believes that combining academics and athletics is a challenge and not a pressure situation. "It's difficult to do both; I wouldn't be honest if I said it wasn't," Palmer says. "But is anything worth accomplishing easy? My parents never had to pressure me to do well in school because they knew it was important to me personally to get good grades. That has carried over to my college career."

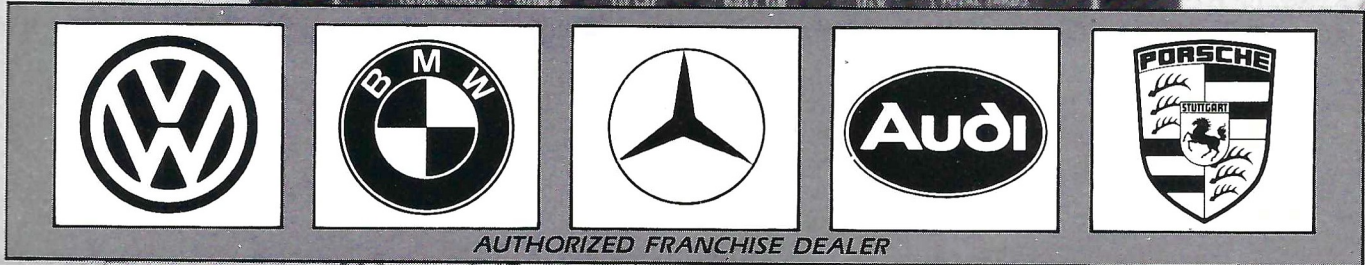

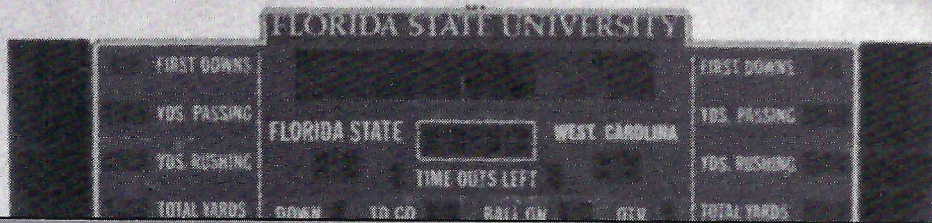

Instead of blaming athletics for poor performance in the classroom, Palmer believes today's problems deal with maturity. "Anyone who accepts a scholarship and doesn't try to graduate is really cheating themselves," Palmer says. "I realize that some guys just can't do the work for one reason or another, but I think that sort of thing isn't that much of a factor. But mainly the problem lies with maturity. Most guys can do the work, they just have to sit down and realize that it's important to go to class, it's important to do the work and it's important to graduate."

Like Holloman, Palmer says time management is the key to academic success for the athlete. "Socially you can't do as much as an average student because so much of your time is tied to football," he says. "I found that to be successful in the classroom requires using my time wisely. I take my books on the road and I study during the day between class and practice. It's not easy, but an athlete can be a student and vice-versa."

A special teams player for the last two years, Palmer became a starter in the Toledo game this year and help secure FSU's 24-0 win with a 7-yard touchdown run. He was selected to the United States Achievement Academy's Academic All-American team last year.

LEASING

He Gets A Kick Out of His Job

By Chris Sears

It's a bustling morning in Indianapolis and like any successful businessman, Rohn Stark must be at the office. His day is filled with several meetings, special segments and tedious work.

"Monday through Friday, I have to be in at 9:00 in the morning and I won't leave until 5:30 p.m.," Stark says. "It's a long day."

But Stark isn't your typical white collar worker. The former Florida State All-America is employed by the Indianapolis Colts and is the top ranked punter in the National Football League.

The 26-year old Stark learned his trade early in life.

"When I was 11 to 12 years old, I would pick up a football and kick it down field 40 to 45 yards," he says. "The ball would go up, spiral and turn over. I haven't changed a thing since I competed in the punt, pass and kick competition. I've been punting so long that it's a reflex."

Stark used his skills to star in football, basketball and track at Minnesota's Pine River High School, and accepted an appointment to the Air Force Academy—a decision which as it turns out would have ended any chance of professional football.

After eight months, he decided to leave the Academy to marry his grade school and high school sweetheart Anne.

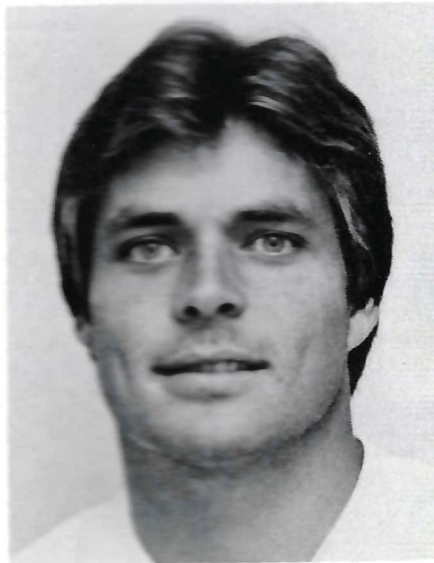

Stark had not been home one month before John Crowe, an Air Force assistant coach and four-year letterman for the Seminoles, called former Florida State assistant coach Bob Harbison and recommended Stark as a top punting prospect.

The Minnesota native visited the Tallahassee campus and signed a letter-of-intent with the Seminoles. Stark went on to rewrite the Tribe's record book, as he currently owns records for the highest average in a game (54.8), season (46.0) and career (42.7), as well as most punts in a career (224) and career yardage (10,418).

"In my 26 year coaching career, I've never had a better punter," FSU coach Bobby Bowden said about Stark in 1979. "You're talking about a very gifted athlete."

The 1986 Florida State Hall of Fame inductee consistently saved his best efforts for situations when they were needed.

"I think I'm ready to give my best performance in situations where it's really needed," Stark says. "In college I had my best games against the Nebraska's and Pittsburgh's."

Seminole fans can never forget Stark's part in FSU wins over Nebraska and Pittsburgh in 1980. In the Tribe's win over the Cornhuskers in Lincoln, Stark rocketed seven punts for a 51.1 average and kept third-ranked Nebraska pinned deep in its own territory all afternoon to preserve a narrow 18-14 upset.

He came back the following week to average 48.1 yards per kick in Florida State's 36-22 win over top-ranked Pittsburgh in Tallahassee. United Press International selected Stark the Southeastern Defensive Player of the Week for his play against the Panthers. Stark became the first punter to ever receive the award.

"Those two games stand out in my mind more than any other, because both games were close and came down to the kicking game," Stark says.

The consecutive wins over Nebraska and Pittsburgh, along with FSU's appearances in the Orange Bowl, exposed Stark to the national media which selected him a consensus All-America following both his junior and senior seasons. As a finance major, Stark was also tabbed an Academic All-America in 1981.

Stark says that since joining the Colts five years ago, he has spoken to several coaches who highly regard the Florida State program.

"The Colts coaches are amazed at the caliber of teams Bobby Bowden produces," Stark says.

Stark's prowess in athletics at FSU was not just limited to the football field. Setting a school record 7,612 points, Stark earned All-America honors in the decathlon in 1980, and even had thoughts of competing in the Olympics.

But the Colts quickly changed his mind when they acquired him early in the second round of the 1982 NFL draft.

"In the first contract I signed, they wanted a clause in the contract saying I wouldn't train for the Olympics," Stark says. "When they draft you in the second round it's a pretty good investment."

Indianapolis' investment has been paying dividends ever since. During his first four seasons, Stark has been the most consistent performer on a team that has won just 17 of 57 games during that span.

"I'm a consistent performer week in and week out," says Stark, who saw FSU tally a 35-11 record during his collegiate career. "I think over the past four years I've performed as well as anybody." A closer look at Stark's accomplishments points this out.

The left-footer averaged 44.9 yards per kick during his first three seasons in the NFL. He has been named to virtually every All-Rookie and All-Pro team possible.

Indianapolis rewarded Stark prior to the 1985 season with a new contract, which, according to the Sporting News, is worth over $1,000,000.

Stark responded in 1985 by sending 78 punts into the atmosphere and averaging 45.9 yards per kick—outdistancing second place Reggie Robey of Miami by over two yards a kick. He was selected to the Pro Bowl.

Don Hienrich writes in Pro Preview '86 "On a weak team, the punter's role is magnified and Rohn's up to the challenge. His leg isn't the strongest, though it ranks in the top four, but his technique and explosion through the ball is textbook perfect."

Stark, who resides in Indianapolis with his wife Anne and their two-year-old son Rohn, passed two milestones in 1985. Amazingly, when the Buffalo Bills blocked one of his punts, it marked the first time Stark had a punt blocked at either Florida State or Indianapolis.

But more importantly, Stark proved he was one of the best in the history of the game by breaking a mark held by Hall of Famer Sammy Baugh.

"Last year against New England with my 300th kick in the NFL, I qualified for the career average category," he says. "Right now I have the all-time career highest average in the NFL which means I've kicked farther than anybody else."

University Leaders

Dr. Bernard F. Sliger

University President

Dr. Bernard F. Sliger has served as the 10th president of Florida State University since February 7, 1977, following a six-month stint as the University's interim president.

After he joined the administration in 1972 as executive vice president, he assumed the additional duties of chief academic officer, and further served as director of the University's London Study Center during the fall quarter, 1975.

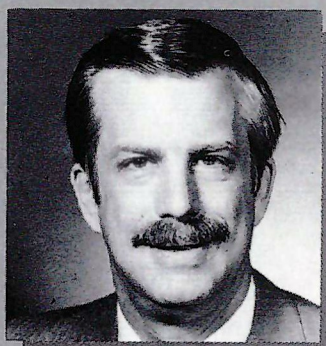

Sliger, a native of Trout Creek, Mich., was born Sept. 30, 1924. He holds three degrees, the B.A. ('49), M.A. ('50) and Ph.D. ('55), from Michigan State University, all in economics. He also has done postdoctoral study in mathematical economics at the University of Minnesota. Sliger has taught at Florida State, Michigan State, Louisiana State and at Southern University in Baton Rouge, La.

Sliger began his educational career as an instructor in Michigan's Interior Township Schools in 1947. Prior to joining Florida State, he worked for 19 years as a professor and administrator at Louisiana State University. During that time, he served LSU as head of the economics department, member and chairman of the graduate council, dean of academic affairs and vice chancellor. In 1969, he organized the Louisiana Coordinating Council for Higher Education, which is similar to the Florida Board of Regents, and became its executive director.

Sliger holds memberships in a number of professional, scholastic and honor societies, including Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi and Alpha Kappa Psi. Since 1983, he has been a member of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta and presently serves as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American College Testing Corporation in Iowa City, Iowa. He also is a member of the Council of Presidents for the Southeastern Universities Research Association, based in Newport News, Va. He is active in a number of other civic and academic organizations.

Sliger and his wife, Greta, have two sons, Paul and Sten, and two daughters, Nan and Greta.

Charles W. Ehrhardt

Faculty Athletic Committee Chairman

A professor of Law at Florida State University since 1967, Charles W. Ehrhardt is beginning his third year as Chairman of the FSU Athletic Committee.

Ehrhardt served on the committee from 1969-71, and was reappointed to the board in 1983. He succeeded Dr. James Jones as chairman in 1984, and became Florida State's representative to the NCAA with the appointment.

A native of Elkader, Iowa, Ehrhardt received a bachelor's degree from Iowa State University in 1962. Two years later he earned his law degree from the University of Iowa and went on to become an Assistant United States Attorney in that state before coming to Tallahassee.

A widely-respected expert in the field of Evidence, Ehrhardt holds the Florida State position as the Ladd Professor of Evidence. He wrote the Florida Evidence Code, passed by the state legislature in 1976, which deals with the admissibility of evidence in court trials. Ehrhardt is also the author of a book on evidence, first published in 1977 and scheduled for a second edition soon.

In the spring of 1984, he was voted President of the Metro Conference, a position which makes him chief representative of the league in dealings with the NCAA.

Ehrhardt and his wife, the former Judy Sutton, have three children.

Athletic Director C.W. "Hootie" Ingram

Athletic Director Hootie Ingram and his wife Toni

On one wall of his office at the Coyle E. Moore Athletic Center, Hootie Ingram proudly displays an array of photographs of FSU's facilities. Those pictures hardly resemble those that might have been found when he first occupied FSU's athletic director's chair in 1981.

Needless to say, there's been quite a change.

Following a legislative appropriation in 1981 providing money for state schools to improve athletic facilities, Ingram assembled a committee of staff and boosters to line up the changes needed to be made at Florida State. "We had just come off the good football year of 1980 and we wanted the other sports to prosper as well," Ingram said.

Florida State was able to combine money provided by the state government and a supplement from the Seminole Boosters, Inc. Ingram and the committee went to work. They initiated a total renovation of the Bim Stults Aquatic Center, which Ingram described as being in "horrible shape" before the improvement; built Seminole Stadium, one of the finest collegiate baseball stadiums in the southeast; installed a rekortan surface at Mike Long Track and added vast improvements to the spectator areas; built a new softball facility; renovated Tully Gym offices; expanded and made much-needed improvements to Doak Campbell Stadium; and provided Florida State athletics with a home in the form of Coyle E. Moore Athletic Center, which Ingram calls "the heart and soul of Seminole Athletics."

"We had been putting band-aids on all the facilities before and just getting by," Ingram said. He also said that just five years ago Florida State had been at a recruiting disadvantage with the facilities that existed. "When prospective student-athletes come to visit Florida State now, they see nice facilities where they will play and practice. That appeals to them and it helps bring in better athletes," said Ingram.

As overseer of the athletic department operating budget, Ingram took a budget that had been steadily rising and made cuts necessary to keep it in check. But he is quick to share the credit. "To make the cuts we did without losing any sports is a credit to our coaches," he said.

Ingram also said that the success of the football team (four consecutive bowl games) and its many recent television appearances has played a big part in the balancing of the operating budget.

The importance of having reserves to fall back on is another area Ingram has stressed. "We are approaching a sound financial operation, but we need another year like last year and we must continue to monitor all phases of our program," he said. His philosophy recently paid off as FSU finished with a surplus in the athletic fund for last year.

Aside from his accomplishments at Florida State, Ingram also serves the University on a national level as a representative on the College Football Association Television Committee and as a representative on the NCAA Council. "It's a great experience and hard work, but I'm pleased that our University can contribute answers to national problems," he said.

Ingram's duties on the CFA television committee, where he represents southern independent schools, center around negotiating television contracts with ABC and ESPN.

As a member of the 44-member NCAA Council, Ingram is the chairman of the nominating committee which nominates the major officers of the NCAA and makes decisions on new council members when nominated. Being on the Council helps him keep up with rules and regulations that need to be known. "It's like the Supreme Court of the NCAA," he said.

During his college athletic career, which spans a period of 25 years, Ingram has seen how it works from all sides. He played at the University of Alabama from 1951 to 1954 and was named all-SEC as a sophomore when he led the nation in pass interceptions. He has coached on the high school level as an assistant at Bradenton (FL) Manatee High School and served as head coach at Tuscaloosa (AL) Brookwood High School. He then moved into the college coaching arena as an assistant at Wake Forest and later worked at Virginia Tech, Georgia and Arkansas before accepting the head coach job at Clemson in 1970, where he served for three years.

Ingram then moved into administration, accepting a job with the Southeastern Conference as Assistant Commissioner in 1973. His duties included supervision of football and basketball officials, rules interpretation and eligibility. After five years as assistant commissioner, he was named associate commissioner in 1978 until 1981 when FSU called upon him to lead its department.

Head Coach Bobby Bowden

Underneath it all, there can be no question that Bowden is a great football coach. In a day and time when success is measured by wins and losses, just take a look at his yardstick. Only five of America's division I head coaches have won more football games. Only nine division I coaches have a better winning percentage.

Since he set foot in Seminole territory in 1976, Bowden's Florida State teams have played 117 games. He has won 83 of those. And nobody, but nobody, has played a consistently tougher schedule. But this isn't a story of wins and losses. Those figures are well-documented. This is the story of Bobby Bowden the man.

What Bobby Bowden gives Florida

State goes much deeper than just a football coach. Encompassed in this 56-year-old fireball is the very essence of Florida State football. He is the spokesman, the personality, the heart and soul of the program he has built into a national power. Never assuming that he is bigger than the program itself. Bowden has been able to mold it into a family that reflects his philosophy.

Quite simply, what he does on the football field is only a small portion of what makes this man tick. With a never-ending supply of energy, Bowden, it seems, has never slowed down since the family doctor whacked him on the fanny on Nov. 8, 1929 in Birmingham, Ala.

As good as Bowden has become at winning football games, he just may have missed his true calling in life. He would be an absolute gem as a (1) public relations man; (2) salesman; (3) motivational speaker; (4) golf pro; (5) politician; (6) teacher; (7) minister; or (8) comedian. It just might be that the right combination of all of those Bowden traits is what makes great football coaches.

Bobby Bowden loves people. He thrives on public contact. He loves to talk and he's darn good at it. Most of all, he loves to talk with whomever will listen. There are no status lines with this man. President Reagan may very well have a 15-minute wait outside the coach's office while he finishes his interview with the Gadsden County Times. But even Ronnie would find it worth the wait. From the moment Bobby stands up from his chair with the familiar "Hey, buddy," you feel like you're the first human he's seen in weeks. It's a rare man indeed who can make everyone seem just a little bit special.

How about this revelation: Bobby Bowden gets along fantastically with the media. Let's take it a step further. Bobby Bowden likes the media. He studies and understands the media and its function. He is, very possibly, as comfortable in a room full of sportswriters as in a coaches' meeting. In some ways, talking to the press has become therapy for him—a way to unwind after a big game or relax before one.

His magic has touched the press. He is painfully sincere with them. He goes out of his way to accommodate them. And he does it in a way that is not phony. You can't fool these people over a long haul. Journalists are perhaps the most skeptical of all breeds and yet those who have dealt with Bowden not only respect him, but many times marvel at his openness and honesty. A vast majority even count him as a friend.

It would be hard to imagine any other coach as aware of the media and in tune with its business. He reads newspaper clips from throughout the South on a daily basis. One day without clips puts him on edge. He studies the writers, knows their styles and remembers what they write and when. Invariably he will make a written or verbal comment about a story that was particularly well done. Writers are continually amazed by his attentiveness and retention of their respective work.

And he shows no favoritism to the "print" side either. Once he came out of the locker room 30 minutes before kickoff in Lincoln, Nebraska, to do a live sideline interview with an Omaha TV station. Most coaches would be tough to corral anytime inside 24 hours before kickoff, much less 30 minutes.

Yes sir, Florida State is a favorite stop for those folks. It's a dream "beat" thanks to Bobby.

Bowden has another ingredient that projects a positive image for Florida State. He is a truly great speaker. He is an absolute smash on the banquet circuit. His talks are informative, inspirational, entertaining and funny. Through the years Bowden has become increasingly quick-witted. His off-the-cuff remarks have become legendary—many of them printed in various publications. He is an outstanding joke-teller, as well, and has the art that keeps his audiences rolling in the aisles.

Most importantly, he has not lost the ability to laugh at himself. This man who many place on a pedestal is only human and he goes out of his way to admit it. Many of his funniest stories come from true every-day-life human situations. Bobby's wife, Ann, many times takes some ribbing. A polished speaker herself, she never hesitates to give it back to the coach. Never were two people so perfectly matched.

The Bowdens are extremely family conscious. Parents of six children and an ever-increasing number of grandchildren, they can't seem to find enough time to get together. At least once a year they try to rally the clan and that is a very special time.

With three sons and a son-in-law in the coaching profession Bowden tells of how Ann now lives and dies by the scores of all her son's teams. Saturday night phone calls of each of them signals a happy weekend or a sad one around the Bowden household. Tommy Bowden is the offensive coordinator at Duke and Terry is an assistant coach at Akron. Son-in-law Jack Hines—married to daughter Robin—is on Bowden's staff at FSU, as is Bowden's youngest, Jeff. All four played college football under Bobby.

A fourth Bowden son, Steve, is a Baptist minister in Alabama, and Ginger, the youngest daughter, lives in Ft. Walton Beach, Fla., with her husband, former FSU player John Madden. Football is in the blood of this family!

There is one thing that sits atop of this with The Coach. God. Bobby Bowden is a very religious man. He does not curse, does not smoke or drink. He is around those who do much of the time. But he is the kind who teaches by quiet example, not loud talk. Bobby saves his preaching for the pulpit.

He is called on to preach to congregations throughout the area. He does so as often as he can, many times sacrificing precious free time he could spend at home.

Through all of the demands on his time, Bobby Bowden, maintains a strong control over his football team. He does not sidestep the problems that arise when 100 young men are involved. He has his set rules and they are adhered to completely. Players who don't follow the rules are dealt with by the Coach himself. All players are treated alike in his area. Bowden has suspended or dismissed players with great athletic ability as well as those without.

He is a man who is too good to be true. Solid citizen, family man, optimistic, enthusiastic, energetic, God-fearing Bobby Bowden. There is just one other thing. Bobby Bowden hates to lose. He is a fierce competitor whose drive to succeed has led him to where he is today. If his football record isn't a case in point, try him on the golf course.

"I'd play 36 holes a day if I had the time," he says. "I really would. It gives me a chance to compete—and I love to compete. I don't even have to have an opponent. I can compete by myself—for low score—and have a great time."

Bowden claims golf is a way to let off steam—his one recreational outlet. "When I go after something, I go after it hard," he says. "It has always been that way. I don't know—it's in my blood."

It seems that Florida State football has always been in Bowden's blood as well. He's the man who will forevermore be known as the savior of the program. The traits that have made Bobby Bowden what he is are not all that unique. But, it's the wonderful blend of all of the above that make Florida State fans everywhere glad he's our coach.

Champions of Florida State

By Nick Gandy, Staff Writer

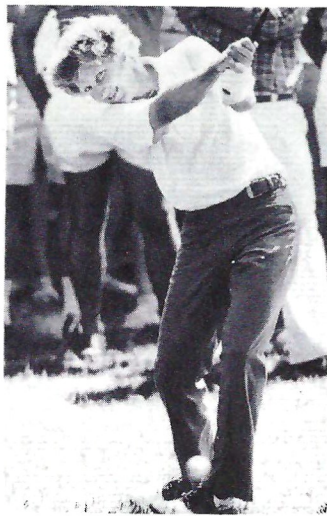

The goal of any great athlete who comes out of college is to reach the professional level in his or her sport. Once accomplished, the next goal becomes reaching the pinnacle of success on that level.

Over the last year, five former Florida State athletes have accomplished the goal of being the best in their fields: golfers Kenny Knox and Jane Geddes, basketball star Mitchell Wiggins, wide receiver Dennis McKinnon and baseball coach Dick Howser.

Knox and Geddes have both won major tournaments during the past PGA tour, with Knox winning the Honda Classic and Geddes winning, back-to-back, the U.S. Open and the Boston Five Classic. Wiggins participated in the NBA Championships as a member of the Houston Rockets and McKinnon was a starter for the World Champion Chicago Bears in Super Bowl XX. Former FSU baseball player Dick Howser managed the Kansas City Royals to the 1985 World Series title.

Knox, who played golf at FSU from 1974 to 1978, was on the verge of giving up the tour before he headed to Coral Springs in early March this year for the Honda Classic. It would be his last shot at professional golf. Little did he know that the tournament would change his golf future.

"I was in a situation where I needed to make a move," Knox said. "Winning the Classic opened a lot of doors for me and helped me compete on a higher level. I'm proud of the fact that I'm playing well. I have not been complacent or satisfied with the one win. I want to be the best golfer I can be."

Kenny Knox

Jane Geddes

Leading the field after 36 rounds, the little-known Knox quickly became a favorite of the Eagle Trace Country Club crowd after shooting a seven-under-par 137. He had slipped two shots out of the lead on the tournament's third day—the cold and windy first of March. "I shot an 80 on the third day," he said. "But it was a terrible day; the average score of all the golfers that day was a 79.2, so I wasn't hurt that badly."

In winning the tournament, Knox received $90,000 as well as a car and other prizes. Additionally, he does not have to qualify for any PGA tournament events through 1988.

Geddes' road has not been quite as hard as Knox's. But in four years on the LPGA tour, Geddes, who played on FSU's 1981 national championship team, had not won a tournament. Then she won two.

The playing conditions at the 1986 U.S. Open were anything but favorable. Earlier in the week, a train carrying poison gas derailed 10 miles from the course. The fumes caused a mass evacuation and several golfers had to relocate. An earthquake registering 4.2 on the Richter scale (yes, an earthquake in Kettering, Ohio) sent torrential rains and lightning to test the players' nerves.

Putting the adversity aside, Geddes was tied with 1980 Open champion Sally Little after 72 holes. The next day Geddes and Little had an 18-hole playoff to break the 287 tie. Geddes shot a 71, beating Little by two strokes to win her first tournament. She became the 11th woman in history to make the Open her first win.

College Football—A Changing Game

When Ohio State all-America Ted Smith lined up at offensive guard in the fall of 1975, he blocked under the same rules as Yale's Roswell Tripp did 70 years earlier.

However, if Smith had tried to use some of the techniques now legal in college football, he would have seen more flags than at a Band Day halftime show.

Since 1975 there have been four major rules changes dictating the use of hands in blocking. In fact, one of the most noticeable trends in college football rules changes recently has been to cut down on the constraints under which blockers played for most of this century.

"There is no question but that the biggest change in our rules recently has been the use of arms and hands by offensive linemen," said Georgia Tech Coach Bill Curry, himself a standout center at Tech in the early 1960s. "The rules changes have brought about a monumental alteration of the game. The character of blocking has changed completely."

What has led to these changes?

It has been said by some, especially defensive coaches, that the blocking rules have been modified to open up offenses, help passing attacks, put more points on the scoreboard and get more people in the stands.

David Nelson, secretary-editor of the NCAA Football Rules Committee, doesn't agree with that premise.

"Most changes are made to bring the rules around to the way the game is being coached, played and officiated," said Nelson, dean of the College of Physical Education, Athletics and Recreation at Delaware. "And usually we're four or five years behind the game when we make the changes."

"For example, the hand rules were liberalized after passing became more prominent, not before. The changes were made to keep up with the way the game already was being coached and officiated."

The changes in blocking rules started in 1976. Before that time, a player had to have his closed fists in contact with his body when blocking an opponent. Beginning in 1976, a blocker was allowed a one-half extension of his arms.

Then came sweeping revisions in 1980 and 1981. First the retreat block became legal, allowing a blocker to fully extend his arms. He could not be moving forward, and had to keep his arms in the framework of his body and that of his opponent's. The rule was modified the following year, allowing open hands.

Last fall it became legal for a blocker anywhere on the field to fully extend his arms, as long as he kept his hands open and inside the framework of his body.

"The retreat block is obviously an advantage in the passing game," said Nelson. "But the latest change in the use of hands helps the blocker in the running and kicking aspects of the game, too."

That change may be the last in rules governing blocking.

"There is no way the use of hands can be liberalized any further unless players are allowed to hold," said Nelson. "And regardless of the changes that have been made, the holding rule is the same today as it was the first time the game was played. You have never been able to hold or clasp an opponent."

Although the NCAA Football Rules Committee makes the changes, the suggestions for rules modifications come from a number of sources.

"Two forces really dictate the changes," said Nelson. "The NCAA Competitive Safeguards Committee is the first. When the committee makes a recommendation on a safety point, we make the change. They've researched their data fully and we cannot afford to turn them down."

"And we can't make a rule change without the support of the coaches. They have the votes on the committee to block any change they don't like."

Generally, coaches seem to have no problems with the recent rules modifications.

"Our coaches are satisfied and have adjusted to the changes," said Charley McClenon, executive director of the American Football Coaches Association. "What has really pleased them are the changes that have made the game safer for the players."

That's been the greatest trend of all in recent years."

Nelson said there have been more rules adjustments aimed at player safety in the last 15 years than in the previous history of the game. These changes have included elimination of blocking below the waist, mandatory mouthpieces, changes in helmet requirements, prohibition of the chop block, more protection for the passer and automatic first downs on defensive personal fouls.

The latter rule change is one of only a few that will go into effect this season. Others include moving the kickoffs back to the 35-yard line, eliminating loss-of-down from the penalty for offensive linemen downfield, clarification of roughing the passer, and actually bringing the duties and responsibilities of the officials into the rules book.

"The rules now are as good as I can remember," said Nelson. "That's supported by the small number of changes this year. Most of them are clarifications and mechanics. That's an indication the game has stabilized."

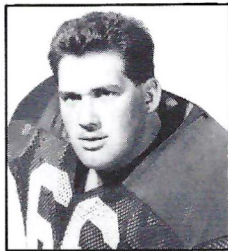

But that doesn't mean rules are set.

"In 1876 the first rules numbered 61," said Nelson. "Now there are 748. Originally the rules were simple. Now there are more than 80 exceptions to them. Football is simply a dynamic game, a game of changes."

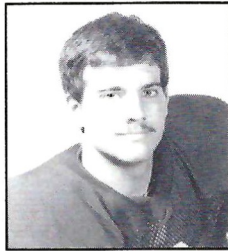

The rules will continue to be evidence of that.

Seminole Saturday Night Fever

Garnet and Gold balloons fill the stands at Doak Campbell Stadium as 60,000 fans await another action-packed Saturday night of Seminole Football.

Suddenly all heads turn to the north endzone as the Seminoles, led by head coach Bobby Bowden, burst out of the tunnel from the locker room onto the playing field following Chief Osceola and Renegade.

Renegade, a large Appaloosa horse, gallops the length of the field. Perched atop Renegade, holding a 10-foot flaming spear, is Chief Osceola. The Chief wears an authentic costume designed specifically for Florida State by Seminole Indians. His face is covered with grease-based makeup, giving him an Indian-reddish tint. Garnet and Gold stripes have been added in FSU Seminole fashion.

The 16 Seminole cheerleaders encourage the Campbell Stadium crowd as mascot Tommy Hawk pounds an intimidating beat on Big Sam, the Seminole Victory Drum. The fans move their arms in unison to the Scalp 'Em cheer following the beat of the drum. Renegade fidgets and shakes his head from side to side, awaiting the end of the coin toss proceedings. Chief Osceola shakes the spear over his head and the crowd roars its approval.

The game captains and referees leave midfield. The excitement of the crowd is reaching its peak. Renegade and Chief Osceola gallop to the 50-yard-line. Renegade rears up on his hind legs and Chief Osceola plants the fiery spear into the turf. This is what the crowd of 60,000 has been waiting for.

The roar of the crowd is deafening. The moment the spear hits the ground, thousands of balloons are released, filling the Tallahassee sky with garnet and gold while the Marching Chiefs play the FSU fight song in the background.

It is one of college football's greatest opening shows. But, it's just another Seminole Saturday night that has become the heart and soul of Seminole football.

Seminole Songs

ALMA MATER

High o'er the towering pines our voices swell,
Praising those Gothic spires we love so well,
Here sons and daughters stand, faithful and true.
Hailing our ALMA MATER, FSU.

FIGHT SONG

©Music by Thomas Wright

Words by Doug Alley

You've got to fight, fight, fight, for FSU.
You've got to scalp 'em Seminoles.
You've got to win, win, win, win this game and roll on down to make those goals.
For FSU is on the warpath now and at the battle's end, she's great
So fight, fight, fight to victory, our Seminoles from Florida State.
(Yell) F-L-O-R-I-D-A S-T-A-T-E
Florida State! Florida State! Florida State!
(Repeat Song)

The Marching Chiefs

The Marching Chiefs, some 350 members strong, are the band behind the Florida State fight song. They are as much a part of college football in Tallahassee as the game itself.

Since 1951, the Chiefs have provided football fans with the best in upbeat musical entertainment in their pregame and halftime shows.

The Chiefs' entourage includes feature twirlers, majorettes and flag girls representing every school and college in the university. In addition to home game performances, the Chiefs have traveled to many out of town games to cheer on the Seminoles. FSU's regional and national TV appearances have also put them in the living rooms of millions of viewers, including thousands of Seminole alumni across the country.

Under the direction of Bentley Shellhammer, director of the Chiefs; Charles Carter, associate director and arranger; graduate assistants David Legette and Jim Taylor; and graduate staff assistants Rich Greenwood, Jim Byo, Dean Cirkle and Jay Kloecker, the 1986 Marching Chiefs will greet Seminole fans with the familiar style that has entertained millions in the past.

Mc GROTHA BRINGS YOU SEMINOLE FOOTBALL

For the 34th consecutive season, the Democrat's Florida State football coverage will be spearheaded by Bill McGrotha. A native of Georgia, McGrotha has been the Democrat's sports editor since 1953, missing less than 10 Seminole football games in that span. Winner of numerous national and state awards in his distinguished career, McGrotha is currently president of the Florida Sportswriters Association. A member for more than 30 years of the Football Writers Association of America, McGrotha brings a keen eye to Florida State Football. For his insight and more, read the Democrat daily for your Seminole football coverage.

U.S. Choice W D Brand Beef

...enjoy the Big, Bold Goodness of the West!

Nothing compares to the taste of a U.S. Choice steak or roast from Winn Dixie. We carefully select our beef from heavy western corn-fed livestock, and age it naturally for tender, juicy perfection. Then it's expertly cut and trimmed for the best flavor and value.

You can see the difference, and taste the difference. No other beef sold is quite the same...or quite so good.

The Freshmen Talk

Compiled By Andy Surratt

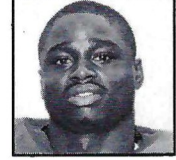

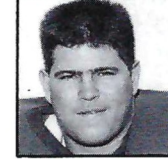

TOP ROW:

Joe Jordan (OG)
Hayward Haynes (OG)
Chris Nicolas (ILB)

NEXT ROW:

Eric Luallen (OT)
Magdi El Shahawy (NG)
Dexter Carter (TB)

ABOUT ADJUSTING TO COLLEGE FOOTBALL . . .

Joe Jordan: I had to deal with the hotter and more humid weather of Tallahassee. Also, I had to learn a whole new set of techniques, since I was moved from tight end to guard during two-a-days.

Eric Luallen: Like most of the freshmen, I was a high school standout. Now everybody is a high school standout, and I had to get used to being the new guy starting all over again. Two-a-days were very difficult at first.

ABOUT EXPECTATIONS . . .

Magdi El Shahawy: I want to find out if I am going to be redshirted, but mainly I want to learn the system well enough to fit into the program this year and all four years.

Dexter Carter: I want to learn the system and to help the team in any way I can.

ABOUT EMBARRASSING MOMENTS AT FSU . . .

Chris Nicolas: I was caught asleep during a team meeting and had to stand during the rest of the meeting.

Joe Jordan: The toilet at the apartment complex clogged up and flooded my apartment, and six others, too. It seems that only a freshman could have that happen. What a mess!

Magdi El Shahawy: I was pulled over by a campus policeman for making an illegal left turn on campus.

ABOUT CHOOSING FSU . . .

Dexter Carter: When I attended the Bobby Bowden Camp, I made up my mind that I wanted to attend FSU.

Chris Nicolas: I chose FSU over Miami because of the college-town atmosphere of Tallahassee.

ABOUT THEIR MOST EXCITING MOMENT AT FSU . . .

Joe Jordan: When my family and friends came to the first game against Toledo to watch me play was exciting. Also making the traveling squad to Nebraska and being able to go to Michigan where I have some relatives will be exciting.

Hayward Haynes: Dressing out in the first game was a new experience for me . . . seeing 60,000 people in the stands.

ABOUT ROOMMATES . . .

Magdi El Shahawy: Joe Jordan is a great guy, but he is wrapped up with his girlfriend most of the time.

Joe Jordan: Magdi and I spend free time together since we've known each other a while . . . we're both from Sarasota. He's a great guy even though he talks about me.

Chris Nicolas: There is one problem with Eric Luallen; the guy keeps me awake at night with his snoring. It is outrageous.

Eric Luallen: Sometimes Chris gets carried away about my snoring, but I have not snored that much lately that I know of.

ABOUT THE UPPER CLASSMEN . . .

Magdi El Shahawy: Most of the upper classmen have been a great deal of help; for me mainly encouragement from Gerald Nichols.

Eric Luallen: They all have been great; I was surprised because of all the rumors I heard about the silly little things the upper classmen make freshmen do. The worst was when one of the freshmen had to sing his high school fight song. Otherwise everyone has been great, especially Eric Hayes. There is a lot of team unity.

Volleyball Action Heats Up

FSU Defending Metro Crown

By Tania G. Giauque, Staff Writer

If you've never seen the sport of volleyball played before, you owe it to yourself, your family and the ones you love.

If you've never witnessed a 5-7 girl leap 28 inches off the floor and hammer a ball down into the face of an opponent, then you have not seen the sport of volleyball at its finest.

I'm not talking about the kind of volleyball played in the backyard during family get togethers when all the relatives have just gorged themselves on fried chicken and pumpkin pie.

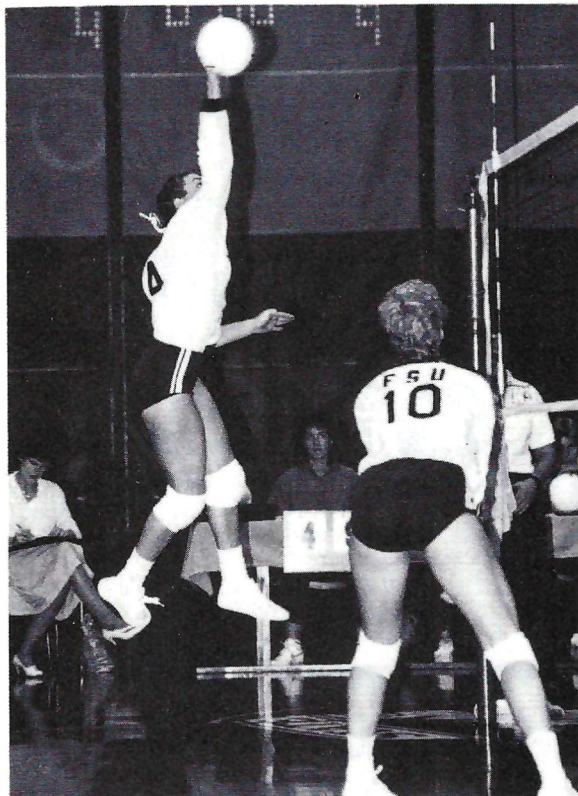

I'm talking about women, who for the last seven to 10 years of their lives have dedicated themselves to the fine tuning of their techniques...women who have spent hours laboring over their timing at the net, and the mastery of their footwork. These collegiate athletes have developed the sport into one of sheer finesse and excitement for the crowd that dares to view.

East Coast volleyball has not yet emerged into a volleyball region dynasty like that of the West. For the past few years California has pumped out top 10 volleyball teams as handily as Florida has cranked out top-ranked football prodigees.

While driving down the West Coast, it's probable to spot as many top ranked volleyball powers as palm trees.

Yet as far as geographic location, California has nothing on Florida. They have sun and sand. We have sun and sand.

Most importantly though, Florida State has women who are well-versed in their knowledge and skill level of the sport; not to mention a dedicated coaching staff that begins with 11th-year head coach Cecile Reynaud. Assisting Reynaud this year will be a pair of former FSU volleyball players, Shelly Birkholz, and graduate assistant Donna Krai. Krai, who graduated last year, garnered all-Conference and all-Metro tournament honors. Krai also received the Metro-medallion award which honors athletes which maintain a 3.0 GPA or better.

This year the FSU squad prepares to protect its Metro Conference title that was won last year after ending conference play 7-1. The Lady Seminoles finished their season with a 22-10 overall record.

"This year is no different for us," said Reynaud. "There isn't any reason why these girls aren't capable of repeating as conference champions."

The Lady Seminoles have won the Metro Conference championship two out of the past three years, and if senior Joan Morris has anything to say about it, they will win the title again. Morris comes from Hollywood, Florida and is one of the captains and the only senior on this year's young squad. Morris obviously found her niche last year after Reynaud moved her to outside hitter.

With some health care programs you never know who your next doctor may be.

Can we afford to leave our personal physician behind?
That's the question most often asked when an employer considers switching to an alternative form of health coverage.

For the employer or benefits manager weighing these choices, MetLife HealthCare NetworkSM of Florida, Inc. has a solution.

The answer: Bring back the neighborhood physician.
Establish a network of doctors your people can trust.
Offer employees their own personal physicians with convenient office locations. Offer them freedom of choice.
Meanwhile, offer this service—and many more—at a price employers can afford.

MetLife HealthCare Network has many more ways to personalize your company's health plans. To find out how individual you can be, call Burt Bevis at 386-6595. You will be amazed at your options, and pleased with how affordable we can be.

Game Plan for Progress.

In just three short years, a game plan that commits us to Florida as our home field has made Florida Progress one of the largest publicly-held corporations in the state.

We're over 8,000 employees strong. We're members of the Fortune 500, listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Our team of affiliates is helping to create a new Florida in a wide range of fields including manufacturing, agriculture, mining, energy, chemical separation, financial services, business forms and packaging. Our Talquin Corporation, for example, is developing Gadsden Station, a business park for the entertainment and light manufacturing industry, just minutes from the University campus at the intersection of I-10 and Hwy. 90. And our coverage goes beyond state lines, throughout the sunbelt from Texas to Virginia, and internationally into Japan and the Netherlands.

We're one of a number of companies who see progress today as a home game. We're drafting Florida talent, to help build Florida's future.

We invite you to join us in moving toward your goals by making Florida an important part of your game plan.

It's smart. It's effective. And everybody wins.

He's Footloose and Fancy Free

By Dan Pearson, Assistant Editor

Parrish Barwick has the reputation of being a free spirit. There was the time in 1984 when he reported to training camp with bright orange hair; and he played along with the "punk"-look remarks from teammates.

During his sophomore year, he was spotted in the wee hours of the morning in Tallahassee—wearing a trench coat and sneakers.

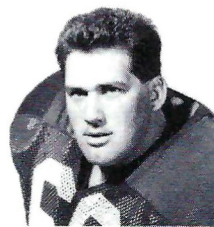

In 1985, team captain Jamie Dukes decided that it would look classy if Florida State team members purchased blazers to wear on road trips. Barwick, wearing flowered jams and a purple tee shirt, revolted—claiming the jackets went against his style.

Free-spirited? Yes. But according to Barwick, there has always been a method and reason behind the madness. "I like to have fun, but there's usually a story behind it," Barwick says. "There's generally a reason for everything I do. If it makes people laugh, I'll go along with it."

The fifth-year offensive lineman explains that the orange hair was a total accident. "I wanted to lighten up my hair a little and someone told me peroxide would do the trick," he says. "I used it regularly before each shower and nothing happened. One summer morning, I put it on my hair in the shower before I went out to work on one of our crab boats and I didn't wash it out enough. A day in the sun turned it totally orange. When I had to report for camp, it was still orange and I started to get some ribbing about the new punk look, so I played it to the hilt."

The trench coat story also has a reasonable (??) explanation. "I just was going through a period where I was having a difficult time falling asleep," Barwick says. "When I'd go for a late night walk, it would relax me. I thought the trench coat and sneakers looked funny and would get a doubletake, so I started wearing them. I was always clothed underneath, but I did get some stares."

About the blazers, Barwick says he likes nice clothes as well as the next guy. "Hey, I had already bought four custom suits for the year. I like to dress up nice. When Jamie came up with the idea of uniformity, I wasn't revolting against it that much. It's just that I thought it was ridiculous to buy a coat I didn't particularly like. I do pick my clothes out carefully and I just didn't want to wear that jacket."

Parrish Barwick

If his off field behavior sometimes appears strange, his playing career has also been strange. A talented player who led Wakulla High to two consecutive state championships in football, in addition to being a state wrestling and weight lifting champion, Barwick came to Florida State as a promising freshman in 1982.

During that year, he quickly moved up the depth chart and played enough to letter. Unfortunately, a series of foot injuries made that year the highlight of his career. "Without question, it was the bright spot of my four years at Florida State prior to this season," he says. "Playing in the second game of the season against Pittsburgh was my biggest thrill. I think they were ranked in the top five at the the time and here I was two games into college my freshman year playing against Pitt. It really made me feel that I belonged at this level. It answered a lot of questions for me."

But then the troubles came. He was redshirted his sophomore year after breaking his foot a week before the season began. It healed, but snapped again in a softball game before spring practice. Although cracked, Barwick played both guard and center that fall—doing a splendid job in his first shot at center in a 52-44 win over Arizona State.

Last fall, Barwick was ready to battle for the starting center's job when it happened again—a break occurred during a blocking drill. He played in only the last five games of the year—with a special shoe. In the spring, he decided to have a second operation on the foot. This time a bone graft was performed and a pin was placed in his foot.

But Barwick began to doubt whether the trouble was worth it. "I really thought about quitting several times," he says. "The injuries were really dragging my attitude down. I guess the bottom line after the second operation was let's give it one more shot. That's really the only reason I decided to come back. I never really quit anything in my life and I didn't want to start."

Barwick says that he will always think about what might have happened if he had remained healthy. "I never had a serious injury in high school or my first year here," Barwick says. "It

Some people set higher standards for themselves. They come out early. And stay late. Funny, how they're usually the winners.

At Ricoh, we set higher product standards. And we put in that extra effort. Maybe that's why Ricoh's line of copiers, digital facsimile, laser printers, and shredders are setting new standards of performance in today's modern office. And that's why Ricoh cameras are winning the attention of amateurs and professionals alike in the world of photography.

Be a winner. Demand that extra effort. Ask for Ricoh. We Respond.

The race-winning Corvette of Rippie/Anderson Motorsports.
Tires: Goodyear Eagle VR S "Gatorback" street radials.*

The fact that both of these Corvettes are on Goodyear Eagle street radials is no coincidence.

The 1986 Corvette Convertible.
Factory specified tires: Goodyear Eagle VR "Gatorback" street radials.

Every Corvette made since 1984 comes with just one make of tire: the Goodyear Eagle VR "Gatorback" street radial.

Which is no coincidence.

Because the Eagle VR "Gatorback" was developed specifically for the Corvette's tremendous cornering, handling and speed capabilities.

Considering the performance of the Eagle VR "Gatorback," it's not surprising that successful

SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance racing teams like Rippie/Anderson also choose an Eagle street radial.*

The Eagle VR S "Gatorback," a version of the Eagle VR "Gatorback" made for ultimate grip rather than ultimate treadlife.

The success of both the Eagle VR and VR S "Gatorbacks" has a common source:

Goodyear's ability to engineer better high-performance radials. For virtually every performance car.

So it's really no coincidence that the Eagle VR is to be found on every Corvette made.

Or that the Eagle VR S is the favorite tire of people who race Corvettes in the SCCA Showroom Stock Endurance Series.

In fact, when you think of how the Eagles perform, it's no coincidence at all.

*Tires shaved to racing depth. Before you race on Goodyear street radials, write the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, P.O. Box 9125, Akron, Ohio 44305 for preparation recommendations and procedures.

YOU EITHER HAVE GOODYEAR EAGLES. OR YOU NEED THEM.

North Carolina Scouting Report

By Angie Bitting, UNC Sports Information Office

Eric Lewis hauls in a TD catch in 1985.

In 1986, the University of North Carolina football team may well be on a mission. After successive years of 5-5-1 and 5-6, the Tar Heels of 1986 want to be competitive for an Atlantic Coast Conference title and a bowl bid. And they seem well on their way to doing just that so far this season with impressive wins over The Citadel 45-14 and Kansas 20-0.

Carolina enters Doak S. Campbell Stadium this afternoon with several missions in mind as well. The Tar Heels won't just be seeking their third win of the season this September afternoon. No, 1985 and the closeness of an upset victory are still etched in the minds of some Tar Heels.

Ten of 22 starters return from last year's squad which saw Carolina fall in the final quarter of play to the then-ninth-ranked Seminoles of Florida State in Kenan Stadium. After leading 10-0 at the half and 10-3 after three quarters of play, Carolina's bid for an upset was shattered by the Seminoles. Quarterback Chip Ferguson drove FSU 77 yards and connected with Hassan Jones for a 10-yard touchdown reception and a 10-10 deadlock. Carolina was forced to punt on the ensuing possession and the Seminoles again drove downfield, this time for a Derek Schmidt 51-yard field goal. With 2:11 remaining in the game, the Tar Heels were given a final chance to take a win, but Seminole cornerback Martin Mayhew intercepted quarterback Kevin Anthony's final pass and returned it 62 yards for a touchdown as time ran out.

Carolina therefore carries the memory of that outgoing into today's game with an eager readiness to face the challenge of a multi-talented Florida State team.

UNC has only faced the Seminoles' challenge twice in its football history and both times with head coach Dick Crum at the helm. The first meeting was in a cold December of 1983 as Florida State took a Peach Bowl win handily by a 28-3 score. And then there was last year's loss in Chapel Hill. Crum, who is in his ninth year with the Heels and holds a 62-31-2 record during that tenure, led Carolina to four straight bowl wins from 1979-1982 and is optimistic this year's team may reach similar goals.

Offensively, Carolina has shown it is capable of both the running and passing game in its victories over The Citadel and Kansas. With a beefed up offensive line on hand that averages 279 pounds a man, UNC has been able to run and pass more effectively in 1986.

The offensive line is led by All-America candidate and pre-season All-ACC pick Harris Barton. The senior tackle just might be the most dominating lineman in the ACC and has led a line that has helped Carolina amass 974 yards of total offense so far this year. And lead is the word. The opposite tackle, sophomore Creighton Incorminias, had only started three games going into the season. Such was the case with center Jeff Garnica, while right guard Pat Crowley, a red-shirt freshman, began his collegiate playing career this season. Left guard Ralph Phifer started eight games at center last year, but is making his first start at left guard.

Though the line is young, it has proved effective in its protection of UNC quarterback Jonathan Hall. Hall returns to the signal-calling position this season after coming on late last year to start three games. In 1986 he has completed 13 of 29 passes for 212 yards and two touchdowns, one of which was a 55-yard completion to William Humes against Kansas.

Humes, a senior tailback who has been slowed by injuries his first three seasons, leads a balanced running attack for Carolina in addition to his receiving capabilities. The starting tailback has carried the football 36 times for 161 yards and two touchdowns. Also look for junior fullback Brad Lopp and junior tailback Eric Starr to carry the ball a lot today. Lopp is a powerful, all-round back and Starr is a steady rusher and punt return man. Starr is averaging 13.5 yards a return, including a 50-yard scamper against The Citadel. Sophomore Derrick Fenner gained 216 yards in the season opener, but missed the plane to Kansas.

Carolina also has a talented pool of receivers in returning veterans Eric Streater and Eric Lewis at the wide-out positions. Streater, who became the school's 16th leading receiver against The Citadel, has five receptions for 99 yards and a touchdown so far this season.

The Tar Heels are also young defensively with only one senior in a starting position. But the "Kiddie Corps" of 1984 and '85 have grown strong through trial by fire and are led by All-ACC defensive tackle Reuben Davis, noseman Tim Goad, linebackers Brett Rudolph and Mitch Wike and cornerback Derrick Donald. All are considered top all-star candidates in 1986 and several have already been very impressive in Carolina's first two wins.

Donald, who was injured in last year's Florida State game and missed the remainder of the 1985 season, has come back in top form. Against The Citadel, he pulled down two interceptions, and against the Jayhawks he was prominent in keeping Kansas from scoring. Donald blocked two field goal attempts early in the game and then made the key stop to end a Kansas drive at the UNC one-yard line in the final seconds of the game. Wike also had a good day against Kansas, recovering a fumble and picking off two passes.

In the kicking department, junior Kenny Miller has proven effective as the punting replacement for the graduated Tommy Barnhardt. He also handles the kickoff duties and long-range field goals. Senior Lee Gliarmis will be doing the other place-kicking chores and has hit 3-3 field goals and 8-8 PATs in 1986.

Martin Mayhew Management

A fourth-year junior, Martin Mayhew has also found success on both the gridiron and academic field. A second year starter, Mayhew made 69 tackles last year with three interceptions and nine pass deflections. Off the field, his 3.2 grade average earned him second-team honors on CoSIDA's GTE Academic All-America team.

Mayhew believes that poor preparation is one reason some student athletes experience grade trouble in college. "Some guys are just poorly prepared to enter college. They either came from weak schools or just took the wrong subjects or weren't ready to enter college. By the time some got here it was too late," Mayhew says. "But with the exception of those people, it's entirely possible to play football and still earn a degree."

Because he entered school during the spring semester after graduating early from Florida High School, Mayhew could possibly graduate before his eligibility expires. Regardless of whether he does or not, he plans to enter the field of business upon the conclusion of his playing days. "I would like to join a large corporation as a middle manager," he says. "I haven't given it a lot of thought, but I really enjoy my major and I believe that is what I would most like to do after my playing days are over."

Academics has always been important to Mayhew. He was a finalist for a National Merit Scholarship, as well as an all-state player at Florida High. "I really didn't have super grades in high school," Mayhew says. "But that was because I don't believe in cramming for exams. You can cram all night for a test, get an A, and then forget about what you were supposed to learn. From that standpoint, I still don't get the type of grades that I could get, but I believe I am learning things. I enjoy going to class and I think I retain a lot of the material I'm supposed to."

As far as the athletic/academic conflict, Mayhew believes that both an education and a college football career is possible. "It's harder for me to keep my studies up during the season," Mayhew says. "But it's not overbearing. I think the average player can do it. You just have to budget your time carefully."

ABOUT THE COVER

Florida State players Martin Mayhew, David Palmer and Darrin Holloman examine materials at the Mildred and Claude Pepper Library in Dodd Hall.

Dedicated on May 15, 1985, The Mildred and Claude Pepper Library contains the official and personal papers, photographs, recordings and memorabilia of Congressman Claude Pepper, who is perhaps the best known and most active senator and representative in Florida history.

The extensive collection, spanning the years 1910 to the present, was donated by the Congressman Pepper as a tribute to his wife Mildred Webster Pepper, who was a student at Florida State College for Women (later becoming Florida State University) from 1924-1929.

Included in the 750,000 item collection are personal letters from Winston Churchill, Franklin D. and Eleanor Roosevelt, Harry Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson.

The next week, Geddes came storming back to take the Boston Five with a one-stroke win over rookie Deb Richard. The two wins netted Geddes close to $100,000.

A next trend in basketball is to develop a sixth man, one who can come off the bench at any time without the starting lineup missing a beat. Mitchell Wiggins, a Seminole between 1981 and 1983, did just that for the Western Conference champion Rockets.

Mitchell Wiggins

The 6-4 guard played in 78 of the 82 regular season games last year, averaging 15 minutes of playing time and 7.0 points per game. But he turned some heads in the opening game of the Western Conference finals when he came off the bench to score 24 points in 26 minutes. His outstanding performance could not overcome the 31 points scored by Kareem Abdul-Jabaar and 26 by Magic Johnson as the Rockets suffered their only loss of the L.A. series by a 119-107 margin.

Wiggins' strong finish in the 1985-86 season puts him in a position to challenge for a starting spot for the upcoming season according to Jim Foley, director of public relations for the Rockets. "Mitchell saw about the same amount of playing time as Lewis Lloyd in the championship series and he did very well," Foley said. "He will definitely be looked at in the upcoming season." Wiggins took care of some personal business soon after the series, marrying former FSU All-American and Olympic track star Marita Payne.

In his third year as a Chicago Bear, one-time free agent McKinnon enjoyed another productive season, pacing the team in TD catches (7) and finishing second in receiving yards (555). McKinnon made some dynamic contributions to the Super Bowl Champion Bears; he caught touchdown passes of 25 and 43 yards in the third quarter of the Bears' 33-24 comeback win over the Minnesota Vikings during the regular season. In the wild-card playoff game vs. the New York Giants, McKinnon again hauled in touchdown passes of 23 and 20 yards enroute to a 21-0 victory.

McKinnon was also a starter in Super Bowl XX but failed to catch any passes. Unfortunately, he will miss the entire 1986 season rehabilitating his knee after major surgery.

Led by Dick Howser, the Seminoles' batting champion in 1956 and 1957 and head coach in 1979, the Kansas City Royals literally climbed out of a hole three times to win the 1985 World Series.

In mid-July Howser's Royals found themselves 7½ games behind the division leading California Angels. The Royals found a way to surge into first place in September and clinch the American League Western Division on the next-to-last day of the 1985 regular season.

What followed was one of the most improbable comebacks in baseball history. The Royals battled back in both the American League Championship Series and the World Series to overcome 3-games-to-1 deficits against the Toronto Blue Jays and St. Louis Cardinals—a feat never accomplished since divisional playoffs began.

These alumni of FSU have accomplished the ultimate goals of their professions. Who knows, maybe one of your favorite Florida State athletes on the field today will find himself in the same position in the years to come.

STAYING IN SHAPE IS HELPING TRIM INSURANCE COSTS.

Better physical fitness can have a healthy impact on the cost of group health insurance. That's something we at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida think every employer—and employee—will be glad to know.

And to help, we've developed a whole series of new programs designed to promote wellness and contain costs. Like our Hypertension Control Program, our On The Move aerobic exercise program and our Lighten Up stress management program.

These new health improvement programs are one more way we're working to make your health insurance work better here in Florida. Ask Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida or your employer how your company can get involved. It'll be worth it in the long run. For more information, call 1-800-228-2071.

WE FIND ANSWERS.

PIZZAZZ
Pizza

The never-before taste of PIZZAZZ Pizza. Only at Taco Bell®

It's cheesy like a pizza, but it's really crisp and light. It's our new PIZZAZZ Pizza — seasoned ground beef between two crispy flour tortilla crusts, topped with our own special pizza sauce and two kinds of tangy melted cheese. Come on in and get struck by PIZZAZZ Pizza. It's different. It's new. And at Taco Bell, it's just made for you.™

THE QUALITIES OF A LEADER

COACH BOBBY BOWDEN

In January 1976, he was named Head Coach of a Florida State team with only four wins in the previous three seasons. Over the next five years, Coach Bowden led the Seminoles to 44 wins and two trips to the Orange Bowl. After 19 years as a coach, his record of total victories ranks him among the top coaches in college football. Under his leadership, Florida State has risen to the status of one of the top independent football teams in the country.

“A leader is someone who sets a good example for others. You lead by doing . . . not by talking.”

FORD TAURUS

The leading example of aerodynamic design in an American-built car is now brought to you by your Florida and South Georgia Ford Dealers. The fabulous Ford Taurus is the newest proof from Ford that they're leading the way by making Quality Job #1.

See your Florida and South Georgia Ford Dealer –

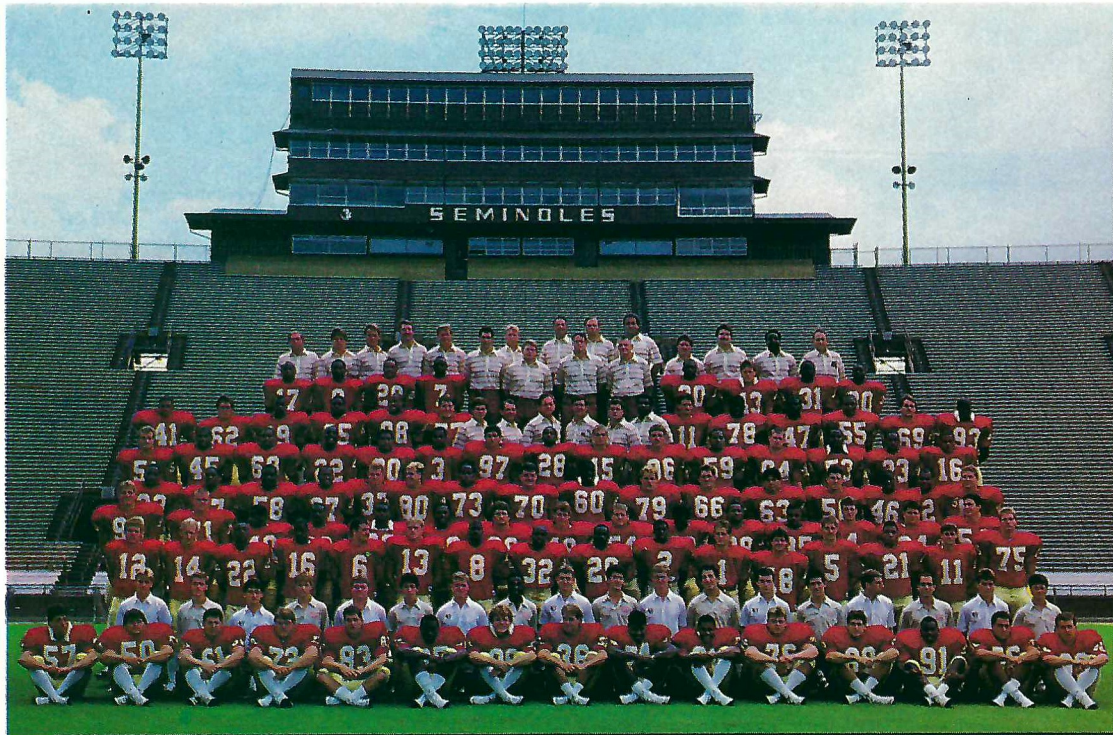

They take pride in being the leader. And they'll be proud to give you a great deal on a new Ford Taurus.

Seminole Boosters

Seminole Boosters, Inc., the University's athletic fundraising arm, is the financial cornerstone of the Tribe's athletic program. Raising over three and a half million dollars in 1986, and setting new fundraising records, Seminole Boosters continues to rank among the top six college athletic fundraising organizations in the country.

Bill Parker is 1986 National President of the Boosters. He is President of Crest Products, headquartered in Clearwater, and is the first ever Booster president to come from outside Leon County.

"It is appropriate that in this first year of having an "out-of-town" president, the greatest portion of our contributions—for the first year in our history—has come from outside the Tallahassee area. This is especially exciting because contributions from Tallahassee and Leon County are their highest ever. Our other big areas—Jacksonville, Orlando, Palm Beach, Pinellas, Tampa, Pensacola, etc.— are just beginning to show what they can do. Seminole Boosters is becoming a truly state-wide and nation-wide organization of Seminole supporters."

Parker has been particularly impressed with the Seminoles' vast network of volunteer fundraisers and booster club officers who lead the ten-thousand-member organization. "Our volunteers are the most important element of our operation. We employ superior professional fundraisers, and they are able to gather around them and organize the most loyal and enthusiastic alumni who devote generous amounts of their time to the program."

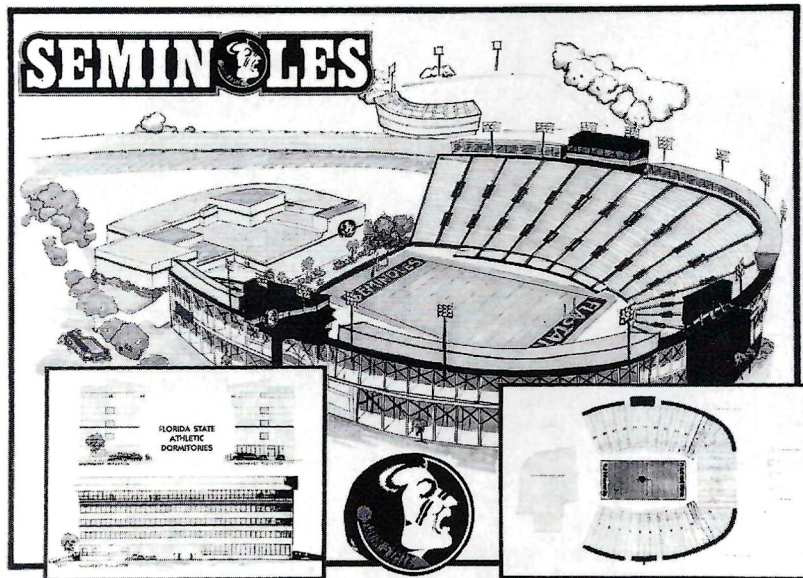

Seminole Booster funds have financed four stadium expansions in the last decade, and the construction of the Seminole Boosters' SKYBOX in 1982 has already generated hundreds of thousands of dollars in support of the athletic program.

A multitude of Seminole Booster Clubs now cover the three state area, and our Jacksonville Seminole Booster Club is the largest such club representing any school in any city in Florida. New Booster Clubs are being chartered in Newport Beach, Virginia; Dallas; Houston; and even in California.

In addition to raising annual cash contributions and maintaining the stadium gift shop and concessions operations, the Boosters are aggressively pursuing three main goals for the foreseeable future: the endowment of all athletic scholarships; the completion of a first class athletic apartments complex; and the eventual bowling-in of Doak Campbell Stadium.

This year, President Parker is aided by Vice-President Mike Fields (President, Southern Bank in Tallahassee); Secretary Andy Haggard, prominent Dade County attorney; and Treasurer Ken Cashin (President, Florida Mobile Home Supply).

Members of the Executive Committee include Athletic Director Hootie Ingram; administrator Phil Fordyce; Regents representative DuBose Ausley; past President George Langford; Panama City television executive Rob Doll; Lake County banker Ed Brooks; entrepreneur Rod Brim; and Board Counsel Ted Steinmeyer.

Florida State University...

Home of the Seminoles

Florida State University, a coeducational institution and a senior member of the nine universities in the state system, is in Tallahassee, Florida, the state's capital.

Located just a few blocks from the Capitol, the Florida State campus is considered to be one of the most beautiful in the Southeast. The 347-acre campus is covered with hardwoods, pines and palms as well as springtime greenery that combines the blossoms of camellias, azaleas and dogwoods.

The approximately 22,500 students currently enrolled at Florida State learn from a faculty of over 1,500, which includes four members of the National Academy of Sciences.

FSU was established in 1857, when the governor of Florida, James E. Broom, signed a bill establishing the Seminary West of the Suwannee River in Tallahassee. The school consisted of one building located on 10 acres of land.

By 1860, the school, not yet a college, had an enrollment of 250. The president of the seminary organized the school into a four-year liberal arts college in 1887. At its first commencement in June 1891, degrees were conferred on two women and five men. Ten years later, the institution was renamed Florida State College. In 1905, it became Florida Female College, and in 1909 the name was changed to Florida State College for Women.

In 1945, FSCW took on the additional title, Tallahassee Branch of the University of Florida (TBUF), due to the fact that GIs stationed nearby were attending classes at the women's school, but, as men, couldn't legally enroll.

Gov. Millard Caldwell signed a bill in 1947 making both the University of Florida and FSCW coeducational. FSCW became Florida State University.

Florida State now offers students the opportunity to choose from more than 100 career options in arts and sciences, business, communication, criminology, education, engineering, home economics, law, library and information studies, music, nursing, social sciences, social work, theater and visual arts. Honors programs are available for top students.

The University has been recognized by the Board of Regents for its continuing leadership at the graduate levels of education.

Overseas study programs in fields ranging from law to hotel and restaurant administration are offered in Florence, Italy; Oxford and London, England; Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Costa Rica and the Panama Canal Zone.

The University's location in the state capital affords excellent study, research and internship opportunities in the areas of government, social sciences, law and policy sciences.

Florida State is setting the pace as higher education in Florida prepares to enter the 21st century. One of the few institutions of learning in the United States with its own supercomputer, FSU is attracting researchers from around the globe.

The Bay County Commission purchased 21 acres, 16 of which make up Phase I of the new campus. The remaining acreage will be available for expansion into technical degree programs such as engineering and science.

Social life for many students in Tallahassee centers around 24 fraternities and 20 sororities. Wind surfing, swimming and sunning are among the activities to be enjoyed at FSU's lakeside "Reservation" or along the sandy beaches of nearby coasts. In the fall, the campus goes wild for football, supporting the Seminoles both at home and away.

When it comes to intercollegiate athletics, Florida State has established a winning tradition. Both the men's and women's athletic programs are among the nation's best.

A unique extracurricular activity is the Flying High Circus, the nation's only all-collegiate circus. Students from every academic major can become stars on the flying trapeze or highwire, or in clown acts.

Florida State is growing. Construction has begun on the Florida A&M University/FSU College of Engineering Building, located adjacent to Innovation Park, two miles southwest of the FSU campus. It is expected to be completed by October 1987.

Construction began last fall on the new student union complex and construction is expected to be completed in 1987 on the Science Center Library.

Plans are also underway for a $12.1 million multipurpose student gym, approved by the 1986 Legislature, as well as improvements to the central utility plant and renovation of the old Music Building (Music School South).

The College of Law's Village Green project has begun. When completed, the $3.8 million project will feature four restored historic homes to be used as study, meeting and reception areas.

FSU President Bernard P. Sliger takes pride not only in the programs, but also in the people—students, faculty, administrators and staff—who make Florida State a successful monument to learning.

We're changing the way business sees Florida.

By setting a new standard in long distance service.

Flamingos. Beaches. Palm Trees. High speed digital telecommunications transmission.

High speed digital telecommunications transmission? Not what you normally think of when you think of Florida. Yet.

Microtel operates one of the largest contiguous, all-digital fiber optic networks in the world — from Florida.

And more and more telecommunications managers and industry experts are recognizing the fact that Microtel is setting tough new standards for the rest of the world to live up to.

How? Simply by offering the unbeatable combination of a truly state-of-the-art system backed by people who really understand it. And more importantly understand how to make that system work for you, to bring you a higher grade of — and more cost-effective — telecommunications.

Microtel offers everything from standard long distance to our WATS service, LASER WATSSM plus data and video transmission as well.

For the finest quality backed by people offering unsurpassed service, think of Florida's very own Microtel. We're not claiming the state motto will be changed to the "Fiber Optic State," but New York City didn't start as the Big Apple either.

To get the best long distance service in the world, call: 1-800-533-5023.

Student Health Center Named For NASA Astronaut Norm Thagard

Florida State University recognized NASA astronaut and alumnus Dr. Norman E. Thagard Sept. 19 with the naming of the Thagard Student Health Center.

Thagard, a mission specialist, logged 147 hours aboard the space shuttle Challenger. He flew during June 1983 on the first NASA flight to include a five-man crew and again during April 1985 on the Spacelab-3 science mission.

Born July 3, 1943, in Marianna, Fla., Thagard grew up in Jacksonville, where he graduated from Paxon Senior High School. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in engineering science in 1965 and 1966 from FSU and also subsequently completed a pre-medical curriculum at the University. He obtained a doctor of medicine degree from the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School in 1977.

Thagard, who has continued to maintain his involvement in activities at his alma mater, has been a commencement speaker and was selected as a Florida State "Grad Made Good" in 1983.

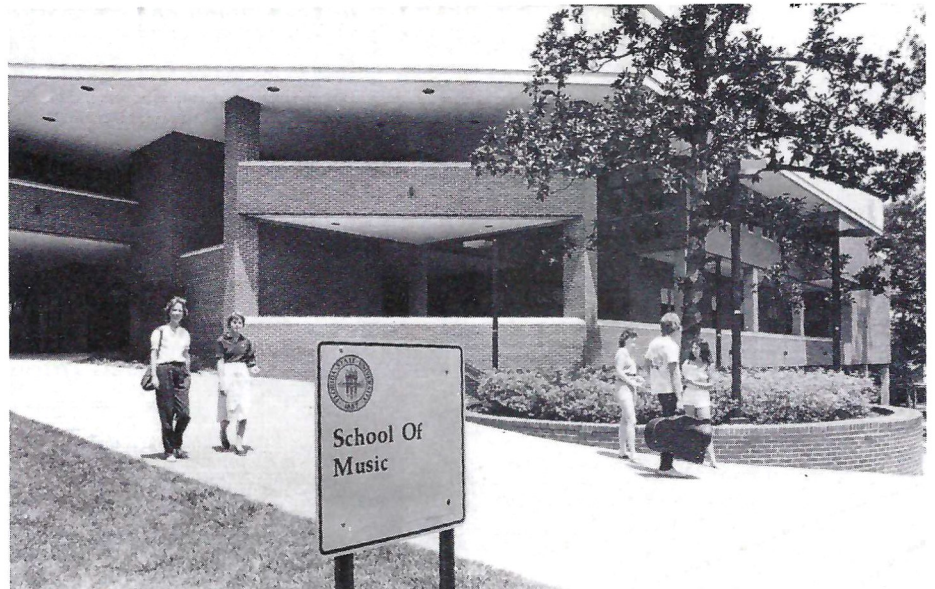

He is married to the former Kirby Johnson and has three sons.

New Music Building To Be Named For Former Dean Housewright

The new Music Building (also known as Music School North) at Florida State will be named in honor of former Music Dean Wiley L. Housewright on Oct. 14.

Housewright, who was born Oct. 17, 1913, in Wylie, Texas, provided more than five decades of service to the field of music as a distinguished educator, author, scholar, lecturer and administrator.

The music building now becomes the Housewright Building, in honor of the former dean of music.

He joined the faculty of the FSU School of Music in 1947 as professor of music education and conductor of the University Singers. In 1961, he was honored by his colleagues as Distinguished Professor of the Year, and in 1966, was appointed dean of the School of Music, a position he held until his retirement in 1979.

Housewright and his wife, Lucilla, also have established the Housewright Eminent Scholar Chair in Music at Florida State.

Two Great Teams Working Hard To Be The Best.

Every time the Seminoles charge onto the field, each player summons every ounce of skill, strength and energy to make this his best game ever.

At NCNB, we do essentially the same thing. Every day our tellers, banking representatives, loan officers and all the other members of NCNB's team give their all to position us as the best bank in the neighborhood.

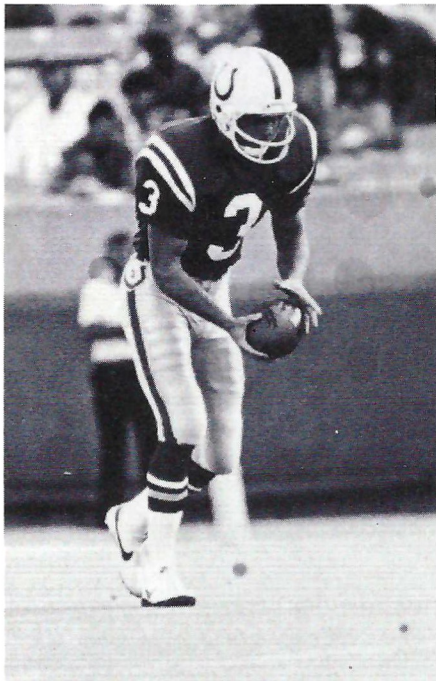

Like FSU, we know the competition out there is tough, and we have to work hard to come out on top.

So think of us when you need the strength and resources of a bank that's working to be the best. And remember when you follow the team out-of-town, you can get 24-hour cash nationwide through NCNB24, the HONOR® and Plus System® networks.

But Stark is not resting on his accomplishments. After playing for the AFC squad in February's Pro Bowl, he began his rigorous off-season program. "I reserve the offseason to working out and doing the things I need to do to have a good season the following year," Stark says. "I lift weights in order to be strong, because it's a 20 game schedule with the preseason. You have to have a strong physical base, so in week 15 or 16 you'll still be ready to play." Stark's weight training has produced muscles which bulge from his 6-3, 195 pound frame.

Together with his blue eyes and sandy blonde hair, the handsome Stark has become one of the most popular Colts in the community. He speaks at numerous functions, works with the area Special Olympics program, and set an agreement with corporated sponsors which pays local charities for every punt over 60 yards.

Besides his civic work, Stark will take on added duties with the Colts in light of the NFL reducing its roster from 49 to 45 players. Most teams like Indianapolis will employ three tight ends, which only allows the team to activate two quarterbacks.

"This year I have to learn the whole offense, just in case two quarterbacks get hurt in a game and I have to go in and play," says Stark, who will also be the holder on field goal attempts for the fifth consecutive year. "It is very complex."

Stark's performance and versatility assures himself several more seasons in the NFL.

"I would like to play 12 to 14 years," he says. "I would like to retire knowing I was the best to play my position. I think to go for anything less is selling yourself short, especially if year in and year out you've proven you can do it."

Stark has proven he is the best in the business, but not without many hours of work.

"During the week it's like another day at the office," Stark says. "It's your job and you're expected to do your job."

But don't feel sorry for Stark; he gets a kick out of his job.

"That was exactly the position that Joanie needed to be in," said Reynaud. "She really excelled and by the end of the year had received the Metro Most Valuable Player award along with conference and all-tourney honors.

"Joanie is a great leader," continued Reynaud. "When she's on the court her presence is known, not so much by what she says but by what she does. When Joanie gets a hold of a volleyball you notice her."

The Lady Seminoles have compiled an early 3-3 season record. FSU volleyball action will continue when the FSU spikers host their own final four among Florida powers-University of Florida, University of Central Florida, and the University of South Florida. The Florida Four Classic will begin Friday at 12:00 noon. When the Lady Seminoles take on South Florida.

This year marks the second annual Florida Four Classic and has Florida State returning as reigning champions.

"Whoever wins this tournament will have bragging rights among Florida schools," said Reynaud.

WHEN YOU NEED TO GO THE DISTANCE...

TMC GOES THAT EXTRA YARD.

The one thing that counts when you are on the field is performance. It takes teamwork and the right plays to get that first down.

TMC long distance has what it takes to get that extra point. Our field includes service anywhere in the Continental U.S., plus Hawaii. We offer AT&T quality network systems, so there is no interference or holding. We can break down your players into departmental account, project or client codes. So, when you're going in for the touchdown – TMC long distance will take the ball and run!

Gus A. Stavros Center For The Advance Of Free Enterprise and Economic Education

The Gus A. Stavros Center will be renovated with monies provided by its namesake.

The contributions of two Central Florida businessmen are making possible the expansion and relocation of the Gus A. Stavros Center for the Advancement of Free Enterprise and Economic Education at Florida State University.

Stavros, for whom the center is named, is chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Better Business Systems, Inc. Stavros and his wife, Frances, of Pinellas Park, made an initial challenge gift of $75,000 to the University.

In addition, Jay W. Leek, chairman and chief executive officer of Lee Enterprises International, Inc. and of Leek, Elam and Donovan, Inc., of Winter Park, has contributed $50,000.

The funds will be used to renovate the building on South Woodward Avenue in Tallahassee, once used as a residence by former FSU President Doak S. Campbell. The building will serve as the new location for the center, which presently occupies two small offices in the Hecht House on campus.

The expanded center will include space for a resource center, workrooms, a conference room, a library, a film preview room and other offices.

The center, one of eight centers comprising the Florida Council on Economic Education, serves a 12-county area in North Florida.

was frustrating after they started coming and I guess a person in that situation will always say 'what if?'"

Bobby Bowden also asks the question. "Parrish always had the tools and he has played well for us when he was healthy," he says. "Those nagging injuries just always held him down when we felt he would emerge as an outstanding player."

As for this season, Barwick just wants to play hard and take each day one at a time. "A couple times my foot has started to act up and then I start to think 'is it broke again?' But so far it has held up and I've been able to concentrate on football."

After he graduates in the spring—he needs just five hours in the second semester to finish his political science degree—Barwick talks about the possibility of law school or a shot in the pros.

"I can't think of any athlete who wouldn't want a chance of playing professionally in their sport, but it's not a goal or anything," he says. "If I get drafted, I'll give it my best shot. I am looking forward to law school though; I'd like to get accepted and possibly specialize in criminal law."

One thing he hasn't considered going into is his family's business—one of the largest east coast suppliers of seafood. "I've worked in the plant and on the boats since I was 11 or 12 and that includes summers," he says. "I've done it all from cleaning up floors to cooking crabs. It's hard work and even though I've enjoyed it, I just don't have that much interest in working in the business."

Parrish credits his family for supporting him in his decisions. "My dad will always give me an opinion, but he never puts pressure on me to make a certain decision," Parrish says. "When I was a senior and our family was fans of both FSU and Florida, Dad felt that possibly Florida might suit me better. But he told me to look at both places carefully because I was the one who would have to spend the next four or five years there."

Barwick says he has not been unhappy with the decision. "You can't spend five years of your life anywhere and say that you never had doubt or questions about whether you made the right choice, or whether it might have been different some place else. It doesn't work that way. I'm just going to try to play as hard as I can this year and have some fun."

WE ASKED BOBBY BOWDEN FOR ONE GOOD REASON WHY HARDEE'S SHOULD SPONSOR FSU ATHLETICS. HE GAVE US 42.

In 1985 alone, 42 students on athletic scholarships graduated from FSU. Their fields of study were as varied as their names and faces, but each shared a common goal: A college education . . . and those athletic scholarships were helping them get it.

Moreover, for many athletes from disadvantaged families, an athletic scholarship wasn't just the best way to an education, it was the only way. Hardee's corporate sponsorship of FSU Athletics is our way of helping these young men and women achieve their goals in life as well as on the field of play. We know that the excitement of a touchdown pass is fleeting, but the benefits of a college education go on and on.

They'll win a lot of their games, lose some . . . but in the end every graduating athlete will come out a winner. And at Hardee's, we think that's pretty special.

Proud to Be the Seminoles' Largest Corporate Sponsor
